Germany Faces Major Flooding As Snow Melts

Floodwaters Sweep Into Bonn; Army Watches 4 Rivers

FRANKFURT, Germany, March 3—UP—The snow and ice of Europe's worst cold wave of the century melted into floodwaters that swept across Germany Saturday, threatening bridges and homes.

U.S. Army units were alerted for emergency flood relief duty in West Germany, and the Sixth Armored Cavalry sent "watchdog" patrols out to scout the rising rivers.

Water washed the streets of medieval wine villages and lapped at the doorsteps of the American embassy in Bonn.

The Rhone, Moselle, Elbe and Danube rivers swelled menacingly as snow and ice melted in the thaw that set in after the month-long cold wave in February. The cold wave claimed some 1,000 lives but no deaths have been reported in the floods.

Police and dike workers said the danger was becoming graver by the hour in many valleys.

Most of the city of Schorndorf was inundated in the central state of Baden Wuerttemberg. The area at the confluence of the Rems and Neckar Rivers was described as a "huge sea."

Ice cakes piled as high as second story windows in some river villages.

The Iron Curtain was no barrier. Officials in Communist Poland were reported worried about the danger that bridges will be crushed in the breakup of ice jams.

American soldiers joined West German crews in efforts to break the ice that acts as dams for the rushing torrents. A U. S. military helicopter stood by to drop explosives on the thick ice of the Rhine River if necessary.

Scheduled Speech By Senator Morse Cancelled By LSU

BATON ROUGE, March 3 (AP) — Louisiana State University said today scheduling difficulties forced it to abandon efforts to have Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) speak on the campus Monday.

The Oregon senator was to speak under auspices of the LSU lecturers and Artists Committee.

But Dr. Joy B. Kistler, committee chairman, said another speaker, Dr. Mortimer Graves, previously had been scheduled to talk at the same time.

"In fairness to both men," he added, "we felt that he should not schedule two speakers in the same evening.

"At the time we learned Sen Morse would be in Baton Rouge and opened negotiations with him, we were unaware of the conflict it would create with Dr. Graves' speaking engagement."

Dr. Graves, who will talk on "What Shall we Do about the Humanities," is executive director of the American Council of Learned Societies.

Sen. Morse was expected to deal with foreign and domestic government policy.

Morse and Sen. Lehmann (D-NY) yesterday stirred news interest when they challenged "impartiality" of Sen. Eastland (D-Miss), vigorous foe of racial integration, who was named chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Mild Area Weather Expected Sunday

Sunday's weather in the northeast Louisiana area was expected to be fair and mild in the morning with high clouds moving in from the southwest in the afternoon, according to government observers.

Arkansas was predicted to have mild temperatures and sunshine most of the day today.

Local temperatures Saturday ranged from a high of 75 to a low of 57 late last night, but expected to be lower by dawn, C. A. A. officials said.

American Consul Warns Red Spies Getting Into U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 3 —UP— Everett F. Drumwright, American consul general in Hong Kong, has warned the State Department Chinese Communist agents can be slipped into the United States through an ingenius passport racket, it was learned Saturday.

He reported confidentially to the department in December. The department has kept tight wraps on what he said but has supplied a summary to the House and Senate Appropriations committees. The latter have been asked for $500,000 to step up investigative operations in Hong Kong.

Drumwright said the Chinese secure American passports through "a fantastic system of passport and visa fraud" and that "adequate security precautions can hardly be taken to exclude them."

The United States is in the process of trying to stamp out the racket. A federal grand jury in New York is investigating and another will be convened in San Francisco.

Drumwright said "citizenship brokers" in Hong Kong sell Chinese desiring to come to the United States faked American citizenship documents for a flat $3,000. The terms are $500 down and the balance payable on arrival in the United States.

Despite efforts of American officials to crack down, he reported, the racketeers have been able to get around every obstacle thrown in their path.

Stevenson Seeks Minnesota Votes

SAUK CENTRE, Minn., March 3 UP—Adlai Stevenson carried his whistle-stop campaign for Minnesota Democratic support to this home town of author Sinclair Lewis Saturday and charged the Eisenhower administration has forgotten "all about the farmers, the small merchants, and the people of Main street."

The 1952 Democratic presidential nominee continued a five-day swing through Minnesota with hand-shaking visits and short speeches in a series of small central Minnesota communities. He seeks Minnesota's 30 delegates to the Democratic national convention in the March 20 presidential primary, in which he is opposed by Sen. Estes Kefauver.

Rocket Scientist Warns U. S. To Push Spaceship Plans; Cites Red Efforts

WASHINGTON, March 3 — UP — The United States has "no time to lose" in the race with Russia to develop space vehicles, a leading rocket expert said Saturday night.

The warning was sounded by Dr. Wernher Von Braun, German-born scientist who is considered one of the world's leading authorities on space travel. He expressed his views in an indoctrination film prepared by the armed forces staff college and released by the Defense Department.

Von Braun said the Russians are "working hard" on outer space problems. He evidently referred to man-carrying space ships and stations for the future as well as unmanned earth satellites like the ones the United States will launch in the 1957-58 international geophysical year.

"I think we have no time to lose if we want to be first in an orbit" around the earth, said the scientist, who heads the army's guided missiles division at Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville Ala. He was a leading developer of the German V-2 rocket in World War II.

He forecast that a space station 1,075 miles from earth, circling the globe every two hours, could be a base for bombing of "unprecedented accuracy" and jump-off point

CSC Plant At Sterlington To Be Expanded

Addition Will Cost $10 Million, Says President Of Firm

Commercial Solvents Corporation will spend $10,000,000 to expand its methanol and petrochemical derivatives facilities at Sterlington, it was announced by J. Albert Woods, president.

The expansion will increase substantially CSC's present capacity for making methanol, a widely used basic industrial chemical of which the company is now one of the leading producers. The new construction will be an addition to CSC's Sterlington plant.

A portion of the appropriated funds will be spent at the company's Terre Haute, Indiana plant for the expansion of facilities to process CSC's basic products into upgraded chemical derivatives, Woods said.

In Woods' announcement of the new expansion at Sterlington it is a continuation of the rapid growth of facilities since the purchase of Dixie Ordnance Works from the government in 1946. CSC has been a pioneer in the methanol development with the first synthetic installation at Peoria, Ill. plant in 1927 from by-product gases. This venture was believed to have been the first commercial application in the United States of high pressure synthesis from pure carbon dioxide and hydrogen.

In 1948, CSC expanded its operation with construction of a methanol plant at Sterlington, using natural gas from the Monroe gas field as the raw material. In 1952 and 1953 Solvents doubled its operations at Sterlington with the largest expansion in the history of the company. Today's announcement is a continuation of this growth and confidence President Woods has in the expansion of industry in the south, particularly in the Sterlington area. It also expresses Woods' confidence in the future development of the Ouachita river which has been a major factor in these decisions. The barge traffic on the Ouachita dropped to practically zero during World War II, and was revived again with the start of barge movements again November, 1949 from the Sterlington Methanol plant. This tonnage has increased yearly and with the new expansion the volume will be even greater.

In 1955, CSC completed a $5,000,000 expansion with the first commercial production of a new

Shreveport Tot Dies In Surgery At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP) — The aged heart of a three-year-old boy stopped beating today as he lay on the operating table.

Surgeons had hoped to bring a normal life to Charles Procell of Shreveport, La., but he died two hours after the start of surgery.

The boy's deformed heart had done a lifetime of work, trying to keep a continuing flow of blood through his body. Normally surgeons wait until the blue baby is four years old before operating, but Charles' condition had deteriorated during the year.

When the beating stopped, doctors massaged Charles' heart for more than an hour. But they could not revive the three-year-old, son of Mrs. Beth Atkinson, Shreveport.

Charred Pieces Of Craft Found In Atlantic

Air And Surface Ships Hunting For Possible Survivors

LONDON, March 3 (AP)— A U. S. Air Force Globemaster carrying 17 persons crashed in flames in the stormy Atlantic early today at the same jinxed spot where it almost ran into disaster a week ago.

Two bits of wreckage—a flame-scarred oxygen bottle and a shattered piece of smoked plywood — were picked up in the area where the giant military transport sounded its last frantic distress signal.

Lifeboats, rescue ships and search planes plied steadily today and tonight over the area 250 miles southwest of Iceland in a waning hope of finding survivors.

Most of those aboard were Air Force personnel. The plane — a C124—was flying from Iceland to Goose Bay, Labrador, and New York with its ultimate destination

Red Ranks Split In Italy; 'Tough' Policy Demanded

ROME, Italy, March 3 —UP— Delegates claiming to represent 500,000 of Italy's card-carrying Communists publicly denounced party leaders Saturday and demanded a return to a "tough" policy to win control of the government.

It scored party leaders for saying communism could gain control of the government through elections.

The delegates launched their attack at a meeting in the Astoria movie house with national elections only three months away. Five party leaders were invited but did not appear.

None of the signers of the manifesto were party leaders and the delegates refused to say if any of them were backing the revolt.

Transit Company Ends Operations At Texarkana

TEXARKANA, March 3 (AP) —The Texarkana Transit Co. told its patrons today it was quitting business, leaving the city of more than 50,000 without bus service.

Ed Mitchell, owner of the company, said his 10 buses would be parked at 6:30 p.m. (CST) tonight and no more schedules run.

Mitchell's notice, a newspaper advertisement, said private autos caused the firm to operate at a loss.

The notice did not mention the refusal earlier this week of the Amalgamated Assn. of Electrical Railway and Motormen local to take a 10 cent an hour wage cut requested by Mitchell.

City officials predicted the discontinuance would give the city a better chance to interest some other firm in operating a public transportation system.

Mitchell's firm and the city have been unable to agree on a franchise since the bus firm was reorganized in December of 1954.

FBI Chief Urges Parental Penalty In Juvenile Laws

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today suggested legal penalties for delinquent parents who permit their children to run wild.

"The startling juvenile crime conditions existing today reflect that in America the home is failing in its traditional function as the first and foremost classroom —a place of learning how to live as well as a place of living," he said in a signed editorial in the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

Hoover noted that more than a half-million youngsters between the ages of 10 and 17 were arrested in this country in 1954, and said that the current record birth rate foreshadows a steadily increasing juvenile problem in the years ahead Delinquency, he said, is not confined to any one stratum of society or type of community.

"Among the complex and various causes spawning juvenile crime," he wrote, "there certainly is no more basic nor common factor than apathy or failure of parents in properly discharging responsibilities to their children. This basic failure is appallingly prevalent; and the regrettable fact is that the irresponsible parents who neglect their duty continue to do so because they are not held accountable for their dereliction.

"It is my firm belief that juvenile crime could be abated if parents were made to face legal and financial responsibility for the criminal acts of their children."

CSC Plant At Sterlington To Be Expanded

Addition Will Cost $10 Million, Says President Of Firm

Commercial Solvents Corporation will spend $10,000,000 to expand its methanol and petrochemical derivatives facilities at Sterlington, it was announced by J. Albert Woods, president.

The expansion will increase substantially CSC's present capacity for making methanol, a widely used basic industrial chemical of which the company is now one of the leading producers. The new construction will be an addition to CSC's Sterlington plant.

A portion of the appropriated funds will be spent at the company's Terre Haute, Indiana plant for the expansion of facilities to process CSC's basic products into upgraded chemical derivatives, Woods said.

In Woods' announcement of the new expansion at Sterlington it is a continuation of the rapid growth of facilities since the purchase of Dixie Ordnance Works from the government in 1946. CSC has been a pioneer in the methanol development with the first synthetic installation at Peoria, Ill. plant in 1927 from by-product gases. This venture was believed to have been the first commercial application in the United States of high pressure synthesis from pure carbon dioxide and hydrogen.

In 1948, CSC expanded its operation with construction of a methanol plant at Sterlington, using natural gas from the Monroe gas field as the raw material. In 1952 and 1953 Solvents doubled its operations at Sterlington with the largest expansion in the history of the company. Today's announcement is a continuation of this growth and confidence President Woods has in the expansion of industry in the south, particularly in the Sterlington area. It also expresses Woods' confidence in the future development of the Ouachita river which has been a major factor in these decisions. The barge traffic on the Ouachita dropped to practically zero during World War II, and was revived again with the start of barge movements again November, 1949 from the Sterlington Methanol plant. This tonnage has increased yearly and with the new expansion the volume will be even greater.

In 1955, CSC completed a $5,000,000 expansion with the first commercial production of a new

Shreveport Tot Dies In Surgery At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP) — The aged heart of a three-year-old boy stopped beating today as he lay on the operating table.

Surgeons had hoped to bring a normal life to Charles Procell of Shreveport, La., but he died two hours after the start of surgery.

The boy's deformed heart had done a lifetime of work, trying to keep a continuing flow of blood through his body. Normally surgeons wait until the blue baby is four years old before operating, but Charles' condition had deteriorated during the year.

When the beating stopped, doctors massaged Charles' heart for more than an hour. But they could not revive the three-year-old, son of Mrs. Beth Atkinson, Shreveport.

Plane Carrying 17 Crashes In Ocean

HIT BY TRAIN—Ronald Kinney, left, and Larry Reynolds, both 15, are shown in St. Mary's Hospital after their brush with a passenger train on the Wabash bridge over Lake Decatur Friday. Both of Larry's arms were broken when he was struck by the train and fell on the bridge ledge. Ronald, who was not hurt, is credited with preventing Larry from falling off the 50 foot bridge. He held the injured youth on the narrow ledge as the train rushed past them. (AP Wirephoto)

Charred Pieces Of Craft Found In Atlantic

Air And Surface Ships Hunting For Possible Survivors

LONDON, March 3 (AP)— A U. S. Air Force Globemaster carrying 17 persons crashed in flames in the stormy Atlantic early today at the same jinxed spot where it almost ran into disaster a week ago.

Two bits of wreckage—a flame-scarred oxygen bottle and a shattered piece of smoked plywood — were picked up in the area where the giant military transport sounded its last frantic distress signal.

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — The Air Force today released the names of the nine men listed as missing in the crash of a Globemaster in the stormy Atlantic.

The plane carried 17 persons. The others have not yet been identified.

The nine included Airman 1st Class Lane A. Cazes, 210 3rd St., West Baton Rouge, La., mechanic.

Lifeboats, rescue ships and search planes plied steadily today and tonight over the area 250 miles southwest of Iceland in a waning hope of finding survivors.

Most of those aboard were Air Force personnel. The plane — a C124—was flying from Iceland to Goose Bay, Labrador, and New York with its ultimate destination

Red Ranks Split In Italy; 'Tough' Policy Demanded

ROME, Italy, March 3 —UP— Delegates claiming to represent 500,000 of Italy's card-carrying Communists publicly denounced party leaders Saturday and demanded a return to a "tough" policy to win control of the government.

It scored party leaders for saying communism could gain control of the government through elections.

The delegates launched their attack at a meeting in the Astoria movie house with national elections only three months away. Five party leaders were invited but did not appear.

None of the signers of the manifesto were party leaders and the delegates refused to say if any of them were backing the revolt.

Transit Company Ends Operations At Texarkana

TEXARKANA, March 3 (AP)—The Texarkana Transit Co. told its patrons today it was quitting business, leaving the city of more than 50,000 without bus service.

Ed Mitchell, owner of the company, said his 10 buses would be parked at 6:30 p.m. (CST) tonight and no more schedules run.

Mitchell's notice, a newspaper advertisement, said private autos caused the firm to operate at a loss.

The notice did not mention the refusal earlier this week of the Amalgamated Assn. of Electrical Railway and Motormen local to take a 10 cent an hour wage cut requested by Mitchell.

City officials predicted the discontinuance would give the city a better chance to interest some other firm in operating a public transportation system.

Mitchell's firm and the city have been unable to agree on a franchise since the bus firm was reorganized in December of 1954.

80,000 Celebrate In Louisiana

National 4-H Club Week To Accent Better Living

Louisiana's 4-H Club members, 80,000 strong, are observing National 4-H Club Week this week, March 3-11, thus participating in a national celebration involving 2,000,000 young people between the ages of 10 and 21 years.

The 4-H Club motto is "To Make the Best Better," and the theme of the nation-wide observance this week is "Improving Family and Community Living."

Each Club member carries out at least one project each year, most of them taking several. Overall, the projects range from raising beef to making biscuits and cover almost every farming and homemaking activity.

Important achievements in introduction of hybrid corn, adoption of better breeding lines for beef cattle, dairy cattle and swine, and demonstration of better seeds, better fertilization and newer methods of cultivation are attributed to Louisiana 4-H members. Leadership in introducing electrical equipment and labor-saving devices and new methods of food preservation are among achievements attributed to Louisiana 4-H Club girls.

Four-H Club work in Louisiana is sponsored by the Louisiana State University Agricultural Extension Service and the 4-H members are actively supported by business and industry through sponsorship of contests and other events.

FBI Chief Urges Parental Penalty In Juvenile Laws

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover today suggested legal penalties for delinquent parents who permit their children to run wild.

"The startling juvenile crime conditions existing today reflect that in America the home is failing in its traditional function as the first and foremost classroom —a place of learning how to live as well as a place of living," he said in a signed editorial in the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin.

Hoover noted that more than a half-million youngsters between the ages of 10 and 17 were arrested in this country in 1954, and said that the current record birth rate foreshadows a steadily increasing juvenile problem in the years ahead. Delinquency, he said, is not confined to any one stratum of society or type of community.

"Among the complex and various causes spawning juvenile crime," he wrote, "there certainly is no more basic nor common factor than apathy or failure of parents in properly discharging responsibilities to their children. This basic failure is appallingly prevalent; and the regrettable fact is that the irresponsible parents who neglect their duty continue to do so because they are not held accountable for their dereliction.

"It is my firm belief that juvenile crime could be abated if parents were made to face legal and financial responsibility for the criminal acts of their children."

House Appropriations Group Strikes Double-Blow For Nation's Old Folks

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — The House Appropriations Committee struck a double blow today for the nation's old folks.

It directed the Civil Service Commission to let federal employes keep working beyond the age of 70 if they are able and willing, and told the Department of Welfare to promptly start working on "problems of the aging."

The recommendations of the 50-man committee are subject to approval of the House next week, but there was little doubt that the House would go along.

They were embodied in separate bills appropriating $8,736,508,041 to finance 24 federal agencies during the fiscal year starting July 1. The total is $154,590,641 more than President Eisenhower requested.

The committee is headed by Rep. Clarence Cannon (D-Mo), who will be 77 on April 11. Its senior Republican member is John Taber of New York, who will be 76 on May 5.

The committee ordered the Civil Service Commission to cease using age standards for federal employment and to quit making retirement of elderly workers mandatory. Currently, employes must retire at age 70 if they have worked at least 15 years.

Great strides in the development of medical science have increased the life span of American men and women "dramatically," the committee said. "As a larger portion of the population enters the upper age brackets there will be an increasing number of persons who may desire to have employment, with no opportunity available."

In a report written by Rep. Fogarty (D-RI), who at 43 is one of its younger members, the committee rapped the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for having made "such a poor showing with respect to the problems of the aging."

It said the problem is one of "considerable concern" and the department should come up with "something substantial" in the way of a solution.

In considering the appropriations bill, the committee raised the President's figures in several major instances. It added nine million dollars to operate the National Health Institutes, saying the work of these agencies is producing invaluable results toward curbing major diseases.

The extra money, given the NIH a total of $135,525,000 for the coming year, will be used largely to speed up the training of young scientists and research workers.

Gunshot Injury Proves Fatal To Teenage Youth

SHREVEPORT, La., March 3—UP—A teenage Logansport youth died en route from his home to a local hospital Friday after he accidentally shot himself in the head while twirling a loaded .22-caliber pistol around his finger.

Authorities said J. H. White, 16, died from a bullet wound in the head before medical attention could be given him. Caddo parish coroner Dr. C. S. Boone pronounced death as due to accidental causes.

Officials said the youth, apparently thinking the gun unloaded, twirled the pistol around his finger and the weapon discharged, sending a slug into his head.

Civil Defense Forum Set For Monday At Northeast

A public forum Monday night at 7:30 in Brown auditorium with state and national leaders as a panel features the opening day tomorrow of the federal Civil Defense administration staff college at Northeast State.

A. B. Clarkson, state Civil Defense director who made the announcement, said that registration tonight from 5 p.m. to 7 at Northeast and a subsequent reception at the campus home of President and Mrs. Lewis Slater are scheduled for today.

"Although the staff college faculty will conduct statewide administrative courses March 5-9 and nurse-dentist instruction March 12-14, the Monday night forum is the only public session scheduled during the two activities at Northeast," Clarkson declared.

Scheduled to participate in the Monday night panel are:

Dr. Gayle Starnes, director of training and education for the federal Civil Defense administration and an organizer of the staff college in 1951; Dr. Arthur Ross, chief of extension activities for the staff college; Francis A. Woolfley, state Civil Defense director; and Louis J. Fortier, state deputy director. Clarkson will serve as moderator.

The administration course is the fourth scheduled for the South while the nurse-dentist course is the first planned by FCDA away from its national headquarters, said Clarkson. He said that the courses are sponsored in Louisiana by Northeast federal, state and local Civil Defense.

"Due to the cooperation of Northeast, Civil Defense leaders and professional persons are able to save time and money by attending the courses in Louisiana instead of making expensive and time-coning trips to Civil Defense National headquarters in Battle Creek, Mich.

Among the activities scheduled for the Monday morning opening session of the college is a strategic briefing in Civil Defense by Starnes and a review of the Ideological and Spiritual Phases of Civil Defense by Dr. Fred Kern, director of the FCDA religious affairs office. Highlights of the afternoon session include an outline of the Louisiana Civil Defense Survival Plan by State Civil Defense Director Francis A. Woolfley. Also slated to be communications, evacuation and shelter, Civil Defense analysis and discussed Monday are warning and effects of wartime weapons.

Citizen Councils Threat To Way Of Life,' Jack Says

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP) —Manhattan Borough President Hulan Jack today described members of the Southern White Citizens Councils and the Communist Party as "those who would destroy our Democratic way of life."

Jack, recently accused in New Orleans of past links to subversive groups, which he denied, spoke at a luncheon of the Army and Navy Union, U.S.A., which gave him an honorary life membership.

Referring to the New Orleans incident, which occurred after Jack had spoken at a non-segregated meeting at Loyola of the South, Jack said:

"I fully realise that when one is in the public limelight he sometimes becomes a target for character assassination inspired by those who would destroy our democratic way of life, whether they belong to the Communist Party or a so-called Citizens Council such as prevails throughout the South. . .

"Neither one of these organizations conforms with our concept of democracy, for both of them place barriers upon a human being concerned with the dignity of man and the principle of equality."

Pro-Southerners Chairman Resigns

MEMPHIS, March 3 (AP) —Harry William Pyle today announced his resignation as national chairman of Pro-Southerners. He said he also had resigned as a member of the pro-segregation organization.

"I'm washing my hands of it," Pyle said. "I can't see anything we can accomplish. There is dissension in the organization."

Pyle, chairman for three years, has used his home here as the national office of the body.

Pyle said he had sent his letter of resignation to M. B. Sherill of Fort Pierce, Fla. Pierce is national vice chairman.

He did not elaborate on his charge of dissension within the organization except to say the Pro-Southerners group "has now taken on a far different approach to the segregation problem. Miss Martha Riser, daugher of Mr. and Mrs. George M. Riser of Monroe, took first place honors in a district essary-speech contest held at First Methodist Church in Monroe on March 3, Saturday. The contest was sponsored by the Methodist Churches of the Monroe district. Seven churches were represented.

The subject for the 1956 essay-speech contest was "The Truth About Beer." The event was open to any Methodist youth of high school age. Participating in the event were Miss Carolyn Boyce, St. Paul Methodist Church, Monroe; Miss Martha Riser, First Methodist Church, Monroe; Miss Peggy Kirkland, Forest Methodist Church; Miss Carolyn Ross, Pioneer Methodist Church; Miss Marie Nelson, Memorial Methodist Church, Monroe; Miss Eleanor Enright, Sicily Island Methodist Church; and Miss Serita Johns, Waterproof Methodist Church.

Miss Marie Nelson of Memorial Methodist Church in Monroe took second place honors, while Miss Eleanor Enright of Sicily Island claimed third place. Judges for the contest were Rev. TWO INJURED IN HEAD-ON CRASH—Two men were hospitalized in Rogers Clinic in Winnsboro Friday morning when the two cars pictured above crashed head-on about a mile and a half south of Winnsboro on the Ft. Necessity Road. W. H. Ellerman, 49, of Winnsboro, driver of the oil truck suffered a broken collar bone and head injuries. Driver of the car, Nathan Johnson, 22, of Jigger, sustained a severe hip and head injury and a shoulder injury. Complete details of the accident were not available late last night. 'Flag' Pilot In Miss. Hopes To Become 'Colonel'

OXFORD, Miss., March 3 (AP)—Disc jockey Allen English wondered today if his dropping 24,000 Confederate battle flags over Chicago qualified him to be a colonel on Gov. J. P. Coleman's staff.

"Or at least in the Confederate Air Force," he suggested.

English scattered the paper flags from an airplane over Chicago's Loop area yesterday but a 20-knot wind blew the symbols away from the target.

The "bombing" was in retaliation to a Chicago Negro disc jockey's dropping 5,000 copies of the U.S. constitution over Jackson, Meridian and Vicksburg last week.

Al Benson, 48-year-old Chicago record spinner, said he wanted to "wake up the citizens of Mississippi" on the segregation issue.

English, 27, had a different motive.

"I started this thing as a joke and kept it that way," he said. "There was no ill feeling. The people of Chicago were great to me.

'Let me say a sutinn disc jockey was mighty impressed by nawthun hospitality."

Now English faces the task of answering 1,000 letters he found awaiting him when he returned last night.

When Nick Altrock of the Washington Senators appeared as a pinch hitter in a game on Oct. 1, 1933 he was 57 years old.

NAACP On Way Out?

Anti-Integration Forces See Hope In Louisiana Suit

BATON ROUGE, March 3—UP—Segregationists are doing a comeback in a suit filed last Thursday by the state designed to abolish the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Louisiana.

Although filed by Atty. Gen. Fred LeBlanc, the idea for the suit originated with legal brains of the Association of Citizens' Councils of Louisiana.

The NAACP has no legal footing in Louisiana because it failed to file membership lists with the state, the suit contends.

Anti - integration forces have suffered many legal and propaganda set backs in recent years.

But the suit aimed at the NAACP and its officers is hoped by leaders to be a turning point in the fight to maintain the social and economic status quo where the Negro is concerned.

State Sen. Willie Rainach of Summerfield has promised integrationists are in for many surprises beginning with the May legislature.

Top on the list of predictable surprises is a declaration of interposition. This could be Louisiana's way of saying they will not obey the U. S. Supreme Court's no-public-school-segregation ruling.

Segregationists closed ranks officially with the formation of the association. This meant a unified fight against the NAACP any other group which "is trying to ruin the Southern way of life."

Some can be fought legally, but most must be tackled on the propaganda level. Those who tackled them have carved out more than one, two or three years' work.

They are:

1. The U. S. Supreme Court ruling declaring public school segregation is unconstitutional.

2. While public schools are not integrated in Louisiana, the NAACP has filed a host of law suits demanding the high court's ruling be carried out.

3. Negroes are now attending several colleges, including LSU's graduate school.

4. A Supreme Court ruling on parks and recreation facilities may mean Negroes will soon gain admittance to city parks on an equal basis with whites.

5. The Jan. 17 primary election may have revealed a trend in the state's thinking. James McLemore, the strongest pro-segregation candidate, ran a weak fifth in a 5-man race.

6. LSU's Board of Supervisors refused to adopt drastic anti-Negro entrance requirements, but did authorize LSU varsity teams to play against Negroes.

7. A 3-man federal court in New Orleans declared the state's school segregation laws unconstitutional.

8. Archbishop Joseph Rummel of New Orleans has declared segregation a sin. He is winning an unknown number of Louisiana Roman Catholics to the de-segregation philosophy.

Senator Eastland Named Head Of Judiciary Committee

Senator Eastland, Mississippi Democrat, Friday was named chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee, despite screaming and criminally libelous protests by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and various avowed Communist mouthpieces.

Turncoat Senator Morse of Oregon and leftist Senator Lehman of New York, both Democrats, registered the only protests voiced by lawmakers.

In ratifying the action of the Democratic Steering Committee of the Senate, the solons followed immemorial custom, under which committee chairmanships are awarded on the basis of seniority.

Senator Eastland, a veteran of ten years' service in the Senate although now only 51 years old, was vice-chairman of the Judiciary Committee. The chairman, Senator Kilgore, West Virginia Democrat, died last week.

The basis of the Morse-Lehman attack against the Eastland appointment was that the Mississippian has opposed leftist "civil rights" legislation, which the Communists, through such organs as the Daily Worker, have advocated for years.

Senator Eastland, as everybody knows, has been a leader in the South's fight against the U. S. Supreme Court's legislative fiat attempting to abolish segregation in the public schools; and in the organization of Citizens' Councils to oppose by legal means the integration of the White and Negro races.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the NAACP, flew into a rage when the Senate acted to approve Senator Eastland's appointment as chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

He issued a criminally libelous and highly defamatory statement, which said:

"The Senate of the United States has just voted to put an accessory to murder and treason in its most powerful judicial position. With the exception of the two Senators who opposed their resolution, all others who were present when the vote was taken are guilty of looking the other way when a mad dog is loose in the streets of justice."

For unmitigated slander and insult, and consummate brazen gall, this tirade by the capital lobbyist of the Communist-infiltrated NAACP probably sets a new record of gutter-sniping in America.

It impugns the honor and intensity of every Senator except two—Morse and Lehman. It assails the highly respected, patriotic and able Senator Eastland as a "mad dog."

It reveals vividly and horribly the unscrupulous lengths to which the NAACP is willing to go in order that our nation may be plunged into deeper turmoil and possible civil war.

As vice-chairman and a long-time member of the Judiciary Committee, Senator Eastland has made an enviable record. He enjoys the respect and confidence of the Senate and the nation. His appointment to chairmanship of the group is highly deserved on the basis of ability and merit, aside from any rule of seniority.

Campaign Spending

Only time and cumulative results will show whether the motions now being made in Washington, toward putting curbs on campaign contributions and candidate spending, come under the heading of election reform, grandstand drama or plain comedy.

Since it became known recently that one Senator was offered a gift of $2,500 to help him bear the financial burden of his reelection race, Senators and Representatives have been tumbling over themselves getting into the act looking toward cleansing political campaign practices. Judging by the roars of question and alarm that have arisen it might be concluded this was the first such gift or offer ever made.

There is unanimous agreement that political campaign spending, and the voluntary and pressurized contributions thereto, stand in need of reform, to be scaled down to more reasonable levels. That is true in races for the office of President down through governor to sheriff. But motions of this kind have been made periodically for a century, given thorough airing and eagle-screaming lip service, but campaign funds and candidates spending have mounted with the coming of every election.

It would be a great day in American politics and elections if individual party campaign spending and giving could be curbed by enforceable laws. The citizens are hopeful that the current movement in the Senate and House may result in such enforceable laws. But, viewing similar waves for election purity in the past, it is too early to begin applauding.

Voters in the grass-roots sections have become accustomed to having their candidates for high or low office accompanied by bands, movie stars, trick riders and other capercutters and show-offs. They expect to see their favorites on television, hear them on radio, read their paid advertisements in the newspapers and see big billboard appeals along every major highway.

All of these campaigning services cost money, lots of money. And as long as people are willing to "give," and as long as candidates show eagerness to accept the gifts and spend, it is likely the need for reform will continue.

If science ever conquers the common cold, will it come up with something to replace it as an excuse for staying away from the office?

Man is described as the only animal that laughs. One cause of hilarity may be the manner in which he has slandered the horse for so many years.

Perhaps a pound of popcorn contains as much food energy as a steak, as asserted, but what kind of gravy does it make?

If the five-cent cigar is on its way back, as predicted, this will be a nostalgic as well as aromatic reminder of the good old days.

Public Forum

Thanks From The Heart Fund

Monroe, La.

Editor, Morning World:

I would like to express my appreciation for your cooperation in running the many news items leading up to Heart Sunday.

Heart Sunday was a drive in which hundreds of volunteers worked wholeheartedly and without recognition, their only reward being the satisfaction that they were furthering the cause of humanity. This concentrated effort would not have been possible without such fine cooperation among the workers and such a generous response from the donors.

A total of $5,827.91 was recorded as the Heart Sunday total at the end of February, but this should not be considered as the final total, because every day "not-at-home" envelopes are arriving in the mail with further contributions. In fact, citizens are urged to join in the fight against diseases of the heart and circulation throughout the year by making contributions to the Heart Fund through our Memorial Gift Chairman, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, in memory of loved ones.

It has been a heartening experience working with these volunteers, and I wish that I could personally give each one a pat on the back and a warm handshake for a job well done. My heartfelt thanks to all who helped!

Integration In Churches

Ruston, La.

Editor, Morning World:

Dr. W. A. Criswell, pastor of the largest Baptist Church in the world, dropped a bomb-shell recently into the plans of the NAACP and Communists to integrate the churches. No doubt, here is an ingenuous, conscientious man who is impervious to the ubiquitous brain washing of the Communists which has made dupes of many of our ministers. Dr. Criswell takes a stand against integration in which he states:

"Desegregation where we live is the stirring up of the people over a cause that, as of now, is not wisely presented. The people who seek to further this among us are not in sympathy with the great spiritual aims of our churches." Amen!

In conclusion this most provident minister makes a statement in which he places this integration confusion squarely on the shoulders of the NAACP, the Communists, and disingenuous white people. He states: "The colored people do not want us; they want to be in their own churches." Amen again. The horrendous truth is that some of our leaders, ministers and school teachers, are trying to lure the colored people into white churches.

God is the author of segregation. He used only five colors to mould His human race: The white (Eurafrican) race, the black (Austafrican) race, the yellow (Asian) race, the red (American) race, and the brown (Insular and Littoral) race. Each race was segregated by an ocean. The hot sun and climate had nothing to do with their color. Their bodies manufacture their coloring as God willed it. God never made a miscegenate.

Some of our leaders, including ministers, continue to preach that "segregation is un - Christian." There is nothing in the New Testament to justify such statement. No where in the Bible does it state to "Go forth my children and mongrelize" or integrate, which is the same purpose. Both the white and black races are trying to remain as God made us. But this doesn't suit the NAACP or the Communists. The NAACP wants mongrelization; the Communist want both mongrelization and internecine warfare, trouble.

The South is not going to mongrelize. There are now more than 500 White Citizen's Councils in 14 states — it's now national — and the membership is snowballing. If the 13 Southern states will stand together, interposition will settle all this unrest and the nation will once more drop back into the course of peace and harmony. People go to church for consolation, not to rave over prize fights and politics.

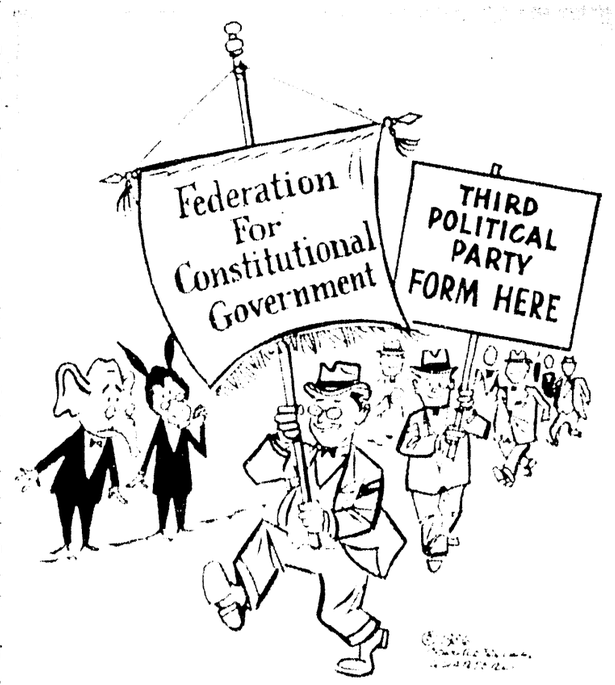
Segregation Groups Organize Federation

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court decision against segregation in public schools has pushed southern citizens councils into a federation strong enough to inspire a third political party.

The confidential blueprint of the Federation for Constitutional Government envisions coordination between white citizens councils in the Deep South and other conservative groups rather than a vast merger, Congressional Quarterly learned.

The Federation already has been organized by experienced leaders in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. Leaders include Sens. James O. Eastland (D Miss.), Strom Thurmond (D S. C.), Reps. James C. Davis (D Ga.), F. Edward Hebert (D La.), John Bell Williams (D Miss.), L. Mendel Rivers (D S. C.), William M. Tuck (D Va.), Watkins M. Abbitt (D Va.) and former Governors Herman Talmadge of Georgia, Sam H. Jones of Louisiana, Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi and Coke R. Stevenson of Texas.



The Federation's chairman is John C. Barr, industrialist and board member of the National American bank of New Orleans. He said he spent more than eight months "hand picking" the men to guide the organization. Asked if he was out to form a third party, Barr said: "You never can tell where such an organization will go."

At present, the federation is working out of New Orleans, but Barr said it would open up a Washington office soon. The organizational setup outlined to members by Barr, includes a lobbying branch under the federation's national secretary charged with "contacting Congress and the administrative government agencies to acquaint them with the policies and objectives of the federation."

In June 1954 Eastland a prime mover of the federation, set down what he thought the national movement should be. "It will be a people's organization, an organization not controlled by fawning politicians who cater to organized racial pressure groups. A people's organization to fight the Supreme Court of the United States, to fight the CIO, to fight the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and to fight all the conscienceless pressure groups who are attempting our destruction."

Eastland also said the Federation would "carry on its banner the slogan of free enterprise" and would fight "those organizations who attempt with much success to socialize industry and the great medical profession of this country. This will give us recruits and add to our support in the north and west."

The federation started organizing in two meetings in Atlanta in December, 1954, about six months after the May 17 segregation decision of the Supreme Court. Following a meeting in Jackson, Miss., on Jan. 22, 1955, representatives from 11 Deep South states announced formation of the Federation and appointment of Barr as temporary chairman.

The announcement disclosed these Federation platform planks:

"Preservation of the independence" of the three branches of the U. S. government, preservation of the "sovereign rights of the several states," support of candidates who seek to "counteract the effects and consequences of . . . decisions of federal courts which have wrongfully abrogated, modified or amended the provisions of the U. S. Constitution."

"Some national patriotic organizations have developed their support through the presentation of one particular feature while another has gained support through presentation of some other feature. Merged into one organization they would most likely produce a lessened over - all interest.

"Each presently existing patriotic organization which has, through its appeal, attracted grass root strength, should be preserved as an entity and encouraged in its growth. Coordination, I feel, will give the necessary national union to combat the infringements on our constitutional rights."

The dividing point for the immediate future will be the anti-segregation decision which, according to the Federation, "placed an impossible burden upon the southern states." But the group has built its ten big enough to accommodate enough determined organizations to help assure the Federation of a long, if stormy, life.

Mr. Dooley Knew The Supreme Court

Some northern editors are beginning to wonder whether the passage of time may not bring a realization that the United States Supreme Court itself committed an act of interposition in the school de-segregation case.

The Constitution of the United States makes no provision for interposition, meaning an official legislative act taken by a state when it disapproves of a federal law, federal court ruling or law enforcement methods used by the executive branch of the federal government. Yet interposition has been used by states at intervals since the adoption of the Constitution.

The reverse side of interposition, while perhaps having no authority in jurisprudence, would be an interference, or a position between the federal government and a state, say in the case in point, that of segregation laws.

Constitutional lawyers in Congress are divided on the question whether the highest court acted on justifiable grounds in ordering an end to segregation. The rights of states were thought, up until that decision, to be fully protected by two amendments, the 9th and 10th, two of the shortest sections in the entire Constitution.

The 9th amendment says that "the enumeration in the Constitution of certain rights shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people." The 10th, next following, says that "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or the people."

The court chose instead to be guided by the 14th amendment which some constitutional authorities maintain gave shaky support for the court's opinion, which overrode the "separate but equal doctrine" of previous decisions covering school segregation.

One oft quoted maxim that "The Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is," credited to the late Justice Charles Evans Hughes" is heard again in Washington today, but a more pointed shaft is the late Finley Peter Dunne's "I see the Supreme Court is followin' the election returns again," Dunne wrote under the pen name of "Mr. Dooley."

That was a much admired piece of humor when first uttered in the early part of the century, but today many regard it as too true to be funny. The present Supreme Court is composed in part of gentlemen who were guided before their appointments by the election returns, for they achieved their present positions that way. Chief Justice Earl Warren, Associate Justices Hugo Black (Alabama) Harold H. Burton (Ohio) Sherman Minton (Indiana) were veteran politicians before their appointments.

Four others came up through the government, which in recent years has constructed a veritable legal ladder for that purpose. Justice Minton was a member of a lower federal court when appointed, but earned his political training as a senator from Indiana. Justice John M. Harlan, also advanced from a lower federal court, was not named to the Supreme Court until after the original de-segregation opinion was handed down.

It was recently pointed out that of the entire nine, only two, Harlan and Justice Stanley M. Reed (Kentucky) former solicitor general of the United States, have ever appeared before the Supreme Court in more than one or two cases. Chief Justice Warren so far as records show, had never appeared before the court, though he served for four years as attorney general of California.

The northern editors who have given the matter thought are convinced that some southern states and some southern school districts are just as firm in their determination not to abolish segregation as the federal government is in its opposition to Communist infiltration.

In such a case, the Constitution is apt to suffer more than the states, for there is no action of any sort by the legislative branch of the government to support the Supreme Court's action, and the opinion here is that there will be none.

Washington presents a fair case of the operation of non segregated schools. The local school board says that de-segregation has progressed satisfactorily. In Washington homes, one hears a different story. In fact, it can be truthfully said that a great many colored families in the District of Columbia — and they had a majority of children in local schools before integration — are seeking ways to avoid segregation, and have been more successful than whites because a number of primary schools are still entirely colored. There are no whites in their neighborhoods.

As for the whites, they find that they can either send their children to private schools of which only a few are available, or keep them in integrated schools, where colored pupils have been found to be an average of two years behind their white classmates.

The United States has a beautiful new songbird, the flame-orange and black spotted-breasted Oriole from southern Mexico and Central America. A colony of the orioles nest near Miami, Florida, and the birds apparently are here to stay, says the National Geographic Society.

What To Do Till The H-Bomb Comes

Suppose you were running the show in Moscow. You rule Russia right now and you aim to rule the world. What would you do?

You'd shift gears.

This is precisely what they are doing.

State Secretary Dulles calls it a "new look" in Soviet foreign policy. Secretary Dulles says they ran smack up against our unconquerable military might and had to back off . . .

And try something else.

They still want to rule the world but they know now they can't do it with guns or we'll sterilize the planet.

So they will try instead to push the cold war on the "economic and propaganda fronts."

Mr. Dulles believes we can match them with these weapons, too.

His recommendation is a ten-year program of foreign aid.

Mr. Dulles wants us to commit ourselves ten years in advance, saying there are things we shouldn't start unless we aim to finish them.

Congressman Cannon of House Appropriations says, "We never have been able to buy friends. Nations which have profited most by American generosity are among our most bitter opponents."

But Mr. Dulles thinks our little seven per cent of the earth's people can buy the world if we'll do it on the installment plan.

Suppose you were plotting Soviet strategy today. The first thing you would do would be to encourage the United States to de-emphasize military power . . . and re-emphasize foreign spending.

You would concentrate on getting the United States to send its arms, its machinery, its crops and its dollars to the corners of the earth.

The United States has doled out 53 billion dollars to 80 foreign nations since World War Two. Get them to give more, spend more, while you, in Russia keep your own resources, conserve your strength.

If you were calling the signals in the Kremlin you would smile, threaten, coerce, intimidate or assume whatever pose would suit your purpose of getting the United States to spend and spend and spend, more and more and more. . .

Convince the United States that the world is for sale.

Keep them trying to fortify and finance and feed and lead the other 94 per cent until United States of Americans had spent and spent and spent themselves . . . completely.

Then you'd shift gears again.

That's what you would do. That is what they are doing. Precisely.

Nikita Khrushchev, September 19, 1955, told Germany's Chancellor Adenauer: "Communism will triumph throughout the world . . . and we will not have to go to war about it."

Senator Eastland Named Head Of Judiciary Committee

Senator Eastland, Mississippi Democrat, Friday was named chairman of the powerful Senate Judiciary Committee, despite screaming and criminally libelous protests by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and various avowed Communist mouthpieces.

Turncoat Senator Morse of Oregon and leftist Senator Lehman of New York, both Democrats, registered the only protests voiced by lawmakers.

In ratifying the action of the Democratic Steering Committee of the Senate, the solons followed immemorial custom, under which committee chairmanships are awarded on the basis of seniority.

Senator Eastland, a veteran of ten years' service in the Senate although now only 51 years old, was vice-chairman of the Judiciary Committee. The chairman, Senator Kilgore, West Virginia Democrat, died last week.

The basis of the Morse-Lehman attack against the Eastland appointment was that the Mississippian has opposed leftist "civil rights" legislation, which the Communists, through such organs as the Daily Worker, have advocated for years.

Senator Eastland, as everybody knows, has been a leader in the South's fight against the U. S. Supreme Court's legislative fiat attempting to abolish segregation in the public schools; and in the organization of Citizens' Councils to oppose by legal means the integration of the White and Negro races.

Clarence Mitchell, Washington director of the NAACP, flew into a rage when the Senate acted to approve Senator Eastland's appointment as chairman of the Judiciary Committee.

He issued a criminally libelous and highly defamatory statement, which said:

"The Senate of the United States has just voted to put an accessory to murder and treason in its most powerful judicial position. With the exception of the two Senators who opposed their resolution, all others who were present when the vote was taken are guilty of looking the other way when a mad dog is loose in the streets of justice."

For unmitigated slander and insult, and consummate brazen gall, this tirade by the capital lobbyist of the Communist-infiltrated NAACP probably sets a new record of gutter-sniping in America.

It impugns the honor and intensity of every Senator except two—Morse and Lehman. It assails the highly respected, patriotic and able Senator Eastland as a "mad dog."

It reveals vividly and horribly the unscrupulous lengths to which the NAACP is willing to go in order that our nation may be plunged into deeper turmoil and possible civil war.

As vice-chairman and a long-time member of the Judiciary Committee, Senator Eastland has made an enviable record. He enjoys the respect and confidence of the Senate and the nation. His appointment to chairmanship of the group is highly deserved on the basis of ability and merit, aside from any rule of seniority.

Campaign Spending

Only time and cumulative results will show whether the motions now being made in Washington, toward putting curbs on campaign contributions and candidate spending, come under the heading of election reform, grandstand drama or plain comedy.

Since it became known recently that one Senator was offered a gift of $2,500 to help him bear the financial burden of his reelection race, Senators and Representatives have been tumbling over themselves getting into the act looking toward cleansing political campaign practices. Judging by the roars of question and alarm that have arisen it might be concluded this was the first such gift or offer ever made.

There is unanimous agreement that political campaign spending, and the voluntary and pressurized contributions thereto, stand in need of reform, to be scaled down to more reasonable levels. That is true in races for the office of President down through governor to sheriff. But motions of this kind have been made periodically for a century, given thorough airing and eagle-screaming lip service, but campaign funds and candidates spending have mounted with the coming of every election.

It would be a great day in American politics and elections if individual party campaign spending and giving could be curbed by enforceable laws. The citizens are hopeful that the current movement in the Senate and House may result in such enforceable laws. But, viewing similar waves for election purity in the past, it is too early to begin applauding.

Voters in the grassroots sections have become accustomed to having their candidates for high or low office accompanied by bands, movie stars, trick riders and other capercutters and show-offs. They expect to see their favorites on television, hear them on radio, read their paid advertisements in the newspapers and see big billboard appeals along every major highway.

All of these campaigning services cost money, lots of money. And as long as people are willing to "give," and as long as candidates show eagerness to accept the gifts and spend, it is likely the need for reform will continue.

If science ever conquers the common cold, will it come up with something to replace it as an excuse for staying away from the office?

Man is described as the only animal that laughs. One cause of hilarity may be the manner in which he has slandered the horse for so many years.

Perhaps a pound of popcorn contains as much food energy as a steak, as asserted, but what kind of gravy does it make?

If the five-cent cigar is on its way back, as predicted, this will be a nostalgic as well as aromatic reminder of the good old days.

Editor, Morning World:

I would like to express my appreciation for your cooperation in running the many news items leading up to Heart Sunday.

Heart Sunday was a drive in which hundreds of volunteers worked wholeheartedly and without recognition, their only reward being the satisfaction that they were furthering the cause of humanity. This concentrated effort would not have been possible without such fine cooperation among the workers and such a generous response from the donors.

A total of $5,827.91 was recorded as the Heart Sunday total at the end of February, but this should not be considered as the final total, because every day "not-at-home" envelopes are arriving in the mail with further contributions. In fact, citizens are urged to join in the fight against diseases of the heart and circulation throughout the year by making contributions to the Heart Fund through our Memorial Gift Chairman, Mrs. DeWitt Henry, in memory of loved ones.

The 10th, next following, says that "the powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or the people."

The court chose instead to be guided by the 14th amendment which some constitutional authorities maintain gave shaky support for the court's opinion, which overrode the "separate but equal doctrine" of previous decisions covering school segregation.

One oft quoted maxim that "The Constitution is what the Supreme Court says it is," credited to the late Justice Charles Evans Hughes" is heard again in Washington today, but a more pointed shaft is the late Finley Peter Dunne's "I see the Supreme Court is followin' the election returns agin." Dunne wrote under the pen name of "Mr. Dooley."

That was a much admired piece of humor when first uttered in the early part of the century, but today many regard it as too true to be funny. The present Supreme Court is composed in part of gentlemen who were guided before their appointments by the election returns, for they achieved their present positions that way. Chief Justice Earl Warren, Associate Justices Hugo Black (Alabama) Harold H. Burton (Ohio) Sherman Minton (Indiana) were veteran politicians before their appointments.

Four others came up through the government, which in recent years has constructed a veritable legal ladder for that purpose. Justice Minton was a member of a lower federal court when appointed, but earned his political training as a senator from Indiana. Justice John M. Harlan, also advanced from a lower federal court, was not named to the Supreme Court until after the original de-segregation opinion was handed down.

It was recently pointed out that of the entire nine, only two, Harlan and Justice Stanley M. Reed (Kentucky) former solicitor general of the United States, have ever appeared before the Supreme Court in more than one or two cases. Chief Justice Warren so far as records show, had never appeared before the court, though he served for four years as attorney general of California.

The northern editors who have given the matter thought are convinced that some southern states and some southern school districts are just as firm in their determination not to abolish segregation as the federal government is in its opposition to Communist infiltration.

In such a case, the Constitution is apt to suffer more than the states, for there is no action of any sort by the legislative branch of the government to support the Supreme Court's action, and the opinion here is that there will be none.

Washington presents a fair case of the operation of non segregated schools. The local school board says that de-segregation has progressed satisfactorily. In Washington homes, one hears a different story. In fact, it can be truthfully said that a great many colored families in the District of Columbia — and they had a majority of children in local schools before integration — are seeking ways to avoid segregation, and have been more successful than whites because a number of primary schools are still entirely colored. There are no whites in their neighborhoods.

As for the whites, they find that they can either send their children to private schools of which only a few are available, or keep them in integrated schools, where colored pupils have been found to be an average of two years behind their white classmates.

The United States has a beautiful new songbird, the flame-orange and black spotted-breasted Oriole from southern Mexico and Central America. A colony of the orioles nest near Miami, Florida, and the birds apparently are here to stay, says the National Geographic Society.

What To Do Till The H-Bomb Comes

Suppose you were running the show in Moscow. You rule Russia right now and you aim to rule the world. What would you do?

You'd shift gears.

This is precisely what they are doing.

State Secretary Dulles calls it a "new look" in Soviet foreign policy. Secretary Dulles says they ran smack up against our unconquerable military might and had to back off . . .

And try something else.

They still want to rule the world but they know now they can't do it with guns or we'll sterilize the planet.

So they will try instead to push the cold war on the "economic and propaganda fronts."

Mr. Dulles believes we can match them with these weapons, too.

His recommendation is a ten-year program of foreign aid.

Mr. Dulles wants us to commit ourselves ten years in advance, saying there are things we shouldn't start unless we aim to finish them.

Congressman Cannon of House Appropriations says, "We never have been able to buy friends. Nations which have profited most by American generosity are among our most bitter opponents."

But Mr. Dulles thinks our little seven per cent of the earth's people can buy the world if we'll do it on the installment plan.

Suppose you were plotting Soviet strategy today. The first thing you would do would be to encourage the United States to de-emphasize military power . . . and re-emphasize foreign spending.

You would concentrate on getting the United States to send its arms, its machinery, its crops and its dollars to the corners of the earth.

The United States has doled out 53 billion dollars to 80 foreign nations since World War Two. Get them to give more, spend more, while you, in Russia keep your own resources, conserve your strength.

If you were calling the signals in the Kremlin you would smile, threaten, coerce, intimidate or assume whatever pose would suit your purpose of getting the United States to spend and spend and spend, more and more and more. . .

Convince the United States that the world is for sale.

Keep them trying to fortify and finance and feed and lead the other 94 per cent until United States of Americans had spent and spent and spent themselves . . . completely.

Then you'd shift gears again.

That's what you would do. That is what they are doing. Precisely.

Nikita Khrushchev, September 19, 1955: told Germany's Chancellor Adenauer: "Communism will triumph throughout the world . . . and we will not have to go to war about it."

Granular ammonium nitrate is produced by an exclusive process invented and developed by Lenard A. Stengel, a research scientist with CSC. The nitrogen products are used widely as fertilizer in immediate vicinity and in the south for cotton, corn, coats, and other farm commodities.

'Deep-Freeze' Rustlers And Illicit Butchers Plague State's Cattlemen

BATON ROUGE, March 3 (AP) — Deep-freeze rustlers and illicit butchers are creating new headaches today for Louisiana cattlemen, who once thought they had cow stealing stopped cold.

Executive secretary Noah Ward of the Louisiana Livestock Brand Commission said the problem is serious and will be presented to the 1956 Legislature.

"We will have to have an expanded night patrol, with at least eight more inspectors," Ward added.

The Louisiana Cattlemens Assn. already has appealed for the extra state help.

Modern-day rustlers, sneaking into pastures at night to steal a couple of calves for quick butchering, are causing losses running more than $200,000 a year.

Before 1950, rustlers were raking in nearly three million dollars a year until the state figured out a way to stop them.

Since no statewide cattle inspection system existed before 1950, and no statewide record of livestock brands, all rustlers had to do was to show up at a public auction barn and sell their stolen animals. It was a cinch, as long as they were far away from their scene of night raids.

The 1950 Legislature, prompted by the cattlemens' association, provided 22 livestock brand inspectors. They were able to cripple old style rustling by checking every animal sale at auction barns.

With a state book showing all registered brands in Louisiana, inspectors were able to tell whether a branded animal was listed as stolen.

Since then, deep freeze units have become popular and entire animals ean be butchered and stored in them. Ward said illicit butchers and rustlers have ganged up for a new style of cattle stealing that is increasing. The rustlers skip auction barn by butchering their animal.

The meat is placed in the rustlers' own deep freeze units or passed on to butchers who don't care where they get their meat.

Only way to stop the butcher-stealing, Ward said, is to expand livestock night radio patrols, with more inspectors doing detective work.

Cattle sleuths, he said, know how and where to look when they aren't busy at auction barns.

"We're getting more and more complaints about this all the time," the veteran cattle official said. "The butchering has been on the increase because it's too risky now to sell a stolen, branded animal."

Only Texas, California, Nebraska and Colorado have more brands on file. The 1950 brand book was the first in Louisiana's history.

Ward said the first edition has been replaced with a new 1955 version, containing 25,285 brands, compared with 16,778 in the first edition.

Louisiana probably has the oldest brand recording in the United States, with records dating back to 1737 in St. Martin Parish.

Those records were established in the days before the Louisiana Purchase when herds moved from Mexico through southwest Louisiana to New Orleans.

Many southwest Louisiana brands are copies of the old markings coming out of Mexico more than two centuries ago.

The first livestock brand law was adopted in 1825. It lasted until modern times, but it wasn't very effective in halting rustling. Brands were registered only in each parish, so there were 64 brand lists in the state. There were no statewide system of checking brands.

After Louisiana stamped out the cattle tick in 1936, cattlemen and farmers began showing greater interest in protecting their livestock. The 1944 Legislature established the Livestock Brand Commission.

The new statewide brand book was authorized at the same time, but the first edition wasn't ready until 1950. It took that much time to straighten out the various parish brand lists. The law requires the state book to be renewed every five years.

Electrical Improvements Contracts For 7 Months Total $204,949 In City

T. L. VanFossen, superintendent of the Monroe city electrical system, yesterday announced that $204,949 has been spent or committed in contracts for lectrical improvements from July 1, 1955 to February 1, 1956.

This amount, he said, is part of the $400,000 borrowed by the city from local banks last year to expedite improvements in the electrical and water systems. Of the total borrowed, $250,000 was earmarked for use in the electrical department, VanFossen explained.

Giving a resume of work done since July and until February 1 this year, VanFossen said his department crews have installed 325 new poles; 235 new transformers; over 175,000 linear feet of electricity conductor lines, larger than the previous conductors; 75 new, modern street lights; and began installation of 50 new mercury vapor street lights on Louisville avesue.

The electrical engineer said his plan is to illuminate all highways and heavy arterial routes with modern lighting.

During the past six months, he said, his department has replaced 3,500 street light bulbs; installed 500 drop lights in the city areas where there was no street lighting previously (on a temporary basis, to be replaced as soon as possible with correct, controlled street lights); and relocated 70 poles at the requests of home owners or emmercial developments.

VanFossen said that parts of his improvement program in city electrical distribution and lighting will require about two years "unless there is an increase in the street lighting budget."

He emphasized that electrical substations and other equipment require a large outlay of money and that work on any improvement program will be slowed unless the funds are provided when needed.

Also included as part of the overall electrical department improvement program, VanFossen said, is that "there is always someone standing by to answer the phone and take emergency calls relating to the city electrical system. And when a fire truck goes to a fire in the city, we are there, too."

Electrical projects included in the $204,949 total and on which contractors have finished work or are in process of completing, VanFossen said, are:

Point Drive — Rebuilding the distribution system, $9,583, completed.

Pargoud Addition — All new electrical facilities, $9,317, completed.

Bass Subdivision — All new electrical facilities, $17,328.50, completed.

South Lee Avenue — Improvements for all southside, including E. A. Conway Memorial hospital and Louisiana Training Institute, $3,859.

Completing the total of $204,9[illegible] is $10,272.42 expended for electri[illegible] cable as part of a long range program to put all distribution lines in the business district underground.

Since then, deep freeze units have become popular and entire animals ean be butchered and stored in them. Ward said illicit butchers and rustlers have ganged up for a new style of cattle stealing that is increasing. The rustlers skip auction barn by butchering their animal.

The meat is placed in the rustlers' own deep freeze units or passed on to butchers who don't care where they get their meat.

Only way to stop the butcher-stealing, Ward said, is to expand livestock night radio patrols, with more inspectors doing detective work.

Cattle sleuths, he said, know how and where to look when they aren't busy at auction barns.

"We're getting more and more complaints about this all the time," the veteran cattle official said. "The butchering has been on the increase because it's too risky now to sell a stolen, branded animal."

Only Texas, California, Nebraska and Colorado have more brands on file. The 1950 brand book was the first in Louisiana's history.

Ward said the first edition has been replaced with a new 1955 version, containing 25,285 brands, compared with 16,778 in the first edition.

Louisiana probably has the oldest brand recording in the United States, with records dating back to 1737 in St. Martin Parish.

Those records were established in the days before the Louisiana Purchase when herds moved from Mexico through southwest Louisiana to New Orleans.

Many southwest Louisiana brands are copies of the old markings coming out of Mexico more than two centuries ago.

The first livestock brand law was adopted in 1825. It lasted until modern times, but it wasn't very effective in halting rustling. Brands were registered only in each parish, so there were 64 brand lists in the state. There were no statewide system of checking brands.

After Louisiana stamped out the cattle tick in 1936, cattlemen and farmers began showing greater interest in protecting their livestock. The 1944 Legislature established the Livestock Brand Commission.

The new statewide brand book was authorized at the same time, but the first edition wasn't ready until 1950. It took that much time to straighten out the various parish brand lists. The law requires the state book to be renewed every five years.

Electrical Improvements Contracts For 7 Months Total $204,949 In City

T. L. VanFossen, superintendent of the Monroe city electrical system, yesterday announced that $204,949 has been spent or committed in contracts for lectrical improvements from July 1, 1955 to February 1, 1956.

This amount, he said, is part of the $400,000 borrowed by the city from local banks last year to expedite improvements in the electrical and water systems. Of the total borrowed, $250,000 was earmarked for use in the electrical department, VanFossen explained.

Giving a resume of work done since July and until February 1 this year, VanFossen said his department crews have installed 325 new poles; 235 new transformers; over 175,000 linear feet of electricity conductor lines, larger than the previous conductors; 75 new, modern street lights; and began installation of 50 new mercury vapor street lights on Louisville avesue.

The electrical engineer said his plan is to illuminate all highways and heavy arterial routes with modern lighting.

During the past six months, he said, his department has replaced 3,500 street light bulbs; installed 500 drop lights in the city areas where there was no street lighting previously (on a temporary basis, to be replaced as soon as possible with correct, controlled street lights); and relocated 70 poles at the requests of home owners or cmmercial developments.

VanFossen said that parts of his improvement program in city electrical distribution and lighting will require about two years "'unless there is an increase in the street lighting budget."

He emphasized that electrical substations and other equipment require a large outlay of money and that work on any improvement program will be slowed unless the funds are provided when needed.

Also included as part of the overall electrical department improvement program, VanFossen said, is that "there is always someone standing by to answer the phone and take emergency calls relating to the city electrical system. And when a fire truck goes to a fire in the city, we are there, too."

Electrical projects included in the $204,949 total and on which contractors have finished work or are in process of completing, VanFossen said, are:

Point Drive — Rebuilding the distribution system, $9,583, completed.

Pargoud Addition — All new electrical facilities, $9,317, completed.

Bass Subdivision — All new electrical facilities, $17,328.50, completed.

South Lee Avenue — Improvements for all southside, including E. A. Conway Memorial hospital and Louisiana Training Institute, $3,859.

Completing the total of $204,9[illegible] is $10,272.42 expended for electricable as part of a long range program to put all distribution lines in the business district underground.

4 Men, Woman Rescued From Storm-Tossed Raft

PANAMA, March 3 (AP) — Four men and a woman who hoped to star in a movie thriller made at sea recuperated today aboard a rescue ship in the Pacific—safe from the perils of the storm-tossed raft Cantuta.

Their food almost gone after 90 days of drifting, the adventurers were taken from their 30-by-13 foot balsa perch last night by lifeboats from the U. S. hydrographic survey ship Rehoboth.

Amateur radio operator Juan Francisco Arias of Panama said the Rehoboth's operator messaged that the Peruvian raft's crew appeared in good condition although weak from lack of food.

Peruvian Eduardo Ingris, 45, a professional photographer, headed the expedition, which set out from Talara, Peru, last Dec. 4, hoping the vagries of wind and water would carry them to the South Sea Islands. The voyagers were picked up about 1,000 miles northwest of the Galapagos Islands, thousands of miles from their goal.

Included among Ingris' daring companions was Natalia Mazuelos 29, who was to play the feminine lead in the movie the photographer planned to make on the long voyage to Polynesia. Others were Mirko Guerecky, 29, Czech radio operator; Andy Rost, 27; a Dutch seaman; and Joaquin Guerrero, Argentine sportsman.

The U. S. Navy ordered the Rehoboth and the USS Greenville Victory, the latter returning from an antarctic mission, to search for the raft after it sent out a distress call.

For most of the last month the low-riding raft had been caught in a giant whirlpool. Food supplies and fuel for a small power plant were nearly exhausted. Sickness also struck the crew.

The two search ships rendezvoused Tuesday at the Cantuta's last reported position. But this position was inaccurate. Today's radio message from the Rehoboth reported the raft's large compass had been washed overboard by a wave, causing Ingris to fall back on a small pocket compass.

On Wednesday the Rehoboth established radio contact with the Cantuta, but the raft's crew failed to see the tracer shells fired by the search ship.

Yesterday the Rehoboth's radio operator radioed the raft "We have you on our radar." The Cantuta replied it had finally seen a flare. Less than a half-hour after radar contact, the Rehoboth had reached the raft.

for rocket ship explorations in "deeper space."

For the immediate future, Von Braun strongly indicated that the satellites this country will send to altitudes of 200 to 300 miles can help military planners with a tricky problem of the guided missile era. That problem is to locate more exactly points behind the Iron Curtain that are inaccurately mapped now and would be targets in a war.

For future long-range ballistics missiles to hit their targets, launching crews must know just where the aiming points are on the earth's surface in relation to the launching points. That is hard in Russia because many points are not where latitude and longitude coordinates on present inaccurate maps indicate they are.

Earth satellites can be reference points, as they whirl about the globe at 18,000 miles an hour, from which more accurate mapping may be possible. The U. S. plans to launch the first of 10 by Sept. 30, 1957.

The film, now being used in armed forces education programs, was shown to reporters at the Pentagon. A transcript was provided.

Honduras Coast Oil Leases Sold

HOUSTON, Tex., March 3 (AP)—Oilman John Mecom and associates have acquired about 50 million acres of Honduras coastline for oil exploration.

Mecom said the property came from Compania Petroleria Hondurena, which retains 15 per cent of its acreage. The Honduran firm secured the original concession and includes, in addition to Honduras businessmen, a group of Texas operators headed by David McCord of Dallas and including the estate of the late John Sullivan of San Antonio.

Hondurena spudded a test in the Mosquota area Jan. 25 with a projected depth of 4,500. The tost now is below 1,795 feet.

The acreage extends the entire northern length of Honduras, with all but about 14 million acres being offshore.

brought into the United States under this highly organized fraud system," the summary of his report said, "it is obvious that Chinese Red agents can be so brought in."

So far American authorities know of no case where a Red operative has sneaked in through connivance with the passport ring. But Drumwright pointed out that young men applying in Hong Kong for passports to the United States have studied in Red Chinese schools and that 87 per cent have resided under Communist rule at one time or another.

There also is evidence the Chinese Reds may be preparing to blackmail Chinese in the United States illegally into working for the Communists.

For the immediate future, Von Braun strongly indicated that the satellites this country will send to altitudes of 200 to 300 miles can help military planners with a tricky problem of the guided missile era. That problem is to locate more exactly points behind the Iron Curtain that are inaccurately mapped now and would be targets in a war.

For future long-range ballistics missiles to hit their targets, launching crews must know just where the aiming points are on the earth's surface in relation to the launching points. That is hard in Russia because many points are not where latitude and longitude coordinates on present inaccurate maps indicate they are.

Earth satellites can be reference points, as they whirl about the globe at 18,000 miles an hour, from which more accurate mapping may be possible. The U. S. plans to launch the first of 10 by Sept. 30, 1957.

The film, now being used in armed forces education programs, was shown to reporters at the Pentagon. A transcript was provided.

There also is evidence the Chinese Reds may be preparing to blackmail Chinese in the United States illegally into working for the Communists.

GSA Okays Auditorium Use By Civil Rightists Despite South's Protest

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — The General Services Administration, rejecting protests of 30 Southern congressmen, ruled today a government auditorium here could be used for a civil rights meeting beginning tomorrow.

However, the 30 Southerners, all Democrats, appealed to President Eisenhower to forbid use of the interdepartmental auditorium for a three-day national assembly on civil rights. They called the meeting "political in nature."

The White House took no immediate position on the controversy but promised the Southerners an answer "shortly." Murray Snyder, White House press secretary said the answer would not be today.

The GSA is the government housekeeping agency with supervision over some buildings.

Rep. John Williams (D-Miss), one of the protesting congressmen, released a letter from Charles K. Ford, acting GSA regional director, which said officials were advised the meeting was not political but rather "one to discuss nonpartisan social problems."

It added that the Labor Department, in whose building the auditorium is located, decided use of the auditorium for the meeting was proper, "not in violation of our regulations" and that there were no grounds for canceling the meeting.

The assembly is sponsored by the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights, the chairman of which is Roy Wilkins, head of the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People. The protesting Congress members said rules forbid use of a federal auditorium for a sponsored meeting.

They described the planned meeting as "a mass lobby meeting which is avowedly political in nature."

After receiving Ford's letter, Williams fired back a telegram saying that "it is quite evident that your agency is surrendering itself to the political pressures of the NAACP and its fellow traveling affiliates."

Gary Lee Fife, 4-Year-Old Boy, Fatally Injured

BASTROP, March 3 (Special)— Crossing a downtown street in Bastrop with an ice cream cone in his hand, Gary Lee Fife, age four years, ran in front of an auto driven by Elvis B. Faler, 37, of Mer Rouge, Friday at 2 p.m. A fractured skull caused death as he was being admitted to the Bastrop General hospital, where he was rushed by an ambulance. The case was investigated by Coroner J. N. Jones, who resported as stated.

Members of the Bastrop police department decided upon investigation that there was lack of grounds on which to prefer charges as the child darted directly in front of the approaching car, which he probably had failed to observe.

The funeral will be held in the Assembly of God church in Bastrop, Sunday at 1 p.m. The pastor, the Rev. James Allen, will officiate and interment will be in the city cemetery, with Blackwell and Golden Funeral home in charge.

The boy is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jewel Fife, and by an only brother, Patrick Fife.

Rigid Vs. Flexible Sup ports

Rival Camps Both Claim Victory On Farm Measure

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — Rival camps staked out conflicting victory claims today in the hot political battle over rigid vs. flexible farm price supports.

Sen. Ellender (D-La), spokesman for a group that wants rigid mandatory supports restored, said in an interview "We ought to win by about five votes."

"I don't agree with him," said Sen. Aiken (R-Vt), who wants the present flexible supports continued.

"My guess is that rigid supports will be defeated by from five to seven votes," Aiken told a reporter.

The Senate is under agreement to start voting Thursday.

The initial test should come on a move by Sen. Anderson (D-NM), former secretary of agriculture, to eliminate a rigid support provision for cotton, corn and peanuts from an omnibus bill that has been debated for most of the past two weeks.

Two years ago the Senate by a 49-44 margin voted to end rigid wartime supports and approved a system of lower, flexible supports.

Those favoring the flexible supports then included 39 Republicans and 10 Democrats. On the losing side were 36 Democrats and 8 Republicans.

"We should win this time by about the same margin that we lost two years ago," Ellender said. "The other side is counting some senators who won't vote for them."

Aiken said the Senate is closely divided again but that he is as confident of the final result as he was in 1954.

So far only two senators have announced they have changed positions.

Sen. Eastland, (D-Miss), who supported the rigid levels last time, said he wants flexible supports now for cotton and other basic crops.

Sen. Carlson (R-Kan), who voted for flexible supports in 1954 has announced he favors rigid supports on wheat for this year's crops, to be followed by a trial of a "domestic parity price" plan. This is roughly described as a two-price plan, one for domestic markets and one for foreign markets.

So far Senate floor debate has had little attention from senators, indicating that most of them already know how they will vote.

Most senators have spoken in favor of the administration soil bank proposal to offer farmers more than a billion dollars in special payments over the next few years to underplant crops now in surplus.

As the Senate showdown approached, it became known that the administration has decided to leave it up to Congress whether a specific ceiling should be placed on individual price support payments.

President Eisenhower suggested such a limit in his Jan. 9 farm message but did not go into specific figures.

In sending a new farm bill draft to the House Agriculture Committee, Secretary of Agriculture Benson noted the proposal "does not contain a provision placing a limitation on the amount of price support loans which may be obtained by any individual farmers."

He said Congress should decide whether such a limitation is deemed necessary.

The Senate Agriculture Committee did not include support ceilings in its farm bill but amendments are pending to include them.

The House already has voted for a return to the system of rigid price supports but is expected to take up other farm legislation later.

Cotton Futures Zig-Zag Wildly; Most Decline

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The cotton futures market followed a zig-zag course this week and finished with most deliveries well inside the minus column.

With the exception of nearby May, active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange wound up the week with net losses which extended to $3.05 a bale. Nearby May closed 45 cents a bale higher.

The market started out firm, slumped badly at midweek when the government announced plans for a new cotton surplus export program, and steadied toward the close. In most instances, however, the final rally was not strong enough to wipe out earlier losses.

Selling was touched off by announcement that the U.S. Department of Agriculture had approved a new export program for upland cotton held by the Commodity Credit Corporation. While no exports will be permitted prior to start of the new crop year Aug. 1, The program was announced at this time to domestic mills and foreign users will be acquainted with USDA policy in making forward sales and purchases, it was pointed out.

Traders noted with considerable interest that all qualities of CCC upland cotton will be available for sale under the new program. This was not the case with the original surplus export program which ended Feb. 28.

Under the initial special cotton export program, the CCC disposed of the maximum permissable one million bales in a little less than two months, it was pointed out. The program thus was considerably more successful than many in the trade had expected.

Latest weekly export figures indicate that none of the CCC cotton sold for export has yet moved out of the contrary.

Exports for the week ended Tuesday totaled only 12,000 bales. This compared with 24,000 the week before and 63,000 in the like year-ago week. The latest weekly shipments raised total exports for the season through Tuesday to 969,000 bales vs. 2,274,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Grain Futures In Hectic Week

CHICAGO, March 3 (AP) —Grains went through a hectic five days on the Board of Trade this week. When it was over, practically all futures were down from a week ago.

Trading was very active at times with wide price swings and rapid changes in the trend. This was particularly true in soybeans.

During the week all contracts of wheat, all soybeans except September, and all lard except July made new seasonal highs. In contrast, March oats sank to a new seasonal low and March corn went down to within ⅛ of its seasonal low.

Wheat closed the week 2⅛ lower to ⅛ higher, corn ⅜-1⅛ lower, oats 2½ lower to ¼ higher, rye ½ lower to ½ higher, soybeans ¾-2¾ lower and lard 2 to 5 cents a hundred pounds higher.

appeared the picture, the very latest, of Mrs. Grover Cleveland, a former First Lady of the Land. She was attired in a tight-fitting jacket and an expansive skirt that was long enough to sweep the floors as she walked over them, no short dresses for womankind in that age! An inside story one of a series was contributed by Mrs. Cleveland, who was described as just having vacated the White House.

There is a story entitled "A Wonderful Little World of People" which told of the Shaker community of Lebanon, N.Y. The village and the people were shown in pictures. By explanation this was a religious group who lived in a communist manner. They got the name "Shaker" as they shook their bodies when impelled by religious impulse. Today there are barely 100 of these people left in this town.

Three small model churches were shown in pictures, designed by the magazine's artist. One church shown was said to cost about $2,000 and another costing an estimated $800 to $1,200, while a semi-colonial was with estimated cost of $3,000 — all quite a far cry from such structures of today costing far up in hundreds of thousand dollars.

A Hart Schaffner and Marx Man's suit was advertised at $15. New summer suits for women were advertised for only $4.

Not a single mention of an automobile, for "horseless carriages" were to come years later. Bicycles, however, were the fad then it appeared. They were advertised for sale at $20 up to $75.

The reader, when finishing a perusal of this ancient magazine, was forced to admit that the entire world has been completely reconstructed in the years that have elapsed since it was issued.

We of Monroe today proudly welcome B'nai B'rith, oldest and largest Jewish service organization in existence. Its name means "Sons of the Covenant". It was founded in New York in 1843 by 12 immigrant Jews who saw need for bringing together all Jewish people in the country under a single group. The organization now includes about 1,500 groups for men, women and young people with membership of 200,000.

This organization performs an inestimable service in its promotion of Americanism, youth welfare education, community service, philanthropy, interfaith, good will and in defense of Jewish rights. It is a fine organization and performs an unique position in rendering a service that no other organization could do.

We hope the present convention will prove a great success in the extension of knowledge and general appreciation of B'nai B'rith.

Mrs. Marie Wallace and her son Mike Wallace are winners in a contest that will afford for them a trip to New York and back, all expenses paid. Also they will be presented on a national TV hookup program Friday.

The program is entitled, "The Big Pay Off."

Mother and son will leave Thursday night by Delta Airlines for New York and they anticipate a delightful outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Cahn, now residing in Miami Beach, Fla., are back in Monroe for a few days and are staying at Hotel Frances while here.

One of the chief reasons for the visit here lies in the fact that on Monday, Mr. Cahn will be eighty years of age, but he is in perfect health and vigor and no one would believe he is becoming an octogenerian.

Mr. Cahn, a native son here, and where he spent all his life prior to removal to Florida, is widely known and all delight in his interesting personality.

Higher Federal Road Spending In Future Forecast

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP) — The Commerce Department's solicitor in the Bureau of Public Roads today predicted increased federal expenditures for the nation's highways.

Henry J. Kaltenbach told the regional conference of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers he believed the increase would come even if Congress doesn't pass proposed federal highway bills.

Twenty-seven million vehicles were put on the roads in a 10-year period ending in 1954, he said, and Congress is considering whether to embark on a new concept of federal highway legislation.

"One of the most important questions," he said, "will be who will pay for an enlarged highway program. It is pretty well conceded in Washington that there is a great need for an expanded highway program. Everyone wants it as long as the other fellow will pay for it."

Kaltenbach said the main feature of the program now before Congress is a proposal to construct the entire interstate system within a given period, and to supply the federal dollars for the job on the basis of estimated cost.

Petroleum Firms Turn Legislative Lobby To Taxes

WSHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — Now that the Natural Gas Bill is dead, the oil and gas industry's legislative interest has shifted to bills that would boost its taxes.

Heading these are Senate and House measures to cut the 27½ per cent depletion allowance now granted oil and gas operators for income tax purposes.

There is a bill by Rep. Bailey (D-WVa) to impose a tax of 10 cents a thousand cubic feet on natural gas imported into the United States. While this would be a protection for domestic producers, it would add to the costs of the U.S. Companies which may import gas from Canada and Mexico.

One pending bill, by Rep. Mills (D-Ark), would give the industry some tax benefits. Its primary purpose, Mills said is to prevent proceeds from sales of oil, gas and other mineral payments from being taxed as capital gains.

Rep. Heselton (R-Mass), author of the House bill to reduce the depletion allowance, said he felt "there is no question but what this is one of the biggest loopholes in the tax system."

Sen. Williams (R-Del; has introduced a similar bill in the Senate.

Another measure has been offered by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah). He has resubmitted as a separate bill a proposal to curb imports or exports of natural gas if they injure competing fuel industries in the United States. He had sought to make the proposal an amendment to the Natural Gas Bill when it was before the Senate but all amendments were voted down before the Senate sent the measure to the White House. President Eisenhower vetoed the bill.

The Mills' legislation would change the tax treatment of sales, exchanges, transfers and gifts of oil, gas and production payments and restore the 1939 international revenue code rules for determining oil and gas property interests.

"The bill," Mills said, "is intended to overrule recent court decisions which have held that oil and other mineral payments are property interests like royalty and operating interests and, therefore, are entitled to the same tax treatment upon their sale."

Stocks Advance Strongly In Week To Record Highs

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The stock market this week cheered President Eisenhower's decision to run again and advanced strongly to a record high.

The Associated Press average was up $1.70 for the week and closed at $181.60. This exceeded the old high by 10 cents, set Sept. 23.

The market had tumbled in a major reaction brought on by the President's heart attack. The recovery was as swift as the fall. By Dec. 5 the average again reached $181.50. It held there the next day.

Then the market began a gradual decline and fluctuated uncertainly below its peaks. Two weeks ago it started a drive ahead in the expectation that the President would run again.

If the market makes a decisive pentration of the old peaks, that will be exceedingly bullish. If the market fails to extend its advance with strength, that will be exceedingly bearish.

The five most active issues this week were Benguet Mining off ¼, U. S. Steel unchasged, General Motors off ¼, F. L. Jacobs up 2⅛ and Royal Dutch Petroleum up 3¾.

The corporate bond market was narrowly higher this week. U.S. government bonds were lower, despite a strong recovery Friday.

An inside story one of a series was contributed by Mrs. Cleveland, who was described as just having vacated the White House.

There is a story entitled "A Wonderful Little World of People" which told of the Shaker community of Lebanon, N.Y. The village and the people were shown in pictures. By explanation this was a religious group who lived in a communist manner. They got the name "Shaker" as they shook their bodies when impelled by religious impulse. Today there are barely 100 of these people left in this town.

Three small model churches were shown in pictures, designed by the magazine's artist. One church shown was said to cost about $2,000 and another costing an estimated $800 to $1,200, while a semi-colonial was with estimated cost of $3,000 — all quite a far cry from such structures of today costing far up in hundreds of thousand dollars.

A Hart Schaffner and Marx Man's suit was advertised at $15. New summer suits for women were advertised for only $4.

Not a single mention of an automobile, for "horseless carriages" were to come years later. Bicycles, however, were the fad then it appeared. They were advertised for sale at $20 up to $75.

The reader, when finishing a perusal of this ancient magazine, was forced to admit that the entire world has been completely reconstructed in the years that have elapsed since it was issued.

We of Monroe today proudly welcome B'nai B'rith, oldest and largest Jewish service organization in existence. Its name means "Sons of the Covenant". It was founded in New York in 1843 by 12 immigrant Jews who saw need for bringing together all Jewish people in the country under a single group. The organization now includes about 1,500 groups for men, women and young people with membership of 200,000.

This organization performs an inestimable service in its promotion of Americanism, youth welfare education, community service, philanthropy, interfaith, good will and in defense of Jewish rights. It is a fine organization and performs an unique position in rendering a service that no other organization could do.

We hope the present convention will prove a great success in the extension of knowledge and general appreciation of B'nai B'rith.

Mrs. Marie Wallace and her son Mike Wallace are winners in a contest that will afford for them a trip to New York and back, all expenses paid. Also they will be presented on a national TV hook-up program Friday.

The program is entitled, "The Big Pay Off."

Mother and son will leave Thursday night by Delta Airlines for New York and they anticipate a delightful outing.

Mr. and Mrs. Sol Cahn, now residing in Miami Beach, Fla., are back in Monroe for a few days and are staying at Hotel Frances while here.

One of the chief reasons for the visit here lies in the fact that on Monday, Mr. Cahn will be eighty years of age, but he is in perfect health and vigor and no one would believe he is becoming an octogenerian.

Mr. Cahn, a native son here, and where he spent all his life prior to removal to Florida, is widely known and all delight in his interesting personality.

Higher Federal Road Spending In Future Forecast

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP) — The Commerce Department's solicitor in the Bureau of Public Roads today predicted increased federal expenditures for the nation's highways.

Henry J. Kaltenbach told the regional conference of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers he believed the increase would come even if Congress doesn't pass proposed federal highway bills.

Twenty-seven million vehicles were put on the roads in a 10-year period ending in 1954, he said, and Congress is considering whether to embark on a new concept of federal highway legislation.

"One of the most important questions," he said, "will be who will pay for an enlarged highway program. It is pretty well conceded in Washington that there is a great need for an expanded highway program. Everyone wants it as long as the other fellow will pay for it."

Kaltenbach said the main feature of the program now before Congress is a proposal to construct the entire interstate system within a given period, and to supply the federal dollars for the job on the basis of estimated cost.

Petroleum Firms Turn Legislative Lobby To Taxes

WSHINGTON, March 3 (AP) — Now that the Natural Gas Bill is dead, the oil and gas industry's legislative interest has shifted to bills that would boost its taxes.

Heading these are Senate and House measures to cut the 27½ per cent depletion allowance now granted oil and gas operators for income tax purposes.

There is a bill by Rep. Bailey (D-WVa) to impose a tax of 10 cents a thousand cubic feet on natural gas imported into the United States. While this would be a protection for domestic producers, it would add to the costs of the U.S. Companies which may import gas from Canada and Mexico.

One pending bill, by Rep. Mills (D-Ark), would give the industry some tax benefits. Its primary purpose, Mills said is to prevent proceeds from sales of oil, gas and other mineral payments from being taxed as capital gains.

Rep. Heselton (R-Mass), author of the House bill to reduce the depletion allowance, said he felt "there is no question but what this is one of the biggest loopholes in the tax system."

"Those benefitting," he added, "obviously are not bearing their fair share of the tax burden."

Sen. Williams (R-Del; has introduced a similar bill in the Senate.

Another measure has been offered by Sen. Watkins (R-Utah). He has resubmitted as a separate bill a proposal to curb imports or exports of natural gas if they injure competing fuel industries in the United States. He had sought to make the proposal an amendment to the Natural Gas Bill when it was before the Senate but all amendments were voted down before the Senate sent the measure to the White House. President Eisenhower vetoed the bill.

The Mills legislation would change the tax treatment of sales, exchanges, transfers and gifts of oil, gas and production payments and restore the 1939 international revenue code rules for determining oil and gas property interests.

"The bill," Mills said, "is intended to overrule recent court decisions which have held that oil and other mineral payments are property interests like royalty and operating interests and, therefore, are entitled to the same tax treatment upon their sale."

Stocks Advance Strongly In Week To Record Highs

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—The stock market this week cheered President Eisenhower's decision to run again and advanced strongly to a record high.

The Associated Press average was up $1.70 for the week and closed at $181.60. This exceeded the old high by 10 cents, set Sept. 23.

The market had tumbled in a major reaction brought on by the President's heart attack. The recovery was as swift as the fall. By Dec. 5 the average again reached $181.50. It held there the next day.

Then the market began a gradual decline and fluctuated uncertainly below its peaks. Two weeks ago it started a drive ahead in the expectation that the President would run again.

If the market makes a decisive pentration of the old peaks, that will be exceedingly bullish. If the market fails to extend its advance with strength, that will be exceedingly bearish.

The five most active issues this week were Benguet Mining off ¼, U. S. Steel unchasged, General Motors off ¼, F. L. Jacobs up 2⅛ and Royal Dutch Petroleum up 3¾.

The corporate bond market was narrowly higher this week. U.S. government bonds were lower, despite a strong recovery Friday.

AT LONG LAST—

Science has finally invented a hearing aid that can for the first time in history, be prescription fitted to your individual hearing loss. This means that a hard of hearing person's loss of hearing may be scientifically corrected by means of precise adjustments, made within the hearing aid itself. The makers of this revolutionary aid have also conquered the arch enemy of hearing aid users, namely, clothing noise. The trade name of this new aid is the AUREX. U. S. Business Charts New Course In Light Of Ike's Decision On Second Term

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Business charted its course this week in the light of President Eisenhower's decision to run for re-election.

Just as it dominated the political scene, Eisenhower's "yes" was also the week's biggest business story.

On the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, the news touched off a frenzied burst of shouting applause and the heaviest trading for a single day—3,900,000 shares — since September. By week's end, the Associated Press 60-stock average had broken through to a historic high of $181.60.

While Wall Street exulted, Main Street sought to evaluate the President's announcement in terms of the many complex economic trends that shape the pattern of retail sales and profits. Biggest question confronting merchants was this: Would Eisenhower's "yes" encourage shoppers to spend more freely? Some, like Gen. Robert Wood of Sears Roebuck, said they thought it would. Others said it wouldn't make much difference and that business would be good anyway.

Bankers wondered what impact it would have on the borrowing plans of big corporations and little consumers. Home builders probed for a clue to administration policies on mortgage credit. Industrialists wanted to know how the announcement would affect capital spending programs.

Behind the intense interest in the President's decision lay a growing accumulations of uncertainty and nervousness about the immediate business outlook. The great boom that had swept the economy to historic heights in 1955 still packed plenty of punch to be sure, but some major lines were heading downward while others showed a tendency to stand pat. During most of last year they had been reaching for records.

Even so, the great forward movement of the boom was vividly apparent in many of the latest weekly indicators. Production and refining of crude oil were the highest ever recorded. Soft coal output was up 13.5 per cent over the like week last year, freight carloadings up 9 per cent, and department store sales up 4 per cent. Steel production was scheduled at 98.4 per cent of capacity; heavy construction contract awards for the first nine weeks of 1956 showed a gain of 35 per cent over the like period last year.

Auto production, although 18 per cent under booming year-ago levels, chalked up a 9 per cent gain this week as Chevrolet and Ford swung back to normal operations. Ward's Automotive Reports said production in the United States for the first three months of 1956 would total 1,775,800 cars—second only to the record 2,126,895 produced in the roaring first quarter of 1955. The cutback from last year's sizzling pace is intended to reduce the record stocks of unsold cars in the hands of retail dealers.

U. S. Business Charts New Course In Light Of Ike's Decision On Second Term

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Business charted its course this week in the light of President Eisenhower's decision to run for re-election.

Just as it dominated the political scene, Eisenhower's "yes" was also the week's biggest business story.

On the floor of the New York Stock Exchange, the news touched off a frenzied burst of shouting applause and the heaviest trading for a single day—3,900,000 shares — since September. By week's end, the Associated Press 60-stock average had broken through to a historic high of $181.60.

While Wall Street exulted, Main Street sought to evaluate the President's announcement in terms of the many complex economic trends that shape the pattern of retail sales and profits. Biggest question confronting merchants was this: Would Eisenhower's "yes" encourage shippers to spend more freely? Some, like Gen. Robert Wood of Sears Roebuck, said they thought it would. Others said it wouldn't make much difference and that business would be good anyway.

Bankers wondered what impact it would have on the borrowing plans of big corporations and little consumers. Home builders probed for a clue to administration policies or mortgage credit. Industrialists wanted to know how the announcement would affect capital spending programs.

Behind the intense interest in the President's decision lay a growing accumulations of uncertainty and nervousness about the immediate business outlook. The great boom that had swept the economy to historic heights in 1955 still packed plenty of punch to be sure, but some major lines were heading downward while others showed a tendency to stand pat. During most of last year they had been reaching for records.

Even so, the great forward movement of the boom was vividly apparent in many of the latest weekly indicators. Production and refining of crude oil were the highest ever recorded. Soft coal output was up 13.5 per cent over the like week last year, freight carloadings up 9 per cent, and department store sales up 4 per cent. Steel production was scheduled at 98.4 per cent of capacity; heavy construction contract awards for the first nine weeks of 1956 showed a gain of 35 per cent over the like period last year.

Auto production, although 18 per cent under booming year-ago levels, chalked up a 9 per cent gain this week as Chevrolet and Ford swung back to normal operations. Ward's Automotive Reports said production in the United States for the first three months of 1956 would total 1,775,800 cars—second only to the record 2,126,895 produced in the roaring first quarter of 1955. The cutback from last year's sizzling pace is intended to reduce the record stocks of unsold cars in the hands of retail dealers.

Demaret, Mayfield Share Lead In Baton Rouge Open

Haas, Harris One Stroke Away For Last Round Today

BATON ROUGE, La.—March 3 (AP)—Jimmy Demaret and Shelley Mayfield played steady subpar golf over a soggy course today to tie for the three-quarter lead in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open tournament.

Mayfield, Westbury, N. Y., had a 5-under-70 to move into a tie with a 208 total after 54 holes.

Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., held onto a share of the lead with a one-under-par 71 over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

Freddie Haas, former Louisiana State University golfer who now plays at Claremont, Calif., fired a seven-under-par 65, the best round of the day, to move into a tie for second with Bob Harris of Chicago at 209. Haas' 65 tied the tourney record shared by four others.

Harris had 69 today.

George Bayer of Cincinnati, who was tied with Demaret for the lead after 36 holes, shot a 73 for a 210 total. He was tied with Fred Hawkins of El Paso, who had a five-under-par 67.

The gently-rolling country club course was soaked by an all-night rain, but skies cleared today and bright sunshine in the afternoon helped playing conditions.

However, most of the course still was soggy with water standing one to two feet deep in some low-lying areas and in sand traps.

Ed Furgol of St. Louis, in second place for the first two rounds, fell three strokes back of the leaders with a one-over-par 73 for a 211 total.

Jackie Burke Jr. Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., first day leader with a 65 who blew to an 80 yesterday, recovered for a 71 today, but still was out of contention with a 216.

The standing water caused a dispute over Mayfield's score. On the ninth hole, his ball landed in a puddle. Under the rules, he dropped it out without a penalty and scored a birdie on the hole.

However, other players protested he dropped it away from a tree blocking his path to the green. PGA officials overruled the protest.

'White' Indians Capture Intrasquad Game, 27-14

BY LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

The "Whites" of the 1956 Northeast Indians football team last night folded the "maroons," 27-14, in an intra-squad battle that capped off three weeks of spring training.

In the opening minutes Tony Hartsell, left half, carried the ball in to the end zone to throw the Whites ahead, 7-0, after the extra point had been recorded. But the Maroons returned with their fighting spirit to send Aubrey Wade, left half, roaring on a 60-yard run for a TD. Then they added the extra marker to tie the score, 7-7.

Bennie Franklin handed his Maroon team the lead early in the second period with a touchdown, but right half Tommy Leos ran the ball some 10 yards for a six-point gain after Powell had gone 20 yards and made a sensational lateral to him. The Whites picked up the opportunity of the extra point to obtain a 14-14 tie at the halftime.

The Whites and quarterback Zeke Zametto were dominant the entire second half. In the third period of the game the Whites ran ahead, 21-14, through Zemetto's paydirt run and an additional one point. To exhibit more of his abilities Zametto tossed a pass to Bill McDonald in the final quarter to gain a first down for the light colored group. Just two plays later "Zeke" rolled over 30 yards of Maroon ground into the endzone to end the scoring at 27 to 14 for the Whites.

A number of substitutions were made on each side.

Head Coach Devone Payne stated after seeing this clash among his boys that he expected to have an improved squad next season even though he is losing eight men. He stated that he will have more reserve power "if the boys can make their grades."

Santee Runs As Field Cut

NEW YORK, March 3—UP—Wes Santee, an amateur for a night, raced through a crescendo of cheers Saturday night in what may have been his last race to win the Columbian Mile in 4:13.8.

Banned for professionalism by the AAU and running on the strength of a State Supreme Court injunction Santee finished three-quarters of a lap ahead of the only two men who dared to defy the amateur powers and run against him. They were Ed Kirk, former Georgetown star now in the Air Force and Ed Shea, another serviceman.

Five others had dropped out of the Columbian Mile when, after the AAU failed to get an injunction against Santee's appearance in Saturday night's K of C games at Madison Square Gardens, they were threatened with possible loss of Olympic eligibility.

Santee's appearance highlighted the program and the crowd of 12,500 cheered his every step as he ran away from his two rivals and took permanent possession of the Cardinal Spellman trophy on the strength of a 4:10.4 victory last year. The Kansan ran the first quarter in 59.2 but obviously was out of condition as he made his first start in some five weeks.

He had withdrawn from the recent series of indoor meets pending an AAU hearing and was branded as a professional Feb. 19 on grounds that he accepted excessive expenses. He ran the half in 2:03.4 and then trailed off to a 2:08.4 three-quarters.

The crowd also cheered Don Bragg of Villanova as he became the second highest pole vaulter in history, moving past Rex Bob Richards with a 15-foot, 5 1-4 inch vault, which was only 2 1-4 inches below Cornelius Warmerdam's all-time record.

But the big cheers were for Santee, who obtained a stay on Supreme Court injunction last week against the suspension ordered by the AAU. On March 9 nearly 200 members of interscholastic athletic associations in 10 states will meet in Kansas City to appeal the injunction and prevent him from running.

When Pincus Sober, the K of C announcer, said chairman of the AAU committee which ordered the ban against Santee, appeared on the floor with the five starters and withdrawn and would compete in a "special mile race," there was a storm of boos. Then when Santee's name was announced for the Columbian Mile the cheers began and continued as he raced to victory.

"I have no ill feelings against anyone involved," Santee said after the race. "But I'm not sure that I plan to run in Milwaukee next week."

However, Santee's plans may be upset before then by the injunction hearing next Friday.

Dartmouth track coach Elbe Noyes doesn't have to worry about the scholastic standing of his 440-yard runner Paul S. Berry. The athlete was named to Phi Beta Kappa.

City League Cage Stars Edge Church Loop, 77-65

Despite a high-scoring punch that had the Church League All-Stars established as favorites, the City League aces nosed out the Church loopers in their All-Star game last night, 77 to 75, at Ouachita Parish High gymnasium to wrap up the season's activity for the two Monroe leagues.

However, the City stars, after leading for most of the game, had to fight from behind in the last half to snatch the victory from the fading Church League cagers. The City led 27-22 at the quarter, 47-40 at the half, and then saw the Church League come up with 17 points against nine for the City in the third period to take a 57-56 edge going into the last quarter.

Jerry Lovett, the ex-Louisiana Tech ace who now coaches for Calhoun High, led the losing Church quint and was high scorer for the night with 31 points. He has 25-point support from Tex Willis.

Bill Crowe, former Northeast ace, led the City stars with 29 points, and had 14-point support from both Johnny Salter and Bill Birdsee.

Both clubs broke even in the field goal department with 28 apiece, but the City League dropped in 21 foul shots against 19 for the Church League to make the margin of victory.

Demaret, Mayfield Share Lead In Baton Rouge Open

Haas, Harris One Stroke Away For Last Round Today

BATON ROUGE (AP) —March 3 (AP) —Jimmy Demaret and Shelley Mayfield played steady sub-par golf over a soggy course today to tie for the three-quarter lead in the $12,500 Baton Rouge Open tournament.

Mayfield, Westbury, N. Y., shot a 35-35—70 to move into a tie with a 208 total after 54 holes.

Demaret, Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., held onto a share of the lead with a one-under-par 71 over the 6,450-yard Baton Rouge Country Club course.

Freddie Haas, former Louisiana State University golfer who now plays Claremont, Calif., fired a seven-under-par 65, the best round of the day, to move into a tie for second with Bob Harris of Chicago at 209. Haas' 65 tied the tourney record shared by four others.

Harris had 69 today.

George Bayer of Cincinnati, who was tied with Demaret for the lead after 36 holes, shot a 73 for a 210 total. He was tied with Fred Hawkins of El Paso, who had a five-under-par 67.

The gently-rolling country club course was soaked by an all-night rain, but skies cleared today and bright sunshine in the afternoon helped playing conditions.

However, most of the course still was soggy with water standing one to two feet deep in some low-lying areas and in sand traps.

Ed Furgol of St. Louis, in second place for the first two rounds, fell three strokes back of the leaders with a one-over-par 73 for a 211 total.

Jackie Burke Jr., Kiamesha Lake, N. Y., first day leader with a 65 who blew to an 80 yesterday, recovered for a 71 today, but still was out of contention with a 216.

The standing water caused a dispute over Mayfield's score. On the ninth hole, his ball landed in a puddle. Under the rules, he dropped it out without a penalty and scored a birdie on the hole.

However, other players protested he dropped it away from a tree blocking his path to the green. PGA officials overruled the protest.

'White' Indians Capture Intrasquad Game, 27-14

BY LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

The "Whites" of the 1956 Northeast Indians football team last night folded the "maroons," 27-14, in an intra-squad battle that capped off three weeks of spring training.

In the opening minutes Tony Hartsell, left half, carried the ball in to the end zone to throw the Whites ahead, 7-0, after the extra point had been recorded. But the Maroons returned with their fighting spirit to send Aubrey Wade, left half, roaring on a 60 yard run for a TD. Then they added the extra marker to tie the score, 7-7.

Bennie Franklin, handed his Maroon team the lead early in the second period with a touchdown, but right half Tommy Leos ran the ball some 10 yards for a six-point gain after Powell had gone 20 yards and made a sensational lateral to him. The Whites picked up the opportunity of the extra point to obtain a 14-14 tie at the halftime.

The Whites and quarterback Zeke Zametto were dominant the entire second half. In the third period of the game the Whites ran ahead, 21-14, through Zemetto's paydirt run and an additional one point. To exhibit more of his abilities Zametto tossed a pass to Bill McDonald in the final quarter to gain a first down for the light colored group. Just two plays later "Zeke" rolled over 30 yards of Maroon ground into the endzone to end the scoring at 27 to 14 for the Whites.

A number of substitutions were made on each side.

Head Coach Devone Payne stated after seeing this clash among his boys that he expected to have an improved squad next season even though he is losing eight men. He stated that he will have more reserve power "if the boys can make their grades."

Santee Runs As Field Cut

NEW YORK, March 3—UP—Wes Santee, an amateur for a night, raced through a crescendo of cheers Saturday night in what may have been his last race to win the Columbian Mile in 4:13.8.

Banned for professionalism by the AAU and running on the strength of a State Supreme Court injunction, Santee finished three-quarters of a lap ahead of the only two men who dared to defy the amateur powers and run against him. They were Ed Kirk, former Georgetown star now in the Air Force and Ed Shea, another serviceman.

Five others had dropped out of the Columbian Mile when, after the AAU failed to get an injunction against Santee's appearance in Saturday night's K. of C. games at Madison Square Gardens, they were threatened with possible loss of Olympic eligibility.

Santee's appearance highlighted the program and the crowd of 12,500 cheered his every step as he ran away from his two rivals and took permanent possession of the Cardinal Spellman trophy on the strength of a 4:10.4 victory last year. The Kansan ran the first quarter in 59.2 but obviously was out of condition as he made his first start in some five weeks.

He had withdrawn from the recent series of indoor meets pending an AAU hearing and was banned as a professional Feb. 19 on grounds that he accepted excessive expenses. He ran the half in 2:02.1 and then tailed off to a 3:08.4 three-quarters.

The crowd also cheered Don Bragg of Villanova as he became the second highest pole vaulter in history, moving past Rev. Bob Richards with a 15-foot, 5 1-4 inch vault, which was only 3 1-4 inches below Cornelius Warmerdam's all-time record.

But the big cheers were for Santee, who obtained a State Supreme Court injunction this week against his suspension pending a March 9 hearing. The AAU made an unsuccessful attempt Saturday to upset this injunction and prevent him from running.

When Pincus Sober, the K. of C. announcer, and chairman of the AAU committee which gathered the charges against Santee, announced that the five fearful starters had withdrawn and would compete in a "special mile race," there was a storm of boos. Then when Santee's name was announced for the Columbian Mile the cheers began and continued as he raced to victory.

"I was terribly disappointed by my showing," Santee said after the race. "But I do feel good and I plan to run in Milwaukee next week."

However, Santee's plans may be upset before then by the injunction hearing next Friday.

Dartmouth track coach Ellie Noyes doesn't have to worry about the scholastic standing of his 600-yard runner Paul S. Berry. The athlete was named to Phi Beta Kappa.

West Virginia's Quint Champions Of Southern Loop

RICHMOND, Va., March 3 (AP)—Rod Hundley streaked under the goal with 3 seconds remaining tonight for a layup basket that gave West Virginia's Mountaineers a 58-56 victory over Richmond's Spiders and the Southern Conference basketball championship.

Hundley, who likes to mix a bit of clowning with his basketball, stuck strictly to the business at hand tonight. Playing it straight, the hot rod proved a little too much for the Spiders, who surged from 10 points behind in the last nine minutes and tied the battle at 56-56 on Walt Lysaght's set shot. The clock showed 2:2 remaining.

The Mountaineers immediately went into a freeze. They made their move with less than a minute jump shot after another from long range all night, suddenly raced under the goal, grabbed a perfect pass and heaved it up and in.

FARMERVILLE, La., March 3 (Special)—The Farmerville High School girls' basketball team will be appearing next week in regional Class A state championship play against an opponent yet to be announced. Farmerville won its bi-district game from Rayville, 51-44, last night although it was erroneously announced that Rayville was the winner.

Farmerville was the runner-up team to Many for the district 1-A title, and Rayville was champion of 2-A. Winnsboro, the runner-up in 2-A, was eliminated by Many Thursday night.

The National Collegiate tennis championships will be held at Kalamazoo College in Kalamazoo, Mich. June 25-30.

Inside Baseball Training Camps

RED LEGS

TAMPA, Fla., March 3 —UP— Half of the eight players training with the Cincinnati Redlegs who are not signed to major league contracts Saturday were named to start in the club's first practice game at Plant Field Sunday. It will be a six-inning contest.

Oscar Sierra, Ultus Alvarez and Charley Williams, all on the roster of the Havana International League club will play for Chuck Harmon's nine. Bill Werber Jr., not yet signed to any contract, will play with Johnny Temple's team.

BRAVES

BRADENTON, Fla., March 3— UP—Outfielder Hank Aaron, taking his first workout of the season Saturday, threw a scare into the Milwaukee Braves' camp when he suddenly limped off the field.

He was taken to a hospital for X-ray treatment and there the report was that he sustained only a bad bruise. Aaron powered six homers in his brief batting drill.

Lou Sleater, a southpaw drafted last fall from Columbus of the International League, looked good throwing to the hitters.

RED SOX

SARASOTA, Fla., March 3—UP —Pitcher George Susce was struck on the leg by a line drive off the bat of Frank Malzone Saturday during the Boston Red Sox practice and had to retire for the day. The injury was not serious.

Manager Mike Higgins expressed pleasure over the progress of his players after the first week. He will hold the first intra-squad game Monday.

YANKEES

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3—UP—Manager Casey Stengel showed signs of annoyance at holdouts Billy Martin and Jim Konstanty Saturday and there were reports that the New York Yankees were seeking another pitcher for their staff.

The Yankees now were reported willing to give up one of their young infielders in a deal for a pitcher. The American League champions had turned down all offers for these same rookie infielders in winter negotiations with Baltimore, Kansas City, Washington and Detroit.

Martin, meanwhile, remained in New York, holding out for a sizeable raise in pay. Konstanty, in St. Petersburg, stayed at the beach.

TIGERS

LAKELAND, Fla., March 3—UP —Bucky Harris of the Detroit Tigers, dean of major league managers, has come up with a new training camp wrinkle. He will rest his regulars in spring exhibition games.

"What's the use of making them play 31 games before the regular season and then expect them to go all the way in 154 league games?" Harris asked Saturday.

WHITE SOX

TAMPA, Fla., March 3—UP— X-rays showed no fracture Saturday of Minnie Minoso's right foot, which was injured when he tripped over second base in a Chicago White Sox intra-squad game on Friday.

Meanwhile, Manager Marty Marion said he expected to make a cut of his big squad of 65 players by Wednesday.

Rookie outfielders Jim Lynn, Ron Cooper and Dick Ditusa, infielders Bob Sagers, Don Bacon, Deacon Jones, Charley Massey and Dick Means and catcher Charley Schaffernoth will be sent to the Hollywood, Fla., farm club training camp.

GIANTS

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 3 (AP)— All regulars save Alvin Dark, Whitey Lockman and Don Mueller were named as starters in tomorrow's opening intrasquad game of the New York Giants. Dark, Lockman and Muller will serve strictly as pinch hitters.

Jim Hearn will be the starting pitcher, to be followed by Johnny Antonelli, Hoyt Wilhelm and rookies Ernie Broglio, Ben Wilbur and Dom Zanni. They'll work one inning apiece.

CARDINALS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals were having batting practice with Wilmer (Vinegar Bend) Mizell serving up the pitches.

PHILLIES

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 3— UP—With two fields available, the Philadelphia Phillies made use of both Saturday in order to step up the intensity of batting practice.

Starting Monday, Manager Mayo Smith said, the squad of 46 will be divided into two groups, alternating between the two parks for hitting and fielding.

SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 3 —UP —Roy Sievers, the Washington Senators' only proven power hitter, became a holdout officially Saturday when he refused the latest offer made by Club President Calvin Griffith.

Sievers threatened to go back home to St. Louis unless his salary demands was met "within the next few days." Best information placed Sievers' salary goal at $22,500, which would be a raise of $9,500 over last year's pay check.

ORIOLES

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz., March 3— UP— Willy Miranda, Baltimore's sensational-fielding but weak-hitting shortstop, took a long batting lesson from batting coach Lefty O'Doul Saturday at the Orioles' spring camp and lined several drives against the left field fence.

The Cuban shortstop had his best major league season last year but still hit only .255 and drove in 38 runs.

DODGERS

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 3 (AP) —Pee Wee Reese, suffering from a pulled muscle and torn ligaments in his back, missed the Brooklyn workout today and will be out of uniform for at least four days.

Luffey Welding Baseball Team For March 13 Start

Pitching will be one of Northeast State College's chief baseball probelms this season as Coach George Luffey's Indians prepare for their first game March 13 against Millsaps College here.

Bo Laird, all-G.S.C. pitching ace, and Dick Campbell will be back on the mound this season. Laird is a native of Crowville while Campbell, who was out last season because of a broken leg, is a graudate of Monroe's Neville High School.

Lost from last year's squad are second baseman Sam Campbell, brother of Dick, through graduation; shortstop Jimmy Bradley who signed with the St. Louis Cards organization last season, first baseman Bobby May, and catcher Billy Joe Thompson, both withdrawing from school.

Position candidates are:

First base—Frank Scalia, Everett Reynolds, "Chubby" Johnston, and Bill Phillips.

Shortstop—Ira Barton, Mitchell Hughes, Edgar Head, and Bill

Sammy Moore, who played center for the Indian football team this season, is assisting Coach Luffey. Moore is a physical education major who graduates this spring.

This year's schedule is one of the roughest in the college's history with such potent "nine's" as Loyola of the South, Adrian College and the usually strong Gulf States Conference teams. The first conference game is scheduled for April 6 when the Indians meet Southwestern in Monroe. The season closes on May 12 against Northwestern at Natchitoches.

Ten Redskins Earn Cage Monograms At Northeast

Ten men have lettered in basketball for the Northeast State College 1955-56 season, according to head cage Coach Arnold Kilpatrick.

Of the ten, six were newcomers to the Indian ranks this season. There are only three seniors in the group with four juniors, two sophomores and one freshman rounding out the lettermen.

Lloyd Crocker, Gene Shaneyfelt, Chester Pickering and Mel "Quail" McFarland are all juniors with Bill Bradley, Harold Davis and Earl Miles ending their careers at Northeast as seniors. Sophomores are Bob Patterson and Bill Phillips, and Gene Mathis is the only freshman in the group who lettered this year.

Although Bill Bradley's Gulf States scoring mark was broken this season by Bill Reigel of McNeese State who scored 1,001 points to top Bradley's 690, the 6-foot-2 Indian center and captain this year is considered one of Northeast's all - time basketball greats. Bill is a native of Bismarck Mo., and attended Hannibal - LaGrange Junior College two years before transferring to Northeast in 1954.

Davis is a four - year letterman who played for Ouachita parish High school of Monroe before entering Northeast, while the other senior Miles, is a transfer from from Holmes Junior College of Mississippi.

Crocker is a native of Calhoun where he played outstanding high school basketball. Shaneyfelt comes from Chalmett but attended Tippecanoe High School. Tipp City, Ohio, and New Iberia High School. Pickering comes from El Dorodo, Ark., and transferred from Little Rock Junior College, while McFarland is a native of Elvins, Mo.

Patterson also comes from Elvins, while Phillips comes from LaPorte, Ind. Mathis is a native of Murry, Ky., and attended New Concord High school.

SEC Has Difficult Task Picking Representative

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., March 3 (AP) — Southeastern Conference members are voting on whether Alabama's newly crowned SEC basketball champions will represent the conference in the National Collegiate Athletic Assn, tournament.

The Crimson Tide won its first conference cage crown in 22 years by defeating Auburn 93-82 last night. The Tide has a closing game with Florida Monday, but even a loss wouldn't change the picture.

The poll of conference members was required because Alabama's five senior starters are ineligible for the NCAA action. They are barred by a rule that prohibits players who have four years of varsity experience from competing.

A decision is expected Tuesday or Wednesday on the SEC choice.

The conference is considered likely to send another strong representative to the NCAA meet rather than an Alabama squad minus its first team. In that event, Kentucky, No. 2 SEC cage unit, is likely to get the nod.

Alabama has won 13 straight SEC starts and has a 20-3 record for all games during the past season.

Auburn gave the Tide quite a battle but couldn't equal the winners' second half pace. The score was tied 37-37 at halftime, and the Tigers pulled within seven points of Alabama with two minutes left.

Then Jerry Harper, high for the night with 38 points, hit from under the basket and Alabama pulled away again.

Arthur Swanson Jr., bonus pitcher signed by the Pittsburgh Pirates last August, won 15 letters in high school while participating in five sports.

Pastrano Dates Africa's Champ At New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 3—UP—Youthful Willie Pastrano and South African heavyweight fistic champion Johnny Arthur, with 22 knockouts in 34 pro starts, have been signed for a 10-round fight here March 26, Promoter Heard Ragas announced today.

Arthur is a replacement for Joey Rowan, who was originally scheduled to meet Pastrano here on that date. However, eye cuts and body injuries forced the Philadelphia heavyweight to withdraw.

Loser of but six starts in 34 professional bouts, Arthur held Don Cockell to a close 15-round fight in London for the British Empire heavyweight crown. It was the win over the 26-year-old South African that gained Cockell the title chance against Rocky Marciano in San Francisco.

Double Main For Fight Program Tuesday

McKoin To Meet Carnica; Garris Will Face Glenn

Johnny McKoin, promising young Bastrop lightweight, and Dewayne Garris, the more experienced middleweight from Farmerville, share top billing on Tuesday night's boxing card here at Gus Kallio's Arena. Both are scheduled for eight-rounders against Dallas, Tex., opponents.

McKoin has been paired against Richard Carnica, a 137-pounder, and Garris squares off against Don Glenn, 152.

"I don't usually predict that a card is going to be good," Promoter Kallio said yesterday, "But this time I'm breaking my rule and speaking with confidence that this will be one of the best fight programs I've promoted here. I've seen all the boys, even the visitors fight, and I know what they can do. Every fight will be a good one-from the first preliminary to the final."

McKoin was anxious for a ten-rounder until the youngster was advised the Louisiana law prohibits a minor from going that distance. A professional boxer in Louisiana must be 18 to accept a ten-rounder.

With both the McKoin-Carnica and Garris-Glenn bouts fixed at eight rounds, Promoter Kallio yesterday tagged it a double main event.

"I don't know yet in which order they will appear on the card except that they'll appear in the last two fights," Kallio said.

Lane Lee, a promising Monroe middleweight, and Henry Burton, the Monroe 165-pounder, are dated for two of the four-rounders in battles of Negro leatherslingers, and a welterweight Negro from Bastrop, Huey Bonner, also gets into the show for the curtain-raiser.

Burton, a knockout winner in his last appearance here, swaps punches with C. C. Carroll, Dallas, and Bonner is dated with Bill Palard, 148, Dallas.

The handler of the Dallas fighters saw his men beaten here early last month, and believes he is supplying a better grade this trip in hopes of getting a share of the victories.

Michigan Romps To Big 10 Track Crown; Iowa 2nd

EAST LANSING, Mich., March 3 (AP) — Michigan romped to its second straight Big Ten indoor track championship today, pyramiding 57 9-10 points to second-place Iowa's 46 7-10 in a meet marred by injury to Jim Golliday, one of the world's greatest sprinters.

The Northwestern senior, who a week ago bettered the world 60-yard dash record with six seconds flat in a triangular meet at Wisconsin, pulled a muscle behind his right thigh.

Golliday, competing in the dash qualifying trials, felt the muscle go as he started his lunge 10 yards from the tape. As he crossed the finish first in :06.2, he fell to the dirt and skidded 10 feet, skinning his shoulders and elbow.

Dr. James S. Feurig, Michigan State team physician, said Golliday would be out of action for at least one month but held hopes that he can be ready for the outdoor track season and his bid for the Olympics.

Michigan won or shared five firsts in taking the team crown. Indiana was third in a battle with Iowa with 43 1-5, followed by Michigan State 33 2-5, Illinois 20 1-5, Northwestern 10, Wisconsin 7 7-10; Minnesota 5½, Ohio State 5 1-15 and Purdue 1 1-5.

With Golliday unable to shoot for the indoor conference record of :06.1 in the 60, only one meet mark was set. Indiana's Greg Bell broad jumped 24-11 ⅝ in last night's preliminaries but failed to beat it in three final attempts. The old mark was 24-7 by Purdue's Jewell Daily in 1949.

Other conference marks were not threatened although one Jenison fieldhouse record fell and two were tied. Eeles Landstrom, a Michigan student from Helsinki, pole vaulted 14-2 to shatter the fieldhouse standard by less than an inch.

Joe Savoldi of Michigan State tied the 70 - yard high hurdle time with an :08.5 job and Illinois' Abe Woodson did the same in the low timbers with :07.9.

There were two double winners.

Ed Brabham, Michigan State, won the 60-yard dash in :06.3 to repeat for that title and the 300-yard run in :31.3.

Iowa's Ted Wheeler beat out Selwyn Jones, Michigan State, by 50 feet to win the mile in 4:12.5 and also took the 880 in 1:55.1.

In addition to Brabham and Gray, other holdover champions were Dave Owen, Michigan, in the shot put with 54-7⅛; Mark Booth, Michigan, who shared the high jump with Iowa's Les Stevens at 6-6⅜; Ron Wallingford, Michigan, with 9:19.3 in a ¼ lap win over Selwyn Jones, Michigan State, in the two mile, and Indiana's mile relay team with 3:19.9.

Other champions were Don Ward Indiana, with :49.2 in the 440 and Iowa's Caesar Smith with 1:14.0 in the 600.

Orr, Demmas Elected To Lead Commodores

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 3 (AP) —Vanderbilt lettermen today picked Don Orr, voted most valuable player in the Gator Bowl game last December, and Art Demmas, who licked a series of injuries, to co-captainship of the 1956 Commodore football squad.

Both Orr, a senior backfield star from Miami, Fla., and Demmas, a senior tackle from St. Louis made comebacks last season.

Vanderbilt winds up spring practice next week.

Miss Quast Cops Upset Win Over Barbara Romack

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 3 (AP) — Young Anne Quast, one of the most promising newcomers to women's golf, beat down every rally by Babrara Romack today and scored a 4 and 3 upset in the South Atlantic Amateur Tournament final.

Both girls were misty eyed as they shook hands after Anne closed out the match on the 33rd hole — Miss Quast because she had won her first circuit tournament, Miss Romack because she had lost in her first real test since the British Amateur last summer.

Miss Quast, personable 18-year-old sophomore at the University of Washington, never trailed, going 4 up after seven holes and holding at least a 2 up margin from there on.

Trailing 4 down after 28 holes, Miss Romack started a rally which had the gallery keyed for a triumphant comeback by the two-time winner of this tournament.

Barbara won the 29th and 30th holes, reducing the Washington co-ed's lead to 2 up.

But Miss Quast refused to crack under the pressure.

Miss Quast was only seven over men's par for the 33 holes. The 6,133-yard Ellinor Village Country Club course has a par of 57-34—71.

Legion Stadium Put Into Shape For Little Rock

Legion Memorial Stadium is being given a new look with general improvements made on the grounds and seating portion of the baseball setup in preparation for spring training for the Little Rock Travelers.

Top soil has been added to the infield and placed along the sidelines where erosion and wear have taken place. The pitchers' mound and the portions of the field along each foul line have been completely worked over.

In the outfield the grass has been cut and other repairs that were needed performed, including the filling in the holes dug by elephants when a circus was held in the park some time ago.

The stadium and clubhouse have been completely cleaned and rest room facilities have been renovated.

The vanguard of the Southern Association's Travelers moves into the park to prepare for opening of spring training next Saturday.

Later in the month the Twin Cities Sports of the Evangeline League will gather at Hattiesburg, Miss., for training in the spring camp for the low minors of the New York Yankee system.

Graduate Student To Head Demon Tennis

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 3 (Special) — Coach Harry Turpin announced this week that Jack Fisher, a student in the graduate school at Northwestern State College, majoring in business education, has been appointed N. S. C. tennis coach for the coming season.

Fisher, a former tennis player for N. S. C., helped win the Louisiana Intercollegiate Conference championship in doubles in 1937-38. Coached by President John S. Kyser, then head of the Social Science department at Northwestern, the team won the L. I. C. championship three years in a row (1937-39).

Uclans Capture Conference Title In Rout Of Bears

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP) — U.C.L.A.'s Bruins sewed up the Pacific Coast Conference basketball title today with a smashing 84-62 victory over the California Bears. It was the Bruins' 14th straight conference win without defeat this season.

The Bruins, hard-pressed to take an 85-80 decision from Cal last night, jumped off to an early comfortable lead and widened it to 46-29 at halftime. The Bears couldn't close the gap as the Bruins, appearing more relaxed, played a better team game than in the opener.

The Bruins carried Coach Johnny Wooden off the floor in celebration of their title win. The victory was their 25th conference win in a row over two seasons.

U.C.L.A. closes its regular season with a pair of games against U.S.C. here next weekend. Then the Bruins hook up with the No. 1 team of the nation, the San Francisco Dons, in the N.C.A.A. western regional playoffs.

I've seen all the boys, even the visitors fight, and I know what they can do. Every fight will be a good one-from the first preliminary to the final."

McKoin was anxious for a ten-rounder until the youngster was advised the Louisiana law prohibits a minor from going that distance. A professional boxer in Louisiana must be 18 to accept a ten-rounder.

With both the McKoin-Carnica and Garris-Glenn bouts fixed at eight rounds, Promoter Kallio yesterday tagged it a double main event.

"I don't know yet in which order they will appear on the card except that they'll appear in the last two fights," Kallio said.

Lane Lee, a promising Monroe middleweight, and Henry Burton, the Monroe 165-pounder, are dated for two of the four-rounders in battles of Negro leatherslingers, and a welterweight Negro from Bastrop, Huey Bonner, also gets into the show for the curtain-raiser.

The handler of the Dallas fighters saw his men beaten here early last month, and believes he is supplying a better grade this trip in hopes of getting a share of the victories.

Michigan Romps To Big 10 Track Crown; Iowa 2nd

EAST LANSING, Mich., March 3 (AP) — Michigan romped to its second straight Big Ten indoor track championship today, pyramiding 57 9-10 points to second-place Iowa's 46 7-10 in a meet marred by injury to Jim Golliday, one of the world's greatest sprinters.

The Northwestern senior, who a week ago bettered the world 60-yard dash record with six seconds flat in a triangular meet at Wisconsin, pulled a muscle behind his right thigh.

Golliday, competing in the dash qualifying trials, felt the muscle go as he started his lunge 10 yards from the tape. As he crossed the finish first in :06.2, he fell to the dirt and skidded 10 feet, skinning his shoulders and elbow.

Dr. James S. Feurig, Michigan State team physician, said Golliday would be out of action for at least one month but held hopes that he can be ready for the outdoor track season and his bid for the Olympics.

Michigan won or shared five firsts in taking the team crown. Indiana was third in a battle with Iowa with 43 1-5, followed by Michigan State 33 2-5, Illinois 20 1-5, Northwestern 10, Wisconsin 7 7-10; Minnesota 5½, Ohio State 5 1-15 and Purdue 1 1-5.

With Golliday unable to shoot for the indoor conference record of :06.1 in the 60, only one meet mark was set. Indiana's Greg Bell broad jumped 24-11 ⅝ in last night's preliminaries but failed to beat it in three final attempts. The old mark was 24-7 by Purdue's Jewell Daily in 1949.

Other conference marks were not threatened although one Jenison fieldhouse record fell and two were tied. Eeles Landstrom, a Michigan student from Helsinki, pole vaulted 14-2 to shatter the fieldhouse standard by less than an inch.

Joe Savoldi of Michigan State tied the 70 - yard high hurdle time with an :08.5 job and Illinois' Abe Woodson did the same in the low timbers with :07.9.

There were two double winners.

Ed Brabham, Michigan State, won the 60-yard dash in :06.3 to repeat for that title and the 300-yard run in :31.3.

Iowa's Ted Wheeler beat out Selwyn Jones, Michigan State, by 50 feet to win the mile in 4:12.5 and also took the 880 in 1:55.1.

In addition to Brabham and Gray, other holdover champions were Dave Owen, Michigan, in the shot put with 54-7⅛; Mark Booth, Michigan, who shared the high jump with Iowa's Les Stevens at 6-6⅝; Ron Wallingford, Michigan, with 9:19.3 in a ¼ lap win over Selwyn Jones, Michigan State, in the two mile, and Indiana's mile relay team with 3:19.9.

Other champions were Don Ward Indiana, with :49.2 in the 440 and Iowa's Caesar Smith with 1:14.0 in the 600.

Orr, Demmas Elected To Lead Commodores

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 3 (AP) —Vanderbilt lettermen today picked Don Orr, voted most valuable player in the Gator Bowl game last December, and Art Demmas, who licked a series of injuries, to co-captainship of the 1956 Commodore football squad.

Both Orr, a senior backfield star from Miami, Fla., and Demmas, a senior tackle from St. Louis, made comebacks last season.

Vanderbilt winds up spring practice next week.

Miss Quast Cops Upset Win Over Barbara Romack

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., March 3 (AP) — Young Anne Quast, one of the most promising newcomers to women's golf, beat down every rally by Babrara Romack today and scored a 4 and 3 upset in the South Atlantic Amateur Tournament final.

Both girls were misty eyed as they shook hands after Anne closed out the match on the 33rd hole — Miss Quast because she had won her first circuit tournament, Miss Romack because she had lost in her first real test since the British Amateur last summer.

Miss Quast, personable 18-year-old sophomore at the University of Washington, never trailed, going 4 up after seven holes and holding at least a 2 up margin from there on.

Trailing 4 down after 28 holes, Miss Romack started a rally which had the gallery keyed for a triumphant comeback by the two-time winner of this tournament.

Barbara won the 29th and 30th holes, reducing the Washington co-ed's lead to 2 up.

But Miss Quast refused to crack under the pressure.

Miss Quast was only seven over men's par for the 33 holes. The 6,133-yard Ellinor Village Country Club course has a par of 57-34—71.

Legion Stadium Put Into Shape For Little Rock

Legion Memorial Stadium is being given a new look with general improvements made on the grounds and seating portion of the baseball setup in preparation for spring training for the Little Rock Travelers.

Top soil has been added to the infield and placed along the sidelines where erosion and wear have taken place. The pitchers' mound and the portions of the field along each foul line have been completely worked over.

In the outfield the grass has been cut and other repairs that were needed performed, including the filling in the holes dug by elephants when a circus was held in the park some time ago.

The stadium and clubhouse have been completely cleaned and rest room facilities have been renovated.

The vanguard of the Southern Association's Travelers moves into the park to prepare for opening of spring training next Saturday.

Later in the month the Twin Cities Sports of the Evangeline League will gather at Hattiesburg, Miss., for training in the spring camp for the low minors of the New York Yankee system.

Graduate Student To Head Demon Tennis

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 3 (Special) — Coach Harry Turpin announced this week that Jack Fisher, a student in the graduate school at Northwestern State College, majoring in business education, has been appointed N. S. C. tennis coach for the coming season.

Fisher, a former tennis player for N. S. C., helped win the Louisiana Intercollegiate Conference championship in doubles in 1937-38. Coached by President John S. Kyser, then head of the Social Science department at Northwestern, the team won the L. I. C. championship three years in a row (1937-39).

Uclans Capture Conference Title In Rout Of Bears

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP) — U.C.L.A.'s Bruins sewed up the Pacific Coast Conference basketball title today with a smashing 84-62 victory over the California Bears. It was the Bruins' 14th straight conference win without defeat this season.

The Bruins, hard-pressed to take an 85-80 decision from Cal last night, jumped off to an early comfortable lead and widened it to 46-29 at halftime. The Bears couldn't close the gap as the Bruins, appearing more relaxed, played a better team game than in the opener.

The Bruins carried Coach Johnny Wooden off the floor in celebration of their title win. The victory was their 25th conference win in a row over two seasons.

U.C.L.A. closes its regular season with a pair of games against U.S.C. here next weekend. Then the Bruins hook up with the No. 1 team of the nation, the San Francisco Dons, in the N.C.A.A. western regional playoffs.

DEMON LEADERS—Co-captains of the Northwestern State Demon football machine this fall will be James McNew, left, and Ray Lockwood.

Name Ferriday's McNew As Co-Captain Of Demons

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 3 (Special) — Triple - threat quarterback James (Red) McNew and dependable guard Ray Lockwood were elected co - captains for the 1956 Northwestern State College football team at the close of spring practice here this week. Both are seniors.

McNew, who hails from Ferriday, was an all - conference selection for his quarterbacking chores this past fall, leading the N. S. C. Demons to four victories during the year, despite leg injuries during most of the year.

McNew is expected to have one of his best years of college football here next season, in his final appearance at the N. S. C. helm. An outstanding baseball hitter and infielder, he is now working out with the diamondmen this spring.

Lockwood, whose home is New Brunswick, N. J., is one of the most dependable guards on the squad, noted for his versatile play on both offense and defense. His "shock troop" tactics this past season helped keep the Northwestern l-ven in the fight on numerous occasions.

Both the seniors were named by their teammates in a vote following the close of spring football workouts here on Thursday.

This is the first time Northwestern has had co - captains in the grid sport for three years. For the past two years, tri - captains have been named.

This past season, halfbask Clyde Chesson, tarkle Bill Little and end Gary Hickman, led the Demons, while in 1954, guards Alan Langridge and Bob Tatum and center Dudley Downing held the positions of captains.

Patty Berg Guns For 7th Augusta Pro Golf Title

The pros will split a $5,000 purse.

The 72-hole medal play event opens Thursday with rounds of 18 holes daily through Sunday. Tournament officials said about 55 professional and amateur golfers are expected to participate. Last year's record number was 44.

Professionals seeking to dethrone Miss Berg include Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., titleholders runnerup in 1955; and Fay Crocker, National Open champion from Montevideo, Uruguay.

Miss Berg, who won the inaugural Titleholders in 1937, set a tournament record last year with her sizzling 72-hole total of 291. The redhaired blaster also set an 18-note mark with a brilliant 68.

Men's par is 72. Women's par is 75.

Neither of Miss Berg's marks is safe. The 6,270-yard layout is in top shape. And several of the entries are capable of shooting subpar golf.

If either record is broken, Georgians may be responsible. Miss Faulk, a sophomore pro, always is near her peak when playing at the Augusta country club. She was only two strokes off Miss Berg's pace last year.

And Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., a two-time Titleholders champion, has the shots to challenge both records.

Also on hand will be such tested stars of the Ladies Professional Golfers' Association circuit as Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C., Bey Hanson, Indio, Calif.; Marlene Bauer Hagge, Asheville, N.C.; Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif.; Patty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex.; and newcomer Kathy Cornelius, Lake Worth, Fla.

Happy Go Lucky Closes 2nd With Sea O Erin 3rd

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP) — Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's heavily favored Find splashed to a length victory in the $63,900 New Orleans Handicap at the Fair Grounds today.

Given steady handling by jockey Eric Guerin, Find took the lead from the pace setters at the top of the stretch. He withstood a torrid stretch challenge by H. G. Bockman's Happy Go Lucky. Hasty House Farm's Sea O Erin, second choice in the betting, took the show position, while Sam Tufano's Wise Margin closed fast to finish fourth.

Find, the 8-5 choice of the 16,532 fans, returned $5.40, $4.60, $3.20. The lightly regarded Happy Go Lucky paid $13.20 and $5.60 with Sea O Erin returning $3.

This 29th running of the New Orleans Handicap was the richest race ever run at the Fair Grounds, now in the closing days of its winter meeting. And the $125,668 was the largest mutual handle on a single race.

T. P. Morgan's Bertie was the first out of the gate with Wise Margin and Reverie Knoll Farm's Leather Kid fighting for the lead. Leather Kid took over the pace setting role as the 11-horse field swung past the grandstand for the first time in the mile and one eighth event.

Leather Kid moved to a two-length lead in the muddy back stretch as Sea O Erin moved into second and Find took third.

Through the back stretch run, the running order remained the same, but Guerin moved Find closer to the pacemakers.

Around the wide turn coming out of the back stretch, Willie Hartack took Sea O Erin to the top and Find moved into the runnerup spot. Happy Go Lucky moved from the middle of the pack into third position as Leather Kid began to fade.

Sea O Erin and Find were just heads apart as they swung for home. But Guerin took Find to the inside and moved out on top with Sea O Erin falling off the pace.

An eighth of a mile from the finish line Find held a slim advantage over Sea O Erin as Happy Go Lucky started to make his move.

Find moved to a better advantage a few strides from home with Happy Go Lucky passing the tiring Sea O Erin.

Find traveled the distance in 1:52 and two-fifths over a track turned sloppy by an all-night rain.

The race, worth $45,300 to Vanderbilt, was Find's second performance of the year. Vanderbilt pulled the husky son of Discovery out of training last year after he received a leg injury.

Wise Margin made a bold bid during the stretch run, but failed for the second straight year to hit the winner's circle in the New Orleans. The Tufano son of Market Wise ran second in last year's renewal.

Guerin, who began his riding career at the Fair Grounds, said he achieved one of his lifetime ambitions today.

"This is the race I've always wanted to win," said the tall native of Louisiana's Evangeline Country. "I've come close before but today I finally made it."

Guerin said Find usually doesn't like a sloppy track, but added he thought Find ran as if the track was made to order.

Tech's Trackmen To Be Captained By Lenoir, Dunbar

RUSTON, La., March 3 (Special) — Robert Dunbar, Rocky Mount, and Bruce Lenoir, Mansfield, both senior students will serve as co-captains of Louisiana Tech's track and field team this spring.

The announcement was made by Tech track Coach Jim Mize, who reports there will be 18 lettermen on hand for the 1956 squad, the largest number of returning fellows that the Bulldog squad has had in several years.

Track practice will get underway for the Canines in full force Monday. Several candidates for the team have been taking part in spring football practice which ended Friday.

Also back with the squad are two other lettermen from former years. They are Bill Phelps, Ruston, a 1954 letterman, and Billy "Buzz" Bond, Haynesville, a 1953 letterman.

Alfred McGuire, Dartmouth College freshman basketball coach, played three years of basketball with the New York Knickerbockers before going to Hanover, N.H.

Derby 'Guessing' Begins As 169 Nags Nominated

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 3 (AP) — The time to start America's annual "pick a Kentucky Derby winner" game arrived today with the announcement of 169 nominees for the May 5 classic.

Few clues went with the list, because this year's crop of three-year-olds is surrounded by more questions than usual. Only Needles has shown real Derby speed and stamina in early-1956 racing.

The eligible list is the fourth largest since the record 196 were nominated in 1928.

To the owner whose horse speeds home first in the gruelling mile and a quarter race probably will go a record purse. Churchill Downs will add $125,000 to the jackpot formed by nominating, entry and starting fees. Nominations at $100 per horse start the pot at $16,900. Another $250 must be paid to enter and $1,250 to start.

Despite Needles' sharpness in last Saturday's Flamingo Stakes, the race this year shapes up as a wide-open affair. The best three-year-olds in the land, in the judgment of their owners, were made eligible for the big run.

Career Boy, Nail, Fabius, Liberty Sun, Terrang, Like Magic, Gun Shot, Getthere Jack, Polly's Jet and Happy New Year are just a few of the promising stars to be qualified.

On top of that, more of the larger stables than usual put in the names of several of their more hopeful runners. Calumet Farm, for example, nominated six horses, including Fabius and Liberty Sun. Calumet has won five derbies, a record.

The same number was made eligible by C. V. Whitney, whose Career Boy looms the probable second favorite in early winter-book betting.

Maine Chance Farm, which won the Derby in 1947 with Jet Pilot, also put up $600 for a half-dozen nominees.

Rex Ellsworth's successful West Coast Stable, which won last year with Swaps, qualified four, including Like Magic, a full brother of Swaps. Some observers believe Terrang may turn out even sharper for the Ellsworth.

NATCHITOCHES, La., March 3 (Special) — Triple - threat quarterback James (Red) McNew and dependable guard Ray Lockwood were elected co - captains for the 1956 Northwestern State College football team at the close of spring practice here this week. Both are seniors.

McNew, who hails from Ferriday, was an all - conference selection for his quarterbacking chores this past fall, leading the N. S. C. Demons to four victories during the year, despite leg injuries during most of the year.

McNew is expected to have one of his best years of college football here next season, in his final appearance at the N. S. C. helm. An outstanding baseball hitter and infielder, he is now working out with the diamondmen this spring.

Lockwood, whose home is New Brunswick, N. J., is one of the most dependable guards on the squad, noted for his versatile play on both offense and defense. His "shock troop" tactics this past season helped keep the Northwestrn l-ven in the fight on numerous occasions.

Both the seniors were named by their teammates in a vote following the close of spring football workouts here on Thursday.

This is the first time Northwestern has had co - captains in the grid sport for three years. For the past two years, tri - captains have been named.

This past season, halfbask Clyde Chesson, tarkle Bill Little and end Gary Hickman, led the Demons, while in 1954, guards Alan Langridge and Bob Tatum and center Dudley Downing held the positions of captains.

Patty Berg Guns For 7th Augusta Pro Golf Title

The pros will split a $5,000 purse.

The 72-hole medal play event opens Thursday with rounds of 18 holes daily through Sunday. Tournament officials said about 55 professional and amateur golfers are expected to participate. Last year's record number was 44.

Professionals seeking to dethrone Miss Berg include Mary Lena Faulk of Thomasville, Ga., titleholders runnerup in 1955; and Fay Crocker, National Open champion from Montevideo, Uruguay.

Miss Berg, who won the inaugural Titleholders in 1937, set a tournament record last year with her sizzling 72-hole total of 291. The redhaired blaster also set an 18-hole mark with a brilliant 68.

Men's par is 72. Women's par is 75.

Neither of Miss Berg's marks is safe. The 6,270-yard layout is in top shape. And several of the entries are capable of shooting subpar golf.

If either record is broken, Georgians may be responsible. Miss Faulk, a sophomore pro, always is near her peak when playing at the Augusta country club. She was only two strokes off Miss Berg's pace last year.

And Louise Suggs of Sea Island, Ga., a two-time Titleholders champion, has the shots to challenge both records.

Also on hand will be such tested stars of the Ladies Professional Golfers' Association circuit as Betsy Rawls, Spartanburg, S.C., Bev Hanson, Indio, Calif.; Marlene Bauer Hagge, Asheville, N.C.; Mickey Wright, San Diego, Calif.; Betty Jameson, San Antonio, Tex.; and newcomer Kathy Cornelius, Lake Worth, Fla.

MENTON, France, March 3 (AP)—Tony Vincent of Miami, and Andres Hammersley of Chile today moved into the final of an international tennis tournament.

Vincent eliminated Antonio Maggi of Italy 6-1, 6-2, while Hammersley vanquished Vladislav Skonecki, Polish exile, 5-7, 7-5, 6-2.

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP)—Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt's heavily favored Find splashed to a length victory in the $63,900 New Orleans Handicap at the Fair Grounds today.

Given steady handling by jockey Eric Guerin, Find took the lead from the pace setters at the top of the stretch. He withstood a torrid stretch challenge by H. G. Bockman's Happy Go Lucky, Hasty House Farm's Sea O Erin, second choice in the betting, took the show position, while Sam Tufano's Wise Margin closed fast to finish fourth.

Find, the 8-5 choice of the 16,532 fans, returned $5.40, $4.60, $3.20. The lightly regarded Happy Go Lucky paid $13.20 and $5.60 with Sea O Erin returning $3.

This 29th running of the New Orleans Handicap was the richest race ever run at the Fair Grounds, now in the closing days of its winter meeting. And the $125,668 was the largest mutual handle on a single race.

T. P. Morgan's Bertie was the first out of the gate with Wise Margin and Reverie Knoll Farm's Leather Kid fighting for the lead. Leather Kid took over the pace setting role as the 11-horse field swung past the grandstand for the first time in the mile and one eighth event.

Leather Kid moved to a two-length lead in the muddy back stretch as Sea O Erin moved into second and Find took third.

Through the back stretch run, the running order remained the same, but Guerin moved Find closer to the pacemakers.

Around the wide turn coming out of the back stretch, Willie Hartack took Sea O Erin to the top and Find moved into the runnerup spot. Happy Go Lucky moved from the middle of the pack into third position as Leather Kid began to fade.

Sea O Erin and Find were just heads apart as they swung for home. But Guerin took Find to the inside and moved out on top with Sea O Erin falling off the pace.

An eighth of a mile from the finish line Find held a slim advantage over Sea O Erin as Happy Go Lucky started to make his move.

Find moved to a better advantage a few strides from home with Happy Go Lucky passing the tiring Sea O Erin.

Find traveled the distance in 1:52 and two-fifths over a track turned sloppy by an all-night rain.

The race, worth $45,300 to Vanderbilt, was Find's second performance of the year. Vanderbilt pulled the husky son of Discovery out of training last year after he received a leg injury.

Wise Margin made a bold bid during the stretch run, but failed for the second straight year to hit the winner's circle in the New Orleans. The Tufano son of Market Wise ran second in last year's renewal.

Guerin, who began his riding career at the Fair Grounds, said he achieved one of his lifetime ambitions today.

"This is the race I've always wanted to win," said the tall native of Louisiana's Evangeline Country. "I've come close before but today I finally made it."

Guerin said Find usually doesn't like a sloppy track, but added he thought Find ran as if the track was made to order.

Tech's Trackmen To Be Captained By Lenoir, Dunbar

RUSTON, La., March 3 (Special) — Robert Dunbar, Rocky Mount, and Bruce Lenoir, Mansfield, both senior students, will serve as co-captains of Louisiana Tech's track and field team this spring.

The announcement was made by Tech track Coach Jim Mize, who reports there will be 18 lettermen on hand for the 1956 squad, the largest number of returning fellows that the Bulldog squad has had in several years.

Track practice will get underway for the Canines in full force Monday. Several candidates for the team have been taking part in spring football practice which ended Friday.

Also back with the squad are two other lettermen from former years. They are Bill Phelps, Ruston, a 1954 letterman, and Billy "Buzz" Bond, Haynesville, a 1953 letterman.

Alfred McGuire, Dartmouth College freshman basketball coach, played three years of basketball with the New York Knickerbockers before going to Hanover, N.H.

Derby 'Guessing' Begins As 169 Nags Nominated

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 3 (AP)—The time to start America's annual "pick a Kentucky Derby winner" game arrived today with the announcement of 169 nominees for the May 5 classic.

Few clues went with the list, because this year's crop of three-year-olds is surrounded by more questions than usual. Only Needles has shown real Derby speed and stamina in early-1956 racing.

The eligible list is the fourth largest since the record 196 were nominated in 1928.

To the owner whose horse speeds home first in the gruelling mile and a quarter race probably will go a record purse. Churchill Downs will add $125,000 to the jackpot formed by nominating, entry and starting fees. Nominations at $100 per horse start the pot at $16,900. Another $250 must be paid to enter and $1,250 to start.

Despite Needles' sharpness in last Saturday's Flamingo Stakes, the race this year shapes up as a wide-open affair. The best three-year-olds in the land, in the judgment of their owners, were made eligible for the big run.

Career Boy, Nail, Fabius, Liberty Sun, Terrang, Like Magic, Gun Shot, Getthere Jack, Polly's Jet and Happy New Year are just a few of the promising stars to be qualified.

On top of that, more of the larger stables than usual put in the names of several of their more hopeful runners. Calumet Farm, for example, nominated six horses, including Fabius and Liberty Sun. Calumet has won five derbies, a record.

The same number was made eligible by C. V. Whitney, whose Career Boy looms the probable second favorite in early winter-book betting.

Maine Chance Farm, which won the Derby in 1947 with Jet Pilot, also put up $600 for a half-dozen nominees.

Rex Ellsworth's successful West Coast Stable, which won last year with Swaps, qualified four, including Like Magic, a full brother of Swaps. Some observers believe Terrang may turn out even sharper for the Ellsworth.

Mississippi Solons Face Busy Days Ahead Raising Revenues For New Budget

JACKSON, Miss., March 3 (AP)—Mississippi's Legislature faces its 10th week Monday with action still undone on revenue bills to produce most of the required 183 million dollars for the budget.

The Budget Commission proposed the 183 million dollars for the 1956-58 financial years but did not suggest sources for all of it.

In addition, some revenue bills have been reduced or killed, making the Legislature's job harder.

Gov. J. P. Coleman has signed some revenue bills—two of them making the Highway Patrol self-supporting—but only a few have reached his desk.

In addition, the House lacks action on about 60 million dollars in appropiations and the Senate on about 100 million.

Normally, the Legislature appropriates, or spends, the state's money and then looks for means of raising it.

The Senate boosted the 9½ million-dollar old age assistance bill to 21½ million after the House refused to change the amount.

But Finance Committee Chairman William Burgin of Columbus called for return of the bill to his committee to enable the group to seek means of raising the additional two million dollars.

At least one revenue bill hit a snag. A House-Senate conference agreed on a three per cent tax on mutual insurance company premiums but the House rejected the agreement and called for additional conference.

Several squalls blew up in the House this week.

Representatives argued over a stipulation in an appropriation bill that the Library Commission use $5,000 for books pointing up white supremacy.

Another controversial bill would require tuberculosis victims to submit to treatment.

Though the bill passed overwhelmingly, objection was raised on the grounds the bill interferred with personal liberties and freedom and required victims to pay for treatment.

Possibly the most important legislation to clear this week was the interposition resolution whereby the Legislature condemned the U.S. Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregation.

The resolution was introduced in the Senate Wednesday morning, adopted after 45 minutes discussion, introduced in the House in the afternoon and adopted after less than an hour explanation.

Gov. Coleman was pleased with the action but declined to predict Mississippi's next step.

The administration suffered a setback when the House rejected two attempts to adopt a 30-day limit on special legislative sesssions.

Coleman had advocated the limit during his campaign last summer. The Senate complied with his wishes but the House called a limit "control" of the Legislature.

Informed of the action, Coleman vowed not to call a special session except in an extreme emergency and promised to introduce the limiting resolution in the 1958 session.

Warner-Robbins Air Force Base in Georgia.

The Globemaster is one of the largest transports ever built. It can carry 95 per cent of all the types of field equipment issued by the Army, or can accommodate 200 soldiers and their packs.

Just after midnight the plane radioed May Day — extreme distress signals that three of its four engines were dead and that it was losing altitude rapidly. Then the radio went dead.

Last Saturday the same plane radioed from almost exactly the same position as today—that two of its engines were out and that it was preparing to ditch. But that incident had a thrilling — and happy — ending. While the pilot nursed his remaining two engines, air-sea rescue planes shepherded the ailing craft in to a safe landing at Keflavik base in Iceland.

The Air Force said the pilot and crew were the same today as last Saturday.

The names of the crew and passengers were not disclosed. Sixteen persons were aboard a week ago.

In Washington, the air Force said two new engines were installed at Keflavik to replace the two that failed during the eastbound crossing. It said the plane was comparatively new, with less than 1,000 hours flying time, and the commander was thoroughly experienced, with more than 1,100 hours logged in flying that type of plane.

The weather ship Alpha, stationed about 85 miles from the spot between Greenland and Iceland, rushed to the scene when the Globemaster sounded its distress call and picked up the two bits of wreckage.

"We know now the Globemaster crashed into the sea," an Air Force spokesman said.

The Icelandic gunboat Thor and lifeboat Sachjoerg also joined in the search. The Air Force sent planes from both sides of the Atlantic, from Prestwick, Scotland, and Harmon Air Force Base in southwest Newfoundland, as well as from Iceland and Greenland, to search the area.

Eight planes scanned the sea by radar until daybreak when eight more planes joined the search. The hunt was aided by the fact that Iceland now has 12 hours daylight, but an Air Force spokesman described the weather as "pretty stinking." Southwest winds of gale force swept the Atlantic during the night and the temperature was just above freezing.

Home Show And Spring Festival Set For May 8-13

Avenues to better living in home construction and equipment ideas will be opened when the First Annual Northeast Louisiana Home Show and Spring Festival opens at Ouachita Parish Fair Grounds amay 8 to 13, according to Jack Sebastian, show chairman of the Northeast Louisiana Home Builders Association, sponsor of the exposition.

Thirty six dealers in construction materials, equipment, services, appliances and landscapting, together with builders, have made reservations for exhibition space which will be housed in the two main buildings at the Fair Grounds and two huge circus type tents to be erected.

Sebastian, stressed that the basic objective of the show is "to encourage home ownership and pride in building and maintaining a home, as well as to provide assistance to those planning to build, buy, renovate and repair."

"A home show is the best place to see many of these materials at first hand. And there, too, you will see the most modern kitchens, the latest developments in air conditioning, household equipment, furnisnings, and the many other integral parts of making a house a home, Sebastian said.

In addition to the numerous exhibits, many plus attractions will be presented for the public information and entertainment.

Mississippi Solons Face Busy Days Ahead Raising Revenues For New Budget

JACKSON, Miss., March 3 (AP)—Mississippi's Legislature faces its 10th week Monday with action still undone on revenue bills to produce most of the required 183 million dollars for the budget.

The Budget Commission proposed the 183 million dollars for the 1956-58 financial years but did not suggest sources for all of it.

In addition, some revenue bills have been reduced or killed, making the Legislature's job harder.

Gov. J. P. Coleman has signed some revenue bills—two of them making the Highway Patrol self-supporting—but only a few have reached his desk.

In addition, the House lacks action on about 60 million dollars in appropiations and the Senate on about 100 million.

Normally, the Legislature appropriates, or spends, the state's money and then looks for means of raising it.

The Senate boosted the 9½ million-dollar old age assistance bill to 21½ million after the House refused to change the amount.

But Finance Committee Chairman William Burgin of Columbus called for return of the bill to his committee to enable the group to seek means of raising the additional two million dollars.

At least one revenue bill hit a snag. A House-Senate conference agreed on a three per cent tax on mutual insurance company premiums but the House rejected the agreement and called for additional conference.

Several squalls blew up in the House this week.

Representatives argued over a stipulation in an appropriation bill that the Library Commission use $5,000 for books pointing up white supremacy.

Some lawmakers objected to the "principle of dictation" by the Legislature to start agencies.

But the bill passed with little objection on final roll call.

Another controversial bill would require tuberculosis victims to submit to treatment.

Though the bill passed overwhelmingly, objection was raised on the grounds the bill interferred with personal liberties and freedom and required victims to pay for treatment.

Possibly the most important legislation to clear this week was the interposition resolution whereby the Legislature condemned the U.S. Supreme Court ruling outlawing segregation.

The resolution was introduced in the Senate Wednesday morning, adopted after 45 minutes discussion, introduced in the House in the afternoon and adopted after less than an hour explanation.

Gov. Coleman was pleased with the action but declined to predict Mississippi's next step.

The administration suffered a setback when the House rejected two attempts to adopt a 30-day limit on special legislative sesssions.

Coleman had advocated the limit during his campaign last summer. The Senate complied with his wishes but the House called a limit "control" of the Legislature.

Informed of the action, Coleman vowed not to call a special session except in an extreme emergency and promised to introduce the limiting resolution in the 1958 session.

Warner-Robbins Air Force Base in Georgia.

The Globemaster is one of the largest transports ever built. It can carry 95 per cent of all the types of field equipment issued by the Army, or can accommodate 200 soldiers and their packs.

Just after midnight the plane radioed May Day — extreme distress signals that three of its four engines were dead and that it was losing altitude rapidly. Then the radio went dead.

Last Saturday the same plane radioed from almost exactly the same position as today—that two of its engines were out and that it was preparing to ditch. But that incident had a thrilling — and happy — ending. While the pilot nursed his remaining two engines, air-sea rescue planes shepherded the ailing craft in to a safe landing at Keflavik base in Iceland.

The Air Force said the pilot and crew were the same today as last Saturday.

The names of the crew and passengers were not disclosed. Sixteen persons were aboard a week ago.

In Washington, the air Force said two new engines were installed at Keflavik to replace the two that failed during the eastbound crossing. It said the plane was comparatively new, with less than 1,000 hours flying time, and the commander was thoroughly experienced, with more than 1,100 hours logged in flying that type of plane.

The weather ship Alpha, stationed about 85 miles from the spot between Greenland and Iceland, rushed to the scene when the Globemaster sounded its distress call and picked up the two bits of wreckage.

"We know now the Globemaster crashed into the sea," an Air Force spokesman said.

The Icelandic gunboat Thor and lifeboat Saebjoerg also joined in the search. The Air Force sent planes from both sides of the Atlantic, from Prestwick, Scotland, and Harmon Air Force Base in southwest Newfoundland, as well as from Iceland and Greenland, to search the area.

Eight planes scanned the sea by radar until daybreak when eight more planes joined the search. The hunt was aided by the fact that Iceland now has 12 hours daylight, but an Air Force spokesman described the weather as "pretty stinking." Southwest winds of gale force swept the Atlantic during the night and the temperature was just above freezing.

Surplus Food To Be Distributed In West Carroll

OAK GROVE, March 3 (Special)—Harley Philley, police jury president announced today that distribution of surplus food commodities to more than 7,000 West Carroll persons will begin Monday March 5 at the fairgrounds.

Notifications of days to report for receipt of commodities were mailed to family heads. The commodities will be issued to people living in ward one on Monday, ward two on Tuesday, ward three on Wednesday, ward four on Thursday and ward five on Friday.

The amounts of cheese, dry milk lard, beans, rice, wheat flour, butter and corn meal issued will vary according to the number of persons in the family unit.

The Welfare Department personnel listed approximately 2000 applications for commodities by 3 p.m. Friday.

Home Show And Spring Festival Set For May 8-13

Avenues to better living in home construction and equipment ideas will be opened when the First Annual Northeast Louisiana Home Show and Spring Festival opens at Ouachita Parish Fair Grounds amay 8 to 13, according to Jack Sebastian, show chairman of the Northeast Louisiana Home Builders Association, sponsor of the exposition.

Thirty six dealers in construction materials, equipment, services, appliances and landscapting, together with builders, have made reservations for exhibition space which will be housed in the two main buildings at the Fair Grounds and two huge circus type tents to be erected.

Sebastian, stressed that the basic objective of the show is "to encourage home ownership and pride in building and maintaining a home, as well as to provide assistance to those planning to build, buy, renovate and repair."

"A home show is the best place to see many of these materials at first hand. And there, too, you will see the most modern kitchens, the latest developments in air conditioning, household equipment, furnishings, and the many other integral parts of making a house a home, Sebastian said.

In addition to the numerous exhibits, many plus attractions will be presented for the public information and entertainment.

Second-Term Decision Tempers Oil Industry's Wrath Over Gas Bill Veto

HOUSTON Mar. 3. (AP)—President Eisenhower's willingness to seek a second term has tempered oil industry reaction to his veto of the natural gas bill.

Through the veto, two party leaders who figure prominently in the 1956 election maneuvers, Eisenhower and his 1952 opponent, Adlai Stevenson, went on record with their views on the legislation.

Eisenhower, in his Feb. 17 message to Congress, expressed regret over deciding on a veto of the bill because "I am in accord with its basic objectives." He said legislation conforming to these objectives is needed.

"I think the President did the right thing for the wrong reasons," he said at Denver.

Eisenhower said there was evidence indicating private persons, apparently representing a small segment of the oil industry had sought to further their own interests by arrogant and highly questionable activities.

His message to Congress said he would not be discharging his own duty were he to approve the bill before such activities have been investigated by the Congress and the Department of Justice.

Stevenson asserted:

"It was very apparent he was more concerned with his fear of undue influence in the passage of the bill rather than the merits of the bill itself."

The bill and the resulting investigations of lobbyist activities could form a major issue in the 1956 campaign.

The bill split party lines in Congress. The Feb. 6 Senate vote of 53-38 saw 21 Republicans and 32 Democrats support the bill. Opposition came from 11 Republicans and 24 Democrats. The House had approved the measure July 28 by a 209-203 vote. Supporting the bill were 123 Republicans and 86 Democrats. Negative votes came from 67 Republicans and 136 Democrats.

Prior to House approval, Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.) challenged Eisenhower to declare his stand on the proposal to free natural gas producers and gatherers from federal controls.

The President said the issue was of an argumentative nature but that Congress seemed to be making progress.

President Eisenhower's veto was the second in six years for such legislation. Former President Truman on April 15, 1950, vetoed the similar Kerr bill.

"To remove the authority to regulate, as this bill would do, does not seem to be wise public policy," the Truman veto message said.

The Kerr bill passed the House in 1949 by a 183-131 vote, without debate. The Senate gave 44-38 approval but an amendment sent the bill back to the House, where final passage was by a 2-vote margin, 176-174, after stormy debate.

Peace Without Bloodshed Asked In Racial Strife

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 3 (AP)—Peaceful settlement of racial problems through persuasion or recourse to the courts is urged by a group of white and Negro leaders here.

The interracial committee of the Jefferson County Coordinating Council yesterday adopted a resolution cautioning against "violent utterances" which might stir up racial strife.

The committee is made up of 25 white and 25 Negro members.

A statement approved 34-1 called on white and Negro citizens "to proceed peacefully in all their actions, to avoid violent utterances and to rely for settlement of their controversies on persuasion and on recourse to the courts."

"The issue of law and order transcends every other issue before our people," it continued. "Unless we can maintain law and order, there can be no hope of achieving any of the ends for which the committee was organized, or, indeed, of maintaining the foundation of our civilization."

Henry P. Johnston, president of the group, said the committee was formed in 1950 "to see what could be done to improve conditions in the South as far as Negroes are concerned."

Desegregation is not a concern of the committee, he added.

The committee has helped bring better medical facilities, housing and recreation for Birmingham Negroes, he added.

Sears Employees 100 Per Cent In Red Cross Support

Employees of the local Sears store are the first "one hundred per cent" contributors to the 1956 Red Cross campaign for members and funds, it was announced by W. G. Haynes, Jr. and Richard Hale, chairmen of the 1956 campaign.

The citation reads "75 Anniversary, 100 per cent, American Red Cross." C. D. McAdams, manager of the Sears store and one of the chairmen of the Ouachita chapter's employees division, presented the award to his employees.

S. S. Hollan, chairman of the employees division for the drive said, "This is a sure indication that the citizens of Ouachita parish are a neighborly people who want to be there in an organized manner when there is a natural emergency."

At the time of the announcement yesterday, it was also announced that the workers of the employees working with chairmen Hollan, McAdams, and George Hemphill, are:

Negro Woman Is Killed In Leap From Hospital

Detectives Edward Larson and Wilbur Chandebat said they believed hallucinations provoked the jump.

Doctors and nurses told them the patient, under treatment for pneumonia, began "acting strangely" last night. A fellow patient said she awakened about 2 a.m. to see the woman push off a window screen and disappear.

Negro Woman Is Killed In Leap From Hospital

Detectives Edward Larson and Wilbur Chandebat said they believed hallucinations provoked the jump.

Doctors and nurses told them the patient, under treatment for pneumonia, began "acting strangely" last night. A fellow patient said she awakened about 2 a.m. to see the woman push off a window screen and disappear.

Aston-Daniels Vows Pledged In St. Louis, Mo.

Miss Linda Lenore Daniels became the bride of Jerry Dent Aston on Saturday night February 11th, at the Oak Hill Presbyterian Church of St. Louis, Mo. The Candlelight, double ring ceremony, performed by Dr. Theodore S. Smylie, was followed by a reception in the Church parlors given by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Wm. Daniels of St. Louis.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an off shoulder neckline gown of scalloped nylon tulle, re-embroidered with iridescents. The bouffant, five tiered skirt, was also of embroidered tulle. Her finger-tip veil was topped by a queens crown of lace, seed pearls and mother-of-pearl sequins. The bride carried a shower bouquet of Stephanotis, centered with a white orchid.

Julianne Daniels, sister of the bride, who served as maid of honor, wore a lilac princess style taffeta dress, trimmed with violet velvet and carried violets and yellow sweetheart roses. Donna Beck of St. Louis, cousin of the bride and Bobbie Jean Endicott of Houston, Texas bridesmaids, wore orchid princess style taffeta dresses trimmed with velvet and carried violets and pink sweetheart roses. Their headpieces were of matching trim.

Mr. Aston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Aston of Monroe, had his brother, Edgar Lee Aston as best man and Daniel Beck, cousin of the bride, and Walter Schrieber, both from St. Louis, as groomsmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Aston are residing in Monroe, after a short honeymoon in Missouri.

MR. AND MRS. JERRY DENT ASTON

MR. AND MRS. LEE H. M'CUTCHEN

Former Monroyan Weds In Chapel At Anchorage

A wedding of interest to friends in North Louisiana was performed at Elmendorf Chapel in Anchorage, Alaska recently when Miss Joyce Alice Powell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Elmo Powell formerly of Monroe, became the bride of A 1-c Lee H. McCutchen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. McCutchen of Blanchard, Okla.

Prenuptial music was played while the guests were seated.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a white hand-clipped lace over taffeta with a Queen Ann collar and a sculptured bodice pointed in the back and ending in a chapel length skirt. A tiny lace crown trimmed in seed pearls and sequins held her veil of illusion. She carried a single white orchid mounted on a white satin prayer book.

Mrs. Glen Powell, aunt of the bride, served as matron of honor. She wore a taupe lace gown over taffeta and carried a crescent shaped bouquet of sweetheart roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in their home on L street.

After a short wedding trip, the couple returned to Anchorage where he has been stationed during the past three years.

Footwear Becomes Most Important Accessory In Woman's Wardrobe

Gone with the wind is the all-purpose shoe. It's as outmoded as the high button boot. Today's life moves too fast, includes too many varied activities to permit the shoe that "goes with everything."

In fact the shoe is a feature of the costume, meeting the mood of the clothes with which it is worn. The new shoes conform to every important fashion trend in clothes — and sometimes even anticipate it! European influence joins with American design and know - how to make shoes perhaps the most intriguing accessory in the whole ensemble.

Four important categories in the spring shoe wardrobe include the slim, elegant pump for formal town wear, conforming to the smartest daytime dress silhouette of the coming season — ladylike, slim and shapely. The semi - tailored spectator for city streets has risen to new heights of elegance in its fine detailing, new combinations of leathers and colors.

There's the tailored shoe for country wear, softer in leather, low or medium in heel, smartly piped or stitched, in colors to harmonize with week end tweeds and flannels. And there's the barest of evening shoes — sometimes nothing more than a strap and a heel, to go with the gauzy bouffant lowcut evening dresses designed for dancing under the stars.

There are more or less basics for the woman who gets around. But there are lots more intriguing shoe fashions that she can add to her basic supply.

There are pretty patio shoes to wear with her fresh cottons for five o'clock entertaining. There are real country shoes, low - heeled, rugged looking but amazingly soft and supple on the foot.

Tempting Colors

There are wonderfully exotic television and dining - at - home shoe fashions to give a party air to informal entertaining. In fact there's no end of tempting choice in new patterns and colors for the woman who makes shoes her hobby.

The point of the story is that shoes were never so varied, so smartly designed, so easy on the foot, so adapted to the clothes and the occasion. The shoe closet is back in favor. And this spring and summer should find it well-stocked with shoes to fit the foot and the fast - moving pace of today's living.

The closed shoe, the new shoe with modified opening, the wide-open sandal — the shoe of polished leather, of patent, of grained leather or suede, the shoe of fabric or straw. All these have a place in the wardrobe.

Shoes have become the most important fashion accessory in a woman' wardrobe. This spring she is going to find exactly the shoe she wants, at the price she wants to pay, to add the footnote of fashion to everything she plans to wear during the spring and summer seasons.

The average woman today, whether she be a suburbanite or city dweller will include at least six pairs of shoes — if she counts slippers — to go through spring and summer. In many cases the number will rise to eight or ten.

Starting with the tanner, who brings out the new tannages and colors, and going on to the designer and manufacturer who turn out new and exciting patterns for every costume and occasion, shoes have never been so appealing as they are this season.

The color story has a lot to do with the urge for new shoes. The days when black, brown and navy covered the field are long since past.

It's true that black and navy are still basic, and the beige to brown family is going strong. But these have the new look for spring and summer wear.

Yellow Coming Up

White looks smart and different in textured leathers, slightly creamy in tone, especially good in suit and spectator shoes. White lustre leathers are beautiful in summer dress shoes. Lustre leathers in pale pinks and blues are enchanting with filmy summer dresses.

Yellow is coming up in fashion importance, crowding the pinks and blues for popularity.

Coral is a newcomer this season, and pale greens such as Absinthe and Palmetto pick up the tints in some of the new prints and sheers.

Red shoes are always with us—and the new reds with such pretty names as Red Sails, Cherie, Rose Red, Watermelon and Mandarin give it added fashion interest.

With provocative heel treatment etched in contrasting leather and plain sleek vamp, this pump accents the Back Talk in new footwear fashions.

Flats Play Big Role In Spring Wardrobe

Yes, women are wearing flats. And they don't have to go to the children and junior departments to get them.

Flats are now a recognized part of a well - organized shoe wardrobe, and mighty smart they are for spring. Good shoe making and smart new designs have made the flat more than a mere country casual.

It's divinely comfortable, of course, but its claim to high style is comparatively recent.

They come in halter styles and new dipped slings. In tailored flats to wear with tweeds the square throat and straight sideline gives the new look.

Materials are as varied as styles, depending on when and where you plan to wear the little shoe. Raffia, especially in black and white, is a summer feature. Glove or rough suede leather for the town and country type.

Grained and shrunken leathers, and lustre leathers in dark or pastel shades add to the variety. Velveteen comes in lovely colors. Very high hat.

BOOKS

Men of no property. By Dorothy Salisbury Davis. Scribner.

In the crowd of more than 200 are the young men and women, boys and girls who compose the roster of this turbulent novel:

Vinnie Dunne, who gets a lesson in honesty from a man to whom he'll have occasion to return it before the book's end; Nora Hickey, innocent and guileless, a contrast to her sister Peg, a hoyden who'd like to win the love of Dennis Lavery, though he may not prove eventually so fine a catch; and Stephen Farrell, garbed like a priest but in fact an editor and politician fleeing Ireland for a land he hopes will be more peaceful.

There will be little peace in New York, home of most of these people for the following 15 years. Long before Civil War breaks out, and the anti draft riots turn the New World city into a battlefield, there are the growing political rivalries the business competition, the interracial tensions whether they involve Nancy, the black servant, or the puzzling Jeremiah Finn, and the usual clash of the varied temperaments of the ambitious, jealous grasping, biased, fair and unfair.

Along with a feeling for people, for story, for talk, Mrs. Davis has a further encompassing sense of time and place, so that, good though the parts are, the whole is even better. Here, you are convinced, were the big city and its citizens, just a century ago, full of drive and fight and brawl, quick to reward and honor, quicker to punish, noisy, fickle, yet tremendous.

Art In Review

The essay of a young American scholar has caused quite a stir in the aesthetic circles of Germany and Switzerland. The author — Andrew Jaszi—is an assistant professor of philology at Berkeley University.

His article, entitled "Aesthetic Form in Time and Space" was published in the fall issue of the German Quarterly for Literary Science and Intellectual History. Some experts in the field speak already of a revolution in aesthetics."

What does the revolution of young professor Jaszi consist of?

For thousands of years philosophers have been asking, "What is beauty?" Every age had its pet answer. Every answer proved to be, however, an intellectual May fly. It just did not seem possible really to pin down beauty.

Strange as it seems, philosophers who deal in ideas are as epoch-bound as farmers, soldiers and tool-makers. Not until our civilization took a sharp turn could a new approach to the old problem be formulated.

Abstractions

Ours is an industrial epoch. We want to keep things going. Our problem is existential. Our beauty is functional. And it was to be expected that sooner or later a philosopher would stop asking what beauty is and start inquiring how it exists and how it functions.

This is exactly what professor Jaszi has done. His is a functional theory of beauty. He has traced its mode of existence in space and time and compared it with the mode of existence of things there. In the course of his penetrating analysis he produced new, startling insights into the character of the things as well as into the laws man-made beauty has to obey lest it forfeit its artistic nobility and become reduced to the status of a simple thing.

Professor Jaszi's essay is a sort of intellectual Mount Everest conquest. Its impracticality is part of its beauty. This young American scholar has climbed into the rarefield atmosphere where the experience of the senses is transmuted into abstractions. From this exotic adventure he brought back a report — based upon his own observations — about the life and the habits of man-made beauty and the laws that govern its life.

A sweep of black velvet silhouettes glamorous evening pumps for spring; made sleek by enameled and jewelled heels.

Bare And Beautiful Are The Patio Shoes

Out-of-door entertaining being what it is, many women reserve their prettiest shoes for parties or patio or terrace. The Eastern influence is strong in this category in both color and cut. Low-sided pumps, slippers and mules are in many instances inspired by Oriental shoe-making. Sandals are important thronged, twisted, or banded, offering wide variety.

There are exotic new materials featuring embroidery, gilding and tooled efforts. In leather, kidskin featuring Oriental, pale or bright colors are a favorite. Vinylite contributes to the naked look.

Flats Complete Wardrobe

Italian inspired though with a Dutch touch at the toe, this little straw slipper is fringed with raffia.

Slim, Softer Pumps Here For Spring

The pump may not be new — but it's news! The beautiful new pumps which open the spring season are as different from the old standard opera pump as jeeps are from Cadillacs.

They're light in the hand and on the foot, soft and flexible in new soft tannages. They're slim in line, slim and curved in heel, the last word in femininity.

There is a great variety of patterns to choose from — the deep V throat, the oval throat-line, the squared off vamp with disappearing sides introduced by Givenchy.

It's the chance of a lifetime to pick THE pump that flatters your foot and is velvet-soft to walk in.

The plain pump is still the choice of many women. But it's a pump with a new look, due to the seamless folded topline, the lower back and straighter side. A very much smarter silhouette than that of the pump we knew a few seasons back, and artfully adapted to the slim sheath lines which prevail in high fashion town clothes.

Many of the pumps for the coming season go in for smart decorative touches. But they are done with a master's hand, to emphasize rather than detract from the graceful lines of the shoe itself. Typical trims are narrow self-strippings, tiny fold-backs, throat tabs center and off-side draping and slim flat self bows.

Color of course is important. Black in patent, in polished calf, in silk or silk and leather combinations, and for women who prefer it, black suede.

Blue bows to brown this spring in high fashion brackets. But you can't get away from navy blue as a popular spring shoe color. For the new look, it's blue with a lustre fiinsh, alone or used as a trim.

The browns are really making headlines for spring from the true brown to shades running to beige — and it looks as though lighter color in shoes would emerge as a big fashion not too long after Easter.

You can flatten small balls of cookie dough by pressing them with a floured fork in two directions to make a crisscross pattern.

Black Patent Is Top For Easter Again This Year

Fashions may come and go but patent leather, the classic in children's shoes, is still a perennial favorite. And this goes for all, from tots to teens.

The two-year-old loves her first pair of patent leather slippers and the high school girl is smart in her patent pumps and navy blue suit. Patents are perfect for Easter.

The simpler the lines the smarter the shoe. But a touch of decoration gives that feminine look which is the keynote of spring fashions.

Vamp treatments are important, even in shoes for very young wearers. No more upstanding bows, but trims that are flat and don't interfere with the line of the shoe. Cutouts, pipings, touches of pearlized leather dress up the simple one-strap.

For the grade school age the patent pump goes in for smartly shaped low heels, contrasting pipings, flat ornaments and elasticized top trims.

Patent combines with mesh, fabric, or suede in two-tone treatments, black with white or off-white being popular. Pearlized leathers in white and pastel pinks and blues dress up patent leather slippers for younger wearers.

The basic black patent Mary Jane, while bowing to the new fashions, still continues to be a favorite with many mothers as a youthful party fashion.

Continental Look Is The Thing In Comfortable New Men's Shoe Fashions

For business and town wear, men are really dressing this season. There's a sharp line drawn between the casual and the town outfit. In other words, well-dressed men now need a shoe wardrobe which includes both the casual and the dress styles.

In town clothes — and shoes— the trend is away from the free-and-easy jacket-and-slacks combination which has been doing duty for the last few seasons. The suit's the thing, whether it be in worsted, new fine tweeds, flannels or synthetics.

There's a new young modern type of elegance which is reflected in all the appurtenances of a man's costume, including his hat, suit, shirt, socks, tie and more particularly his shoes.

New Spring Look

Charcoal grey, which started the trend in ready-to-wear was responsible for the tremendous vogue for black shoes.

This spring the new look is in the intermediate tones, blues, browns, greys, tweed mixtures. Black polished leather, which goes with all of these, will still be a favorite. But there will be more interest in the browns and cordovans than there was last season.

The low-line shoe with the Continental air is the correct accessory fashion for the new town suit silhouette — which shows the modified natural line with narrow lapels, three-button fastening and slightly squared shoulders.

The new shoes are sleek, slim, light on the foot. They are distinctly a dress shoe with a town look about it. Flexible soft leather that takes a high polish adds to the new feeling for formality in men's city wear.

The popularity of the U and Wing Tip shoe is another indication of the trend, as is the trend toward the modified low-cut in three, four and five-eyelet shoes for city wear.

The slip-on, now a basic in many men's shoe wardrobes, is definitely styling up for the spring and summer season.

Continental Influence

Higher vamp lines, hugging the instep, give a smarter, more sophisticated air to a shoe which started out as a casual fashion. High riding flared vamps are a feature of the new look in town slip-ons. Strap treatments are popular, superseding in fashion interest the tassel in fashion apparel.

A typical town slip-on in black polished leather features a sabot strap and moc front with interesting bold perforated treatment. For wear with tweeds a flared tongue plain toe slip-on in the new Teak brown polished leather has perforated strap and buckle closing. Sleek low cut Italian styling is the feature of a perfectly plain slip-on in black shrunken grain calf with high-riding front line. The wing-tip slip-on, in either smooth or fine grain leathers, has the new city look about it.

More Fabrics Used

Increased use of fabrics such as silk shantung are noticed. Fabric inserts are closely coordinated with leather trim, as in a wing-tip model of black polished leather with insert of grey silk shantung, or a crossed strap treatment in black leather over an insert of black faille.

For business wear the slip-on is losing a little ground to the more conventional oxford types on slimmer lines and lighter, more flexible construction, except for the younger men.

Shoes Now Come In Washable Leathers

It may be some time before you can toss your shoes into a washing machine and see them come out like new. But a big step has been taken in that direction. An increasing number of shoes are being made with washable leathers.

These leathers can be easily and quickly washed with soap and water or a mild detergent. After drying, the leathers are just as soft and supple as originally. Natural sheen of the leather is retained. The end result is a clean, fresh, new-looking shoe.

As simple as this sounds, it's the consequence of years of research to obtain truly washable leather which could be genuinely color-fast and supple.

Sleek new one-eye ties featuring authentic Italian styling are among the smart new shoes of the season for men. Note trim details, tassel laces and toe bumper.

Sheer Enchantment For M'Lady's Foot Comes In Vinylite

In any season, there's a place for the gay and frivolous in slippers — the sheer extravaganza that's the highlight of a party costume. And that's where vinylite comes in.

Vinylite makes the Cinderella slipper of glass. It lends itself to sheer enchantment in cocktail and dance shoes. With this clear transparent material, shoe designers have let their fancy run riot.

There are mule types and sandals in vinylite, each of them a jeweler's piece. Take for example the crystal clear vinylite mule, backless, of course, with slender lucite heel and open toe — and for decoration, a huge butterfly ornament in exotic colors poised at one side of the vamp.

Less exotic, but equally smart, a cocktail shoe consists of a gold kit halter sling with inserts of clear vinylite on the vamp, and lucite heel. Gold and crystal for the shoe that can accompany any formal costume.

In another formal mule type if slipper, the rhinestone studded heel is white satin, the open toe vamp is clear vinylite with glittering cabachon ornament of rhinestones.

STAMPS

Transportation is the theme of a new set of four stamps issued by Switzerland. Three of the adhesives mark the jubilees of national transport enterprises and the fourth promotes the national highway safety program.

The three U.S. wildlife conservation stamps will feature a pronghorn antelope, a king salmon and a wild turkey, says Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield. Each will be a 3-center. Dates and places of first day sale will be forthcoming soon.

Although the Rotary International's 50th anniversary was celebrated last year, several nations are issuing stamps for the occasion this year. The two latest are from Costa Rica and Greece. There are six in the Costa Rica set. Only one was issued by Greece. All bear the Rotary's wheel emblem.

If you want party-style raw-vegetable appetizers to look and taste their best, serve them on a bed of crushed ice in a crystal bowl or on a glass serving plate.

Embellish those scrambled eggs you are planning to serve for lunch with cooked green asparagus (canned or frozen), anchovies, canned stewed tomatoes, creamed tuna or buttery-crisp croutons.

Turk Murphy is one of those rare "outsiders" who has been able to make jazz sound like it is being played in New Orleans even when it is recorded in California. So when Turk actually plays jazz at the scene of its birth, he performs not as a stranger.

"New Orleans Jazz Festival," Turk's latest on a Columbia label, is just about as good Dixieland jazz as you can hear these days, unless you have access to the unadvertised jazz spots in New Orleans.

Other recommended jazz and swing albums:

Real cool — "Lighthouse at Laguna," a Contemporary release featuring Howard Rumsey's Lighthouse All - Stars, the Hampton Hawes Trio and Barney Kessel. Shelly Manne's drum work is distinctive. Kessel's guitar solo on "Round About Midnight" is a classic job.

Instrumental — "Two Swing or Not to Swing" (Contemporary)— This is Barney Kessel at his best on nine numbers and should nominate him as the outstanding guitarist of our time.

Mixed — "Hot vs. Cool" (M-G-M). A musical battle between Jimmy McPartland and his Dixieland Stars and Dizzy Gillespie and his Birdland Stars. Fine Dixieland clarinet breaks by Edmund Hall. Best contest is on "Muskrat Ramble."

Imported — "French Toast" (Angel). Exceptional piano work on original French jazz by Andre Persiany and Christian Chevallier. Unfamiliar at first hearing, catches on after a few spinnings. Mostly cool.

Swing—"Jazz Spectacular" (Columbia). Features Frankie Laine and Buck Clayton on 10 numbers. Good Laine vocals, especially on "Stars Fell on Alabama," with neat trumpet backing by Clayton.

Experimental—"Four Brass and One Tenor," latest from RCA-Victor's Jazz Workshop. Trumpets form brassy backdrop for Al Cohn's sax on a dozen numbers, including "I'm Coming Virginia" and "Rosetta."

Dance—"Let's Dance" by Steve Allen and orchestra (Coral). Eleven numbers inspired by Allen's portrayal of Benny Goodman in the movie. Billy Butterfield stars on the trumpet, with Allen making good showing on the piano.

Continental Look Is The Thing In Comfortable New Men's Shoe Fashions

For business and town wear, men are really dressing this season. There's a sharp line drawn between the casual and the town outfit. In other words, well-dressed men now need a shoe wardrobe which includes both the casual and the dress styles.

In town clothes — and shoes— the trend is away from the free-and-easy jacket-and-slacks combination which has been doing duty for the last few seasons. The suit's the thing, whether it be in worsted, new fine tweeds, flannels or synthetics.

There's a new young modern type of elegance which is reflected in all the appurtenances of a man's costume, including his hat, suit, shirt, socks, tie and more particularly his shoes.

New Spring Look

Charcoal grey, which started the trend in ready-to-wear was responsible for the tremendous vogue for black shoes.

This spring the new look is in the intermediate tones, blues, browns, greys, tweed mixtures. Black polished leather, which goes with all of these, will still be a favorite. But there will be more interest in the browns and cordovans than there was last season.

The low-line shoe with the Continental air is the correct accessory fashion for the new town suit silhouette — which shows the modified natural line with narrow lapels, three-button fastening and slightly squared shoulders.

The new shoes are sleek, slim, light on the foot. They are distinctly a dress shoe with a town look about it. Flexible soft leather that takes a high polish adds to the new feeling for formality in men's city wear.

The popularity of the U and Wing Tip shoe is another indication of the trend, as is the trend toward the modified low-cut in three, four and five-eyelet shoes for city wear.

The slip-on, now a basic in many men's shoe wardrobes, is definitely styling up for the spring and summer season.

Continental Influence

Higher vamp lines, hugging the instep, give a smarter, more sophisticated air to a shoe which started out as a casual fashion. High riding flared vamps are a feature of the new look in town slip-ons. Strap treatments are popular, superseding in fashion interest the tassel in fashion apparel.

A typical town slip-on in black polished leather features a sabot strap and moc front with interesting bold perforated treatment. For wear with tweeds a flared tongue plain toe slip-on in the new Teak brown polished leather has perforated strap and buckle closing. Sleek low cut Italian styling is the feature of a perfectly plain slip-on in black shrunken grain calf with high-riding front line. The wing-tip slip-on, in either smooth or fine grain leathers, has the new city look about it.

More Fabrics Used

Increased use of fabrics such as silk shantung are noticed. Fabric inserts are closely coordinated with leather trim, as in a wing-tip model of black polished leather with insert of grey silk shantung, or a crossed strap treatment in black leather over an insert of black faille.

For business wear the slip-on is losing a little ground to the more conventional oxford types on slimmer lines and lighter, more flexible construction, except for the younger men.

Sleek new one-eye ties featuring authentic Italian styling are among the smart new shoes of the season for men. Note trim details, tassel laces and toe bumper.

Shoes Now Come In Washable Leathers

It may be some time before you can toss your shoes into a washing machine and see them come out like new. But a big step has been taken in that direction. An increasing number of shoes are being made with washable leathers.

These leathers can be easily and quickly washed with soap and water or a mild detergent. After drying, the leathers are just as soft and supple as originally. Natural sheen of the leather is retained. The end result is a clean, fresh, new-looking shoe.

As simple as this sounds, it's the consequence of years of research to obtain truly washable leather which could be genuinely color-fast and supple.

Custom Styling Plus Cool Comfort Assured For Men

No, men! The same pair of shoes doesn't answer for all-season wear any more. Your house is air-conditioned for the summer months. Maybe your car. Why not your feet which have to cope with blistering pavements during the dog days.

One big answer, getting more popular all the time, is the ventilated shoe which now offers custom styling plus the maximum of summertime comfort and coolness.

Perforated leathers, hand or machine woven leathers are features of some of the smartest shoes of the coming season. They appear in everything from casuals to dress shoes.

Easy On Eyes And Feet

For country and weekend wear, the Italian type features a straight cut vamp of hand-woven leather, with glove-soft leather quarter and foam rubber sole. In black, red or light tan colors they're the perfect accompaniment to slacks or walking shorts. Easy on the eye — and mighty easy on the foot!

Not quite so casual but still a country and knockabout shoe is the low-cut one-eyelet oxford, usually in light tan smooth or grained calf with vamp of wide-open handwoven leather in matching color. A good shoe in any summer wardrobe.

Cool To Wear

Cool to look at and to wear is a smart moccasin vamp two-eyelet of black with vamp of perforated white brushed leather. And any man who prides himself on his taste in town footwear would be happy to wear the one-eyelet tassel oxford in black with vamp and flared tongue of gleaming black woven leather.

These are just a hint of the high styling which is now going into a fashion which owed its origin to a demand for greater comfort in summer footwear. A pair of air-cooled shoes, — and possibly two or three — is now a must in the well-regulated summer wardrobe.

Roll the lawn as soon as freezing and thawing has stopped. Don't use a big heavy roller. A water roller one-quarter to one-third full is heavy enough. Wait until the soil has dried out and is not muddy wet before rolling.

Dressy Look Wins Favor Among Boys

Likr their fathers and older brothers, boys are going for the two and three-eyelet shoes this spring. They are beginning to take precedence over the one-eyelet that was the predominant style a year ago.

They are a little dressier in look. They're low-cut, but not to the extreme of a season ago. They're smart, well-fitting with a slightly grown-up air which goes with boys' clothes this season.

The Italian influence is evident even for the younger set. Toes are slimmer looking, with closer edge trims on the soles.

Smooth leathers predominate, but fine grains that take a good polish are also important in these shoes designed for school and semi-dress wear. Black continues to rise in popularity in dressy oxfords.

Lustrous brown grain leather is another accepted favorite in this more conventional type of shoe. The tans and medium browns in smooth or grain have a more casual look.

In this category come the oxfords which combine colors, as black, brown or tan with white, or use vamp treatments of matching or contrasting mesh or ventilated leathers.

There's a much wider choice this spring in these well-styled shoes for school and semi-dress year, in keeping with the whole trend in boys' and men's apparel.

For more utility wear the Lido or two-eyelet oxford in "smoke" or off-white promises to be popular.

Smart Shoes For Bright Youngsters

Dainty white stitching on party shoes is now more than decoration. It's elasticized to keep hugging the foot for comfort.

Smart as dad's are the new black gore tassel loafers for men very young in years.

Little gents now can have star mesh U wing oxfords for summer comfort just like dad's in brown or black.

Trim tailored new two strappers of supple leather in red or white are for school or for dress.

Girl Scout News

One of the nicest things about Girl Scouting is that a girl can take her membership card to almost any community where her family moves and can go right into a Scout troop. Brownie Troop 61 on the same day recently welcomed Sherry Lott, who moved from Kileen, Tex., and gave a good bye party for Sandra Smith, who is moving to New York. Of course, Sandra hopes to continue in her Brownie work. The troop gave Sandra a gift and enjoyed partying. Mrs. Gertrude Watson is leader of the troop, which is made up of third-graders at Millsaps School.

It was quite an occasion for Troop 49 at their last meeting when Linda Wilenzick, who had lived with her parents in Sopporo, Japan, for some time, transferred to their troop. The girls were surprised that Linda had the same membership card and troop record sheets as theirs. But they found out that the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. have many hundreds of troops on foreign soil. On the International Friendship day in Girl Scout Week Linda will tell the troop members about life in Japan. Mrs. A. M. Kite is leader of the troop and Mrs. Coy Casey is assistant leader.

Mrs. G. D. Mullins and Mrs. K.E. Vinson are the new leaders of troop 25, which is planning to celebrate its first birthday this month and register for another year of Brownie Scouting. A recent visit to a bakery was an enjoyable project and the girls are looking forward to similar expeditions soon.

Old Scouts, but new members of Troop 38 are Frances Adams, Sandra Bailey, Sharon Hays, Linda Huckaby, and Elizabeth Rogers, who came into the troop just in time to take part in the cookie sale, the Juliette Low Fund pennies and the birthday program next Sunday.

Just in time for the Juliette Low fund is the new booklet, "A Friend in Deed," which is available for distribution to every girl. The book has an excellent picture of Our Chalet and tells interestingly about the work of our pennies. There is material in it for several meetings and troops leaders can have the books by dropping by the office.

Did you see Mary Catherine McGuire on television Thursday? She was chosen because she has sold 156 boxes of Girl Scout cookies. Have you bought Girl Scout cookies?

News From The Public Library

It is always interesting and exciting to open packages of new books, catalog and process them and get them ready for the public. Even though we have selected and ordered them it is always pleasant to see the actual books and think of the people who are going to read and enjoy them.

Probably the most outstanding book of the week is "The Dead Sea Scrolls" by Millar Burrows. This book was selected by the American Library Association as one of the outstanding books of 1955. Two weeks ago at the Tulane Conference the speaker on this subject said that the Miller Burrows book was the best one in the field. The next day we ordered several copies and they are now ready for circulation. In case you are not familiar with the Dead Sea Scrolls, they are a group of early writings dating back to the Pre Christian era, which were found in a cave on the shore of the Dead Sea in 1947. Their discovery has excited the interest of scholars as well as the general reader. They shed new light on the Bible and the story of their discovery is truly a remarkable one. If you are not familiar with the subject, you should read at least one book about it.

Another interesting book of nonfiction is "With Beauregard in Mexico" written by T. Harry Williams, a history professor at L.S.U. Everyone who has ever had the privilege of sitting in one of Mr. Williams classes will want to read this book. It is well and excitingly written and adds a great deal to our knowledge of the Mexican war. It is based on the diary of General Beauregard and has a distinct flavor of bygone times.

A book of fiction for which we have had numerous requests is "Ten North Frederick" by John O'Hara. This is the book of fiction which won the National Book Award this winter. It gives a picture of contemporary life, which if not always pleasant is at least very realistic. It is a book. It is a book which will be widely read and discussed, however if you do not like stark realism, I would advise you not to read the book. A new title for the readers of mystery stories is "The Voice of Murder" by Margaret Esrkine.

Teen-agers have several new books among this week's offerings. For girls there is "The Tower in the Sky" by Joy Welhen. This story has its setting in Switzerland and is a mystery as well as a romance. For boys there is a very interesting book called "West Point Plebe" This is a faithful account of the first year at West Point for three roommates and the adventures which befel them. It is well written and will appeal to any boy who is planning to attend this school. "Keen Teens" by Stookie Allen contains 101 ways in which teenagers can make money. It is a book which every enterprising teen-ager will enjoy. What others have done, you can do too.

Most people are very interested in their health and more and more books are being written about various diseases and trouble which plaque the human race. One of the newest is "Your blood pressure and how to live with it" by William A. Brams. This is a very hopeful book and should be of help to you whether your blood pressure problem is high or low. "Stop dieting start losing" by Ruth West is a very interesting new book which tells how to lose as much as two or three pounds a week. This book lays great stress on the amount of proteins a person eats.

These new books are waiting for you at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. If you have not registered to use our resources, do not delay any longer, but come in as soon as possible.

Perforated leathers, hand or machine woven leathers are features of some of the smartest shoes of the coming season. They appear in everything from casuals to dress shoes.

Easy On Eyes And Feet

For country and weekend wear, the Italian type features a straight cut vamp of hand-woven leather with glove-soft leather quarter and foam rubber sole. In black, red or light tan colors they're the perfect accompaniment to slacks or walking shorts. Easy on the eye — and mighty easy on the foot!

Not quite so casual but still a country and knockabout shoe is the low-cut one-eyelet oxford, usually in light tan smooth or grained calf with vamp of wide-open handwoven leather in matching color. A good shoe in any summer wardrobe.

Cool To Wear

Cool to look at and to wear is a smart moccasin vamp two-eyelet of black with vamp of perforated white brushed leather. And any man who prides himself on his taste in town footwear would be happy to wear the one-eyelet tassel oxford in black with vamp and flared tongue of gleaming black woven leather.

These are just a hint of the high styling which is now going into a fashion which owed its origin to a demand for greater comfort in summer footwear. A pair of air-cooled shoes, — and possibly two or three — is now a must in the well-regulated summer wardrobe.

Roll the lawn as soon as freezing and thawing has stopped. Don't use a big heavy roller. A water roller one-quarter to one-third full is heavy enough. Wait until the soil has dried out and is not muddy wet before rolling.

Dressy Look Wins Favor Among Boys

Likr their fathers and older brothers, boys are going for the two and three-eyelet shoes this spring. They are beginning to take precedence over the one-eyelet that was the predominant style a year ago.

They are a little dressier in look. They're low-cut, but not to the extreme of a season ago. They're smart, well-fitting with a slightly grown-up air which goes with boys' clothes this season.

The Italian influence is evident even for the younger set. Toes are slimmer looking, with closer edge trims on the soles.

Smooth leathers predominate, but fine grains that take a good polish are also important in these shoes designed for school and semi-dress wear. Black continues to rise in popularity in dressy oxfords.

Lustrous brown grain leather is another accepted favorite in this more conventional type of shoe. The tans and medium browns in smooth or grain have a more casual look.

In this category come the oxfords which combine colors, as black, brown or tan with white, or use vamp treatments of matching or contrasting mesh or ventilated leathers.

There's a much wider choice this spring in these well-styled shoes for school and semi-dress year, in keeping with the whole trend in boys' and men's apparel.

For more utility wear the Lido or two-eyelet oxford in "smoke" or off-white promises to be popular.

Smart Shoes For Bright Youngsters

Dainty white stitching on party shoes is now more than decoration. It's elasticized to keep hugging the foot for comfort.

Smart as dad's are the new black gore tassel loafers for men very young in years.

Little gents now can have star mesh U wing oxfords for summer comfort just like dad's in brown or black.

Trim tailored new two strappers of supple leather in red or white are for school or for dress.

Girl Scout News

One of the nicest things about Girl Scouting is that a girl can take her membership card to almost any community where her family moves and can go right into a Scout troop. Brownie Troop 61 on the same day recently welcomed Sherry Lott, who moved from Kileen, Tex., and gave a good bye party for Sandra Smith, who is moving to New York. Of course, Sandra hopes to continue in her Brownie work. The troop gave Sandra a gift and enjoyed partying. Mrs. Gertrude Watson is leader of the troop, which is made up of third-graders at Millsaps School.

It was quite an occasion for Troop 49 at their last meeting when Linda Wilenzick, who had lived with her parents in Sopporo, Japan, for some time, transferred to their troop. The girls were surprised that Linda had the same membership card and troop record sheets as theirs. But they found out that the Girl Scouts of the U. S. A. have many hundreds of troops on foreign soil. On the International Friendship day in Girl Scout Week Linda will tell the troop members about life in Japan. Mrs. A. M. Kite is leader of the troop and Mrs. Coy Casey is assistant leader.

Mrs. G. D. Mullins and Mrs. K.E. Vinson are the new leaders of troop 25, which is planning to celebrate its first birthday this month and register for another year of Brownie Scouting. A recent visit to a bakery was an enjoyable project and the girls are looking forward to similar expeditions soon.

Old Scouts, but new members of Troop 38 are Frances Adams, Sandra Bailey, Sharon Hays, Linda Huckaby, and Elizabeth Rogers, who came into the troop just in time to take part in the cookie sale, the Juliette Low Fund pennies and the birthday program next Sunday.

Just in time for the Juliette Low fund is the new booklet, "A Friend in Deed," which is available for distribution to every girl. The book has an excellent picture of Our Chalet and tells interestingly about the work of our pennies. There is material in it for several meetings and troops leaders can have the books by dropping by the office.

Did you see Mary Catherine McGuire on television Thursday? She was chosen because she has sold 156 boxes of Girl Scout cookies. Have you bought Girl Scout cookies?

News From The Public Library

It is always interesting and exciting to open packages of new books, catalog and process them and get them ready for the public. Even though we have selected and ordered them it is always pleasant to see the actual books and think of the people who are going to read and enjoy them.

Probably the most outstanding book of the week is "The Dead Sea Scrolls" by Millar Burrows. This book was selected by the American Library Association as one of the outstanding books of 1955. Two weeks ago at the Tulane Conference the speaker on this subject said that the Miller Burrows book was the best one in the field. The next day we ordered several copies and they are now ready for circulation. In case you are not familiar with the Dead Sea Scrolls, they are a group of early writings dating back to the Pre Christian era, which were found in a cave on the shore of the Dead Sea in 1947. Their discovery has excited the interest of scholars as well as the general reader. They shed new light on the Bible and the story of their discovery is truly a remarkable one. If you are not familiar with the subject, you should read at least one book about it.

Another interesting book of nonfiction is "With Beauregard in Mexico" written by T. Harry Williams, a history professor at L.S.U. Everyone who has ever had the privilege of sitting in one of Mr. Williams classes will want to read this book. It is well and excitingly written and adds a great deal to our knowledge of the Mexican war. It is based on the diary of General Beauregard and has a distinct flavor of bygone times.

A book of fiction for which we have had numerous requests is "Ten North Frederick" by John O'Hara. This is the book of fiction which won the National Book Award this winter. It gives a picture of contemporary life, which if not always pleasant is at least very realistic. It is a book. It is a book which will be widely read and discussed, however if you do not like stark realism, I would advise you not to read the book. A new title for the readers of mystery stories is "The Voice of Murder" by Margaret Esrkine.

Teen-agers have several new books among this week's offerings. For girls there is "The Tower in the Sky" by Joy Welhen. This story has its setting in Switzerland and is a mystery as well as a romance. For boys there is a very interesting book called "West Point Plebe" This is a faithful account of the first year at West Point for three roommates and the adventures which befel them. It is well written and will appeal to any boy who is planning to attend this school. "Keen Teens" by Stookie Allen contains 101 ways in which teenagers can make money. It is a book which every enterprising teen-ager will enjoy. What others have done, you can do too.

Most people are very interested in their health and more and more books are being written about various diseases and trouble which plaque the human race. One of the newest is "Your blood pressure and how to live with it" by William A. Brams. This is a very hopeful book and should be of help to you whether your blood pressure problem is high or low. "Stop dieting start losing" by Ruth West is a very interesting new book which tells how to lose as much as two or three pounds a week. This book lays great stress on the amount of proteins a person eats.

These new books are waiting for you at the Ouachita Parish Public Library. If you have not registered to use our resources, do not delay any longer, but come in as soon as possible.

Black and white or brown and white shoes for men this spring will include new ventilated slip-on models.

REV. H. W. TINKER

Church Leader Of Note Will Be Guest Preacher

The Rev. H. Neville Tinker, associate secretary of the Leadership Training division in the Christian Education department of the Episcopal church will be the preacher at Grace church this Sunday at the 9:45 service. As a representative of the Episcopal Church's Department of Christian education, he comes to the Diocese of Louisiana to conduct a series of conferences in Christian education throughout the state.

He has just concluded such a series of conferences in the Diocese of Dallas. He will be in Rayville on Sunday afternoon and in Shreveport on Monday.

Fr. Tinker has travelled thousands of miles since he became Associate Secretary in the Leadership Training division of the Department of Christian education in November, 1954. He was formerly the rector of Holy Cross Church in North Plainfield, New Jersey. Born in Houston, Texas, and a graduate of the Virginia Theological Seminary of the Episcopal church, he has ministered to parishes in Hearne, Texas, Providence, Rhode Island, Chicago, Illinois and Minneapolis, Minnesota.

While in Chicago he was a lecturer in Pastoral Theology to seniors at Seabury Western Theological seminary. Fr. Tinker's primary interest in Parish life has been on regular Sunday Family Communions, reorganized Church School programs, adult educational classes and pastoral counselling.

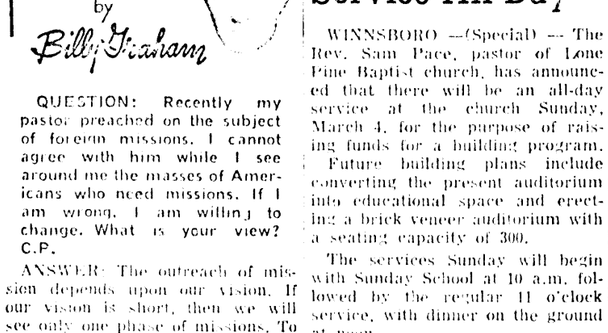
MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Recently my pastor preached on the subject of foreign missions. I cannot agree with him while I see around me the masses of Americans who need missions. If I am wrong, I am willing to change. What is your view? C.P.

ANSWER: The outreach of mission depends upon our vision. If our vision is short, then we will see only one phase of missions. To be effective, missions must be broad enough to include both. Do you realize that about 90 per cent of the preachers are ministering to less than 10 per cent of the world's population. That should stimulate our thinking and send us to the very ends of the earth to proclaim the message. If the Gospel has had any beneficial effect in our land, we should share it. If we take seriously the commission of Jesus, we will go to the ends of the earth. I would say we should evangelize both at home and abroad, but especially where the need is greatest. I have noticed that the churches that do more for foreign mission shine the brightest at home! I am convinced that one of the greatest needs in the church today is a new home and foreign missionary vision!



Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0.	I Sam. 12:23.	I will instruct you in the good and the right way.
1.	II Sam. 2:6.	Show steadfast love and faithfulness.
2.	I Kings 2:9.	You are wise; you will know what you ought to do.
3.	II Kings 14:10.	Be content, and stay at home; for why should you provoke trouble.
4.	Prov. 17:9.	He who forgives an offense seeks love, but he who repeats a matter alienates a friend.

Churches Will Enter Appeals For Destitute

On the following Sunday, (March 11) special offerings will be made in the churches in response to the "One Great Hour of Sharing" appeal of the 1956 United Appeal of major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations for support of their programs of overseas relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction.

Nearly $11,000,000 will be required in 1956 for the individual and cooperative relief programs of the denominations supporting the United Appeal, which is sponsored through the Department of Church World Service of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. Through Church World Service, 35 denominations and communions cooperate in their ministries of compassion to those in distress overseas.

Major areas of need covered by the 1956 United Appeal include Korea, the Near East, India, Pakistan, Japan, Greece, Germany, Austria, Italy, France and Hongkong.

'Nightmare' Death Claims 15th Victim

MANILA —UP— The Philippines' mysterious "nightmare" sickness claimed its 15th victim in two months Saturday.

The latest victim of the "bangongot" was a bakery owner in Ilocos Sur province who was found dead Saturday morning by his wife.

Put enough fat in your skillet, when you are frying a fish, to have it about one-eighth inch deep.

Overseas Work Is Open For Many Special Groups

Specific needs for special term foreign missionaries in 1956 have been announced by the Office of Missionary Personnel of the Board of Missions, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N.Y.

The missionary personnel office is seeking about 50 single men and women for three years of mission service in Japan, Korea, Southeast Asia, Latin America and North Africa. The group will become the "Fellowship of Christian Service" for 1956.

Most of the openings are for educational work — teaching English, physical education, home economics, commercial subjects, mathematics and other subjects in junior and senior high school and college. There are several openings, however, for church and social work, such as rural evangelism and service in urban social centers.

The missionary personnel office lists the requirements for special term service as: A college degree with a good scholastic record, age between 21 and 28, sound physical and mental health and "a Christian experience and a sensitivity to human need."

Before leaving for mission posts overseas, special term missionaries receive six weeks' training in language study, orientation to the area in which they will serve and the fundamentals of Christianity. While in mission service, they receive salary, housing, medical care and travel expenses to and from the field.

Persons interested in special term service may write to the Office of Missionary Personnel, women to Miss J. Marguerite Twinem and men to the Rev. Paul Yount, Jr.

Easter Seal Campaign Kicks Off Next Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (Special) — When the 1956 Easter Seal Campaign kicks off statewide next Saturday, a nine-year-old girl, walking without crutches for the first time in her life, will be carrying the banner for Louisiana's crippled children.

She is Brenda Jo, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doucet, of Eunice, born with a deformity of her right leg which necessitated an above-the-knee amputation. Fitted with an artificial leg, which she promptly dubbed "Jo-Jo," Brenda was sent by the Crippled Children's Section of the State Department of Health to the Crippled Children's Hospital in New Orleans, where Easter Seal therapists gave her intensive therapy and training in the use of the prosthesis.

She was selected as Louisiana's Easter Seal Child for 1956 on the basis of her quiet courage and the happy adaptability and tenacity she displayed in learning to use "Jo-Jo." In announcing her, final selection, Walter Godchaux, president of the Louisiana Chapter for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., said, "Actually, Brenda Jo, for all practical purposes no longer is crippled. She is typical of the physically disabled children who can lead happy and useful lives, if special treatment and training are made available to them. Helping them goes beyond charity; it's only good sense to provide the services they need now — medical, educational, vocational — to enable them to grow up as wholly, or partially, self-supporting adults, rather than as burdens on their families and too often, as recipients of public welfare."

Weeks of pre-campaign effort by thousands of Easter Seal volunteers, co-operating civic, veterans' and women's organizations, will be climaxed by the mailing of more than 400,000 letters of appeal to Louisiana families between March 10 and April 10.

In addition, affiliated parish units will emphasize the importance of child safety practices in homes, at school and in traffic as a means of cutting down on child deaths and injuries by accidents, which statistics show to be a greater threat to childhood than the seven deadliest diseases, including leukemia and polio combined.

Urging support of the drive, Godchaux emphasized that of funds raised during the campaign, 90 per cent remains in Louisiana "where it is invested in the future of our children — and who could ask for a better investment?"

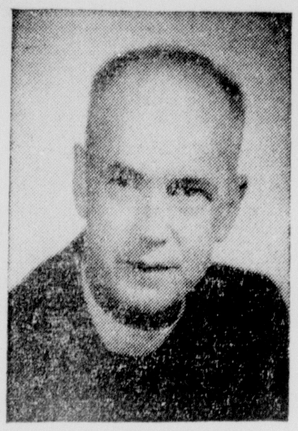
CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE



REV. H. W. TINKER

Church Leader Of Note Will Be Guest Preacher

The Rev. H. Neville Tinker, associate secretary of the Leadership Training division in the Christian Education department of the Episcopal church will be the preacher at Grace church this Sunday at the 9:45 service. As a representative of the Episcopal Church's Department of Christian education, he comes to the Diocese of Louisiana to conduct a series of conferences in Christian education throughout the state.

He has just concluded such a series of conferences in the Diocese of Dallas. He will be in Rayville on Sunday afternoon and in Shreveport on Monday.

Fr. Tinker has travelled thousands of miles since he became Associate Secretary in the Leadership Training division of the Department of Christian education in November, 1954. He was formerly the rector of Holy Cross Church in North Plainfield, New Jersey. Born in Houston, Texas, and a graduate of the Virginia Theological Seminary of the Episcopal church, he has ministered to parishes in Hearne, Texas, Providence, Rhode Island, Chicago, Illinois and Minneapolis, Minnesota.

While in Chicago he was a lecturer in Pastoral Theology to seniors at Seabury Western Theological seminary. Fr. Tinker's primary interest in Parish life has been on regular Sunday Family Communions, reorganized Church School programs, adult educational classes and pastoral counselling.

While at Gethsemane church in Minneapolis, he established the Downtown foundation with a training staff to conduct recreational counselling and religious activities with children, old age pensioners and underprivileged residents.

St. David's To Have Conference By Rev. Tinker

An Episcopal Conference in Christian Education is to be conducted at St. David's Episcopal Church in Rayville this Sunday between the hours of 2:00 and 8:00 p.m. by the Rev. H. Neville Tinker, associate secretary of the Leadership Training Division of the Department of Christian Education of the National Council of the Episcopal church.

This is the first in a series of such area conferences to be held throughout the State of Louisiana during the first week in March. The Rayville conference is to be attended by clergy and Church School teachers of the Episcopal Church in Lake Providence, Tallulah, St. Joseph, Waterproof, Winnsboro, Mer Rouge, Bastrop, Ruston and Monroe. One special feature of the conference will be the presentation of new Church School courses to be introduced during the coming year.

The Rev. Richard W. Wilson, Vicar of St. David's Church, will be the conference host.

Churches Will Enter Appeals For Destitute

Today many Protestant churches in the Twin Cities will join thousands of others in the nation emphasizing the need of the ministry of churches to those in foreign lands left homeless and destitute.

On the following Sunday, (March 11) special offerings will be made in the churches in response to the "One Great Hour of Sharing" appeal of the 1956 United Appeal of major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox denominations for support of their programs of overseas relief, rehabilitation and reconstruction.

Nearly $11,000,000 will be required in 1956 for the individual and cooperative relief programs of the denominations supporting the United Appeal, which is sponsored through the Department of Church World Service of the National Council of the Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. Through Church World Service, 35 denominations and communions cooperate in their ministries of compassion to those in distress overseas.

Major areas of need covered by the 1956 United Appeal include Korea, the Near East, India, Pakistan, Japan, Greece, Germany, Austria, Italy, France and Hongkong.

Lone Pine Church Will Seek Money; Service All Day

WINNSBORO —(Special) — The Rev. Sam Pace, pastor of Lone Pine Baptist church, has announced that there will be an all-day service at the church Sunday, March 4, for the purpose of raising funds for a building program.

Future building plans include converting the present auditorium into educational space and erecting a brick veneer auditorium with a seating capacity of 300.

The services Sunday will begin with Sunday School at 10 a.m. followed by the regular 11 o'clock service, with dinner on the ground at noon.

Guest speakers for the afternoon services will be the Rev. H. K. Stringer, pastor of Temple Baptist Church, Winnsboro, and The Rev. Joe Silvio, pastor of Boeuf River Baptist church. Song services for the day will be under the direction of Allen Simmons, music director of Temple Baptist church.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: Recently my pastor preached on the subject of foreign missions. I cannot agree with him while I see around me the masses of Americans who need missions. If I am wrong, I am willing to change. What is your view? C.P.

ANSWER: The outreach of mission depends upon our vision. If our vision is short, then we will see only one phase of missions. To be effective, missions must be broad enough to include both. Do you realize that about 90 per cent of the preachers are ministering to less than 10 per cent of the world's population. That should stimulate our thinking, and send us to the very ends of the earth to proclaim the message. If the Gospel has had any beneficial effect in our land, we should share it. If we take seriously the commission of Jesus, we will go to the ends of the earth. I would say we should evangelize both at home and abroad, but especially where the need is greatest. I have noticed that the churches that do more for foreign mission shine the brightest at home! I am convinced that one of the greatest needs in the church today is a new home and foreign missionary vision!

Today's YOUR GUIDING STAR Message:

0. I Sam. 12:33. I will instruct you in the good and the right way.
1. II Sam. 2:6. Show steadfast love and faithfulness.
2. I Kings 2:9. You are wise; you will know what you ought to do.
3. II Kings 14:10. Be content, and stay at home; for why should you provoke trouble.
4. Prov. 17:9. He who forgives an offense seeks love, but he who repeats a matter alienates a friend.

Overseas Work Is Open For Many Special Groups

Specific needs for special term foreign missionaries in 1956 have been announced by the Office of Missionary Personnel of the Board of Missions, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York 11, N.Y.

The missionary personnel office is seeking about 50 single men and women for three years of mission service in Japan, Korea, Southeast Asia, Latin America and North Africa. The group will become the "Fellowship of Christian Service" for 1956.

Most of the openings are for educational work — teaching English, physical education, home economics, commercial subjects, mathematics and other subjects in junior and senior high school and college. There are several openings, however, for church and social work, such as rural evangelism and service in urban social centers.

The missionary personnel office lists the requirements for special term service as: A college degree with a good scholastic record, age between 21 and 28, sound physical and mental health and "a Christian experience and a sensitivity to human need."

Before leaving for mission posts overseas, special term missionaries receive six weeks' training in language study, orientation to the area in which they will serve and the fundamentals of Christianity. While in mission service, they receive salary, housing, medical care and travel expenses to and from the field.

Persons interested in special term service may write to the Office of Missionary Personnel, women to Miss J. Marguerite Twinem and men to the Rev. Paul Yount, Jr.

Easter Seal Campaign Kicks Off Next Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (Special) — When the 1956 Easter Seal Campaign kicks off statewide next Saturday, a nine-year-old girl, walking without crutches for the first time in her life, will be carrying the banner for Louisiana's crippled children.

She is Brenda Jo, one of six children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Doucet, of Eunice, born with a deformity of her right leg which necessitated an above-the-knee amputation. Fitted with an artificial leg, which she promptly dubbed "Jo-Jo," Brenda was sent by the Crippled Children's Section of the State Department of Health to the Crippled Children's Hospital in New Orleans, where Easter Seal therapists gave her intensive therapy and training in the use of the prosthesis.

She was selected as Louisiana's Easter Seal Child for 1956 on the basis of her quiet courage and the happy adaptability and tenacity she displayed in learning to use "Jo-Jo." In announcing her final selection, Walter Godchaux, president of the Louisiana Chapter for Crippled Children and Adults, Inc., said, "Actually, Brenda Jo, for all practical purposes no longer is crippled. She is typical of the physically disabled children who can lead happy and useful lives, if special treatment and training are made available to them. Helping then goes beyond charity; It's only good sense to provide the services they need now — medical, educational, vocational — to enable them to grow up as wholly, or partially, self-supporting adults, rather than as burdens on their families and too often, as recipients of public welfare."

Weeks of pre-campaign effort by thousands of Easter Seal volunteers, co-operating civic, veterans' and women's organizations, will be climaxed by the mailing of more than 400,000 letters of appeal to Louisiana families between March 10 and April 10.

In addition, affiliated parish units will emphasize the importance of child safety practices in homes, at school and in traffic as a means of cutting down on child deaths and injuries by accidents, which statistics show to be a greater threat to childhood than the seven deadliest diseases, including leukemia and polio combined.

Urging support of the drive, Godchaux emphasized that of funds raised during the campaign, 90 per cent remains in Louisiana "where it is invested in the future of our children — and who could ask for a better investment?"

Old Red Bud Can Be Mighty Pretty

We'll fuss about the old red bud — the mess it makes with its beany seed pods — it's short life— but at this time of year we forget all that and enjoy their beauty. Not only are they a picture in the landscape at this time—branches make such beautiful arrangements with little effort on the part of the arranger. Did you ever try a red bud twig or two and Solangeana Japanese magnolia? Mighty pretty. There's a white bud, too. Lots of us call it the white red bud.

More Garden Talk

The Denutada, one of the Japanese magnolias (snow white) is in bloom in several gardens. I hope I'm not too late calling your attention to the one in the Biedenharn garden on the corner of Riverfront and Forsythe. The tree is on the Forsythe side. There was a small one, a mass of blooms from top to bottom in the A. L. Dickerson front garden on Forsythe avenue. There is also one in Mildred's garden with one dear bloom. There's too much shade where this small tree is planted. They'll take semi-shade but not dense. The Nigra is in bloom, too. When it is in bud the bloom is almost black, but when it opens up completely it's almost the same as the solangeana. Many of this latter mentioned small tree thought spring had come when fall continued so long last year. Some of the buds opened then, so there are not as many left to bloom now when regular blooming season has come.

There is also a green Japanese magnolia. I mean the blossoms are green. Can't think of the name at the present. The nice part about these magnolias — some bloom early — some late. My Alexandrine blooms in late March. This is the pinkest one of the family, if you are fond of that color.

While the ground is wet is a good time to pull weeds out of the lawn, especially those with long tap roots. You can feed your pansies every two weeks with liquid fertilizer made by dissolving a cup of 5-10-5 in a gallon of water. You'll get more and larger blooms. You can plant nasturtium seed now. They can stand more cold than most annuals.

Fertilize everything in the yard including the lawn. This latter can wait until April or May if you fed it last fall. 8-8-8 will be good for all feedings. If your soil is poor, mix equal parts of cotton seed meal with the 8-8-8. Newly planted shrubs need no feeding, except some cotton seed meal worked in the soil. This is an organic fertilizer and does not burn. Many people prefer buying the regular azalea and camellia fertilizer from the seed store for azaleas and camellias. Remember no plant can take up the food from the main trunk. The feeder roots are the feeders, and these are up and down each side of the roots going out from the plant. So — that's where you need the fertilizer.

You can now get the hybrid pale pink flowering quince as well as the while. The pink is the loveliest apple blossom shade. The nursery has both.

Food News

How easy it will be to shop for meat during March. You can take your pick of beef, pork, broiler and fryers. You'll find one just about as good a bargain as the other. Holdings of canned tuna in oil remain much higher than a year ago. Price discounts are expected to help move these stocks. Milk and other dairy products move into the plentiful picture in March.

Only fruits on the official March plentiful list are fresh and processed grapefruit and canned cherries. Other plentiful foods are Irish potatoes, rice, lard, peanut butter and pinto beans.

Did you know that fish gives you some very low - cost main dishes? That you should give fresh fish the "sniff" test when buying? A fresh mild odor means best quality. That the flesh of fresh fish is elastic and springs back when touched? That fish will become tough and dry if cooked too long at too high a temperature? That if you "know" and "do" the above things, you are a wise user of fish? Yes, you are!

Prices for fish in general for the next few weeks may run slightly above last years. Stormy weather at sea was rough on fishermen — and on the fish buyer's pocketbook.

Plan to use fish as soon as possible after buying. Until you are ready to cook, the refrigerator is the place to store them. Wrap the fish carefully, or place them in a tightly covered dish.

Announcements

Today we salute the many thousands of young people who belong to 4-H clubs throughout the country. Come to think of it, once a year doesn't seem often enough for us to salute members of 4-H clubs. Because, day by day, these young people and their leaders give their talents and their time and energy to improving community and family living.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Hazel Fusilier from Richland parish will give us "Harmony in Table Service"; Tuesday, Lola Caldwell from Caldwell parish will show you how to construct a simple cutting bed, and root cuttings; Wednesday, Mary Margaret will be here with the winning flower arrangements. You'll see a five minute movie of the arrangements from the state flower show and we'll do some gardening. Thursday is the first lesson in tailoring with Mrs. Ladart and Mildred. Friday we'll have a guest from an evaporated milk company to give us some food preparation.

If you're interested in joining the tailoring class, call 3-2251 for your bulletin and give Mrs. Swanner your name. This will be taught over TV beginning Thursday at 1:00 p.m. on Open House. You can follow each step, make your coat and then we'd like for you to model it in a style show in April. Remember — you're not ready for tailoring until you have had experience in regular sewing. If you live out of the Twin Cities, discuss this with your home demonstration agent. She may be planning to hold a tailoring class this spring or next fall. In that case — you'd want to enroll there. Of course you don't need to enroll to follow us and make a coat, but we'd like to know a few of those who are following us.

See you next Sunday.

The Owl That Turns His Head

Here is an owl that turns his head at your direction.

Color the owl and paste the picture down on cardboard. Now cut out the head and body carefully and save the direction sketches to show you how to put him together.

Fasten the head to the body by putting the head on top of the body and fastening them together with a brass fastener or bent pin through the holes in the neck and beak. Now look at the diagrams. Punch holes in the center of the black parts of each eye, and reinforce these on the back with small gummed cloth rings used for notebook holes. Do this with the slits that are shown on the body of the owl. Then thread strong black thread or string through the slits and holes in the eyes as shown in the diagram.

Then you can hold the owl on your left hand, and by pulling on the ends of the string at the back with either hand you can make the wise old owl turn his head. Ask him a question and make him nod at you.

There are many kinds of owls, and all see poorly in daylight, so that they hunt their food, mostly small animals, at night. They are not nearly as wise as their wide-eyed stare makes them seem, but they are useful because they eat rats and mice.

Monroe Florists Present Flower Show At Center

As you read this the beautiful State Flower Show that we have been planning and working for is now a reality. The show will be open all day today March 4, from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Be sure to go and see it. There will be beautiful flowers and plants from all over the state. The place is Louisiana Tech Memorial Gymnasium, Ruston, La. Every federated garden club member in the Fifth District is working in some capacity to make this show a success. Knowing that all garden club members are frantically busy this week our florists in the Twin Cities complimented the Garden Center with a most beautiful flower show. We all feel that the florist is the flower arranger's best friend. We call on them for so many things, that special container, unusual foliage, and flowers and all the mechanical aids necessary to make a good, stable arrangement. Our first arrangement was a beautiful springtime design in a white compote. Pussywillow was used for height and line, followed by white snapdragons and eucalyptus foliage. Massed in the center of the design were white carnations and three pale yellow single tulips. Pale green grapes spilling over the side of the container completed this lovely springtime arrangement.

The second exhibit was a colorful mass arrangement in a wide green Blenko Glass container. Aspidistra leaves formed a background for brilliant, exotic Bird of Paradise flowers. Ranunculus in a bright orange shade blended perfectly in color. Bronze chrysanthemums were massed in the center with yellow chrysanthemums and ranunculus flaring out at either side.

The third exhibit was a delightful mass arrangement in yellow and white. A large white pottery compote was used for this design. Silvery green eucalyptus foliage delineated the mass outline with white Dutch Iris and small yellow chrysanthemums as the central flowers. Yellow "powder puff" acacia was effectively tucked in, adding a light, airy touch.

Most unusual carnations were used in the next exhibit. They were of the palest blue. A blue-gray pottery container was used for the diagonal mass arrangement of large exhibition Chrysanthemums in yellow and the blue carnations. Palm foliage was used in the background.

Here's an important announcement: The Welcome Garden Club will meet Monday, March 5, at the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe. The time is 2:30 p.m. The guest speaker is Mrs. John T. Daniels, Jr. of El Dorado, Ark.. Her subject is "The Gardner's best friend — Birds" This will be an outstanding program, don't miss it. Mrs. Daniels has beautiful color slides of many birds. Many of these are of birds in their nests.

Bellingrath Gardens advises that the azaleas and camellias are at their best right now and should be for several weeks barring adverse weather. The Bellingrath Home with it's priceless Bessie Morse Belingrath Collection of antiques, Silver, Porcelain and China, has recently been opened to the public and enthusiastically praised by those who have visited it. Personally conducted tours are being offered at a minimum fee.

I'll be looking for you in Ruston today.

Are tulips and daffodils peeking through too early? Don't worry, they know what they're doing and late cold spells will not harm them. If you haven't fed your bulb beds, this is a good time to do it because you can see just where each clump lies.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Beauty Of Fine Kinds Of Holly

Southern gardeners are beginning to appreciate the beauty of fine kinds of holly. In the past ten years, the interest in this whole group of plants has grown by leaps and bounds. Not only have we begun to name and propagate the fine varieties of our own native Ilex opaca, but we are planting more and more Chinese and Japanese hollies. From a cemetery in Atlanta came the popular Burford holly, a leaf variation from the Chinese kind. Greenbrier Nurseries in Norfolk, Va. introduced the Croonenburg holly, a variety of our common holly. The Holly Society has done a great deal to disseminate information on this whole group of plants and to stimulate interest in them.

At this time of the year, hollies will begin to shed some of their old leaves. The ones you may have set out during the fall or winter will look especially bad because they are making an adjustment to their new situation and making new roots. More leaves may drop off these newly set plants than from others. Some kinds may even drop almost all of their foliage just before and just as they put out new leaves. You will notice that all broadleaf trees and shrubs shed some of their leaves in the fall and again in the spring.

Now that we are getting together more fine hollies in our yards and gardens, we are becoming more conscious of two holly pests: holly leaf miner and holly leaf blotch. Neither of these is very serious, but a heavy infestation of either one can disfigure plants considerably.

Holly leaf blotch shows up as purplish or blackish spots all over the leaves. This is nothing new at all. The woods have been full of it in some seasons, and you might have noticed it on your Christmas holly sometimes. Not much seems to be known about holly leaf spot, and nobody does much about it because it appears only in certain years. Of course, it may show up in one neighborhood one year and in another the next. It does seem to be most prevalent in places where hollies are completely exposed to blazing sun.

Holly leaf miner is of two kinds: European and American. Like the leaf spot, it comes and goes. It is caused by little flies which hatch out of the tunnels in the old leaves just at the time in the spring when the new leaves are coming out and there are two or three tender ones at the tips of the twigs. The little black flies puncture the tender new foliage and lay eggs in it which soon hatch into larvae that begin to tunnel their way between the upper and lower surfaces. A spraying with DDT at this time will kill the flies as they emerge. Because DDT is known to destroy the enemies of red spider mites, we are advised to include Aramite or Ovotron in the spray to kill the mites.

Congratulations Ouachita 4 H'ers

This is National 4-H Week and agent wishes to congratulate the 1818 4-H Club members in the twenty-five organized 4-H Clubs of Ouachita Parish for their fine organization and achievements. The twenty-three Home Demonstration women who are assisting with your program also congratulate you.

4-H Club work is nationally recognized as one of the finest youth organizations. It has proven its value to the rural and urban 4-H boys and girls of the nation. The motto of this year's celebration is, "Improving family and community living" and these youngsters are certainly doing all they can to reach this worthy goal.

Falcon O. Baker in the true story in "Five Kids and A Farm" (Reader's Digest) shows the value of 4-H in training for boys and girls for family and community living. It develops leadership, citizenship, and in ability assuming the responsibilities of life. These Ouachita 4-H members are among the best in achievement but they will not try living on their past records, but will be found striving to keep their motto, "To make the best better." Congratulations to each of you. Let's never stop until each and every eligible girl and boy is in this fine organization.

State Dress Contest

Home Demonstration Club women will have the opportunity of participating in a statewide dress revue and contest at L. S. U. during Farm and Home Week. A sewing machine will be awarded to the state winner. The aim of this contest is to foster a movement for better dress by giving attention to interest in appropriate dress, color combinations, choice of lines, workmanship, combinations of accessories and good grooming.

Another aim is to encourage women to make their own clothing in such a way that it will be in good taste, appropriate, healthful and economical in cost and upkeep.

Ouachita Parish club members will participate because clothing construction has been a major project for several years. A parish contest will be held in June and first, second, and third place winners will be selected by competent judges.

Instructions for making contest garments shall be taken from the bulletin, "Sewing" and the pattern guide given with the purchased pattern used. The type of garment will be a casual dress. The agent will give specific information on selection of pattern, materials and construction at each Home Demonstration Club meeting in March and April. One of the merchants has asked to give a certificate of $10 in merchandise as a prize. Are there other merchants who would like to participate—If so call the agent at 3-2251.

March is the time for general freshening up: painting, making changes and in some homes adding a new piece of equipment. Regardless, which we are doing, we want to get our money's worth when improving our home. It's up to us to spend wisely and keep our standards high. Sometimes we fail to do this when we buy bargains. If its a piece of equipment, be sure it tells the manufacturer. If the manufacturer does not think enough of his product to put his name on it, so you can call on him for service, its definitely not a bargain. Avoid difficulties, even in the case of advertised goods by asking the question: Is the product a standard one, or is it likely to be discontinued as a passing fad. A product which has been handled for a period of years by a reliable dealer is unlikely to be offered on the bargain counter. It would be one you would more likely get satisfactory service. It will be one you can get serviced when need arises.

There are many new quality paints. Check with your dealer on those which will not "peel-off." I saw some last week on a porch floor that wasn't this type and the money spent gave little satisfaction in return. So be wise with your buys — be an informed buyer.

Knowing that all garden club members are frantically busy this week our florists in the Twin Cities complimented the Garden Center with a most beautiful flower show. We all feel that the florist is the flower arranger's best friend. We call on them for so many things, that special container, unusual foliage, and flowers and all the mechanical aids necessary to make a good, stable arrangement. Our first arrangement was a beautiful springtime design in a white compote. Pussywillow was used for height and line, followed by white snapdragons and eucalyptus foliage. Massed in the center of the design were white carnations and three pale yellow single tulips. Pale green grapes spilling over the side of the container completed this lovely springtime arrangement.

The second exhibit was a colorful mass arrangement in a wide green Blenko Glass container. Aspidistra leaves formed a background for brilliant, exotic Bird of Paradise flowers. Ranunculus in a bright orange shade blended perfectly in color. Bronze chrysanthemums were massed in the center with yellow chrysanthemums and ranunculus flaring out at either side.

The third exhibit was a delightful mass arrangement in yellow and white. A large white pottery compote was used for this design. Silvery green eucalyptus foliage delineated the mass outline with white Dutch Iris and small yellow chrysanthemums as the central flowers. Yellow "powder puff" acacia was effectively tucked in, adding a light, airy touch.

Most unusual carnations were used in the next exhibit. They were of the palest blue. A blue-gray pottery container was used for the diagonal mass arrangement of large exhibition Chrysanthemums in yellow and the blue carnations. Palm foliage was used in the background.

Here's an important announcement: The Welcome Garden Club will meet Monday, March 5, at the Fellowship Hall of the First Presbyterian Church in Monroe. The time is 2:30 p.m. The guest speaker is Mrs. John T. Daniels, Jr. of El Dorado, Ark.. Her subject is "The Gardner's best friend — Birds" This will be an outstanding program, don't miss it. Mrs. Daniels has beautiful color slides of many birds. Many of these are of birds in their nests.

Bellingrath Gardens advises that the azaleas and camellias are at their best right now and should be for several weeks barring adverse weather. The Bellingrath Home with it's priceless Bessie Morse Belingrath Collection of antiques, Silver, Porcelain and China, has recently been opened to the public and enthusiastically praised by those who have visited it. Personally conducted tours are being offered at a minimum fee.

I'll be looking for you in Ruston today.

Are tulips and daffodils peeking through too early? Don't worry, they know what they're doing and late cold spells will not harm them. If you haven't fed your bulb beds, this is a good time to do it because you can see just where each clump lies.

SOUTHERN GARDENER—

By William Lanier Hunt

Beauty Of Fine Kinds Of Holly

Southern gardeners are beginning to appreciate the beauty of fine kinds of holly. In the past ten years, the interest in this whole group of plants has grown by leaps and bounds. Not only have we begun to name and propagate the fine varieties of our own native Ilex opaca, but we are planting more and more Chinese and Japanese hollies. From a cemetery in Atlanta came the popular Burford holly, a leaf variation from the Chinese kind. Greenbrier Nurseries in Norfolk, Va. introduced the Croonenburg holly, a variety of our common holly. The Holly Society has done a great deal to disseminate information on this whole group of plants and to stimulate interest in them.

At this time of the year, hollies will begin to shed some of their old leaves. The ones you may have set out during the fall or winter will look especially bad because they are making an adjustment to their new situation and making new roots. More leaves may drop off these newly set plants than from others. Some kinds may even drop almost all of their foliage just before and just as they put out new leaves. You will notice that all broadleaf trees and shrubs shed some of their leaves in the fall and again in the spring.

Now that we are getting together more fine hollies in our yards and gardens, we are becoming more conscious of two holly pests: holly leaf miner and holly leaf blotch. Neither of these is very serious, but a heavy infestation of either one can disfigure plants considerably.

Holly leaf blotch shows up as purplish or blackish spots all over the leaves. This is nothing new at all. The woods have been full of it in some seasons, and you might have noticed it on your Christmas holly sometimes. Not much seems to be known about holly leaf spot, and nobody does much about it because it appears only in certain years. Of course, it may show up in one neighborhood one year and in another the next. It does seem to be most prevalent in places where hollies are completely exposed to blazing sun.

Holly leaf miner is of two kinds: European and American. Like the leaf spot, it comes and goes. It is caused by little flies which hatch out of the tunnels in the old leaves just at the time in the spring when the new leaves are coming out and there are two or three tender ones at the tips of the twigs. The little black flies puncture the tender new foliage and lay eggs in it which soon hatch into larvae that begin to tunnel their way between the upper and lower surfaces. A spraying with DDT at this time will kill the flies as they emerge. Because DDT is known to destroy the enemies of red spider mites, we are advised to include Aramite or Ovotron in the spray to kill the mites.

ROAMIN' IN THE RURAL

Congratulations Ouachita 4 H'ers

This is National 4-H Week and agent wishes to congratulate the 1818 4-H Club members in the twenty-five organized 4-H Clubs of Ouachita Parish for their fine organization and achievements. The twenty-three Home Demonstration women who are assisting with your program also congratulate you.

4-H Club work is nationally recognized as one of the finest youth organizations. It has proven its value to the rural and urban 4-H boys and girls of the nation. The motto of this year's celebration is, "Improving family and community living" and these youngsters are certainly doing all they can to reach this worthy goal.

Falcon O. Baker in the true story in "Five Kids and A Farm" (Reader's Digest) shows the value of 4-H in training for boys and girls for family and community living. It develops leadership, citizenship, and in ability assuming the responsibilities of life. These Ouachita 4-H members are among the best in achievement but they will not try living on their past records, but will be found striving to keep their motto, "To make the best better." Congratulations to each of you. Let's never stop until each and every eligible girl and boy is in this fine organization.

State Dress Contest

Home Demonstration Club women will have the opportunity of participating in a statewide dress revue and contest at L. S. U. during Farm and Home Week. A sewing machine will be awarded to the state winner. The aim of this contest is to foster a movement for better dress by giving attention to interest in appropriate dress, color combinations, choice of lines, workmanship, combinations of accessories and good grooming.

Another aim is to encourage women to make their own clothing in such a way that it will be in good taste, appropriate, healthful and economical in cost and upkeep.

Ouachita Parish club members will participate because clothing construction has been a major project for several years. A parish contest will be held in June and first, second, and third place winners will be selected by competent judges.

Instructions for making contest garments shall be taken from the bulletin, "Sewing" and the pattern guide given with the purchased pattern used. The type of garment will be a casual dress. The agent will give specific information on selection of pattern, materials and construction at each Home Demonstration Club meeting in March and April. One of the merchants has asked to give a certificate of $10 in merchandise as a prize. Are there other merchants who would like to participate—if so call the agent at 3-2251.

March is the time for general freshening up; painting, making changes and in some homes adding a new piece of equipment. Regardless, which we are doing, we want to get our money's worth when improving our home. It's up to us to spend wisely and keep our standards high. Sometimes we fail to do this when we buy bargains. If its a piece of equipment, be sure it tells the manufacturer. If the manufacturer does not think enough of his product to put his name on it, so you can call on him for service, its definitely not a bargain. Avoid difficulties, even in the case of advertised goods by asking the question: Is the product a standard one, or is it likely to be discontinued as a passing fad. A product which has been handled for a period of years by a reliable dealer is unlikely to be offered on the bargain counter. It would be one you would more likely get satisfactory service. It will be one you can get serviced when need arises.

There are many new quality paints. Check with your dealer on those which will not "peel-off." I saw some last week on a porch floor that wasn't this type and the money spent gave little satisfaction in return. So be wise with your buys — be an informed buyer.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Even though you may look more like you are going coast-me than to bed, put on a pair of cotton gloves once a week after massaging cream into the hands.

Suggestions To Keep Your Hands Lovely

Do you realize that ladies of the 18th century assiduously avoided opening doors for themselves so that they would be thought of as ladies? Also they never carried heavy packages or articles because they were imbued with the idea that this would deform their hands.

There were only a few independent souls who defied tradition by opening doors for themselves and carrying heavy articles who thereby became famous.

Today if all women waited for doors to be opened for them many would have to look through the keyhole to find out what was going on in the next room.

Used In Rough Ways

Women today use their hands in many fairly rough ways. Thousands of them do their own housework and laundry, and while modern conveniences have made this load much lighter, still many of these duties are hard on the hands.

Then, too, modern women garden and play golf and tennis and help paint the house and trim the hedges. Their hands require special consideration if they are to remain lovely. Here are a few suggestions.

1 Do not wash the hands any more than necessary, and when you do be sure to use a hand lotion afterwards. Keep small bottles of hand lotion in strategic places so that you will not fail to use it. When you must have your hands in water, with strong soap or detergents, wear rubber gloves.

2 Even though you may look more like you are going coasting than to bed, put on a pair of cotton gloves once a week after massaging cream into the hands.

3 When gardening or doing any sort of rough work wear gloves for protection. As you know you can buy those planned especially for gardening or golf.

4 Many women write to say that they are bothered by hands which perspire and are continually damp. Often this comes from nervousness. Adopt a health routine and build up your general condition.

This is an old recipe. It will be helpful to your perspiring hands: Ten drams of tannic acid, one ounce of glycerine, two ounces of rose hot. Dilute with distilled water.

5 Do not cut the nail cuticle unless you have to. Try it usually after when the cuticle is dry, coat the cuticle each night with cuticle oil and then gently push the cuticle back from the nail. [illegible] stick tipped with cotton and dipped in oil.

Hollywood

By Fidler

Star Of 'Marty'

HOLLYWOOD, March 3 — I was ushered into the house by a big man with a bigger smile. His appearance was that of any neatly-dressed business man — except for the intensity of his dark brown eyes. His heavy features are homely in a friendly, good-natured way. This is Ernest Borgnine, contender for the Academy Award — the star of "Marty".

In a wood-paneled den, perhaps not unlike your own, Ernest, his wife Rhoda and I talked about the motion picture business and most particularly, their part in it. Let me fill you in on their background.

Rhoda is a pleasant-faced, intelligent girl. A woman of ample, house wifely proportions — not glamorous and decidely not "Hollywood". She may live here for the rest of her life — her husband may become one of the most important pillars of the industry — but Rhoda will probably never change. Neither, I think, will Borgnine.

They are plain people, with a strong instinct for unpretentious living, simple pleasures, love of their home-life. They have one little girl named Nancy, and hope to have more. Ernest can afford all the trills and fancies of the usual Hollywood movie-star's home. Instead they bought a modest house in an inconspicuous section of San Fernando Valley. It is on an out-of-the-way street — not a fashionable address by any means. This, you'll agree, is as unlike a Hollywood personality as any you have ever heard about. But that's the way they want it.

Who are their close friends? Well, their neighbors. Two couples to be exact, whom they've known for a long time. One of the men is a wardrobe employee in a movie studio, the other is in the insurance business. Not swank. Not rich. Just plain, every day people.

The three couples baby-sit for each other. They celebrate their wedding and birthday anniversaries, go to the movies, visit back and forth. They watch television, eat pretzels and drink beer together. The girls have coffee and swap recipes in the afternoons, while the kids are out playing. When Ernie comes home at night, he mows the lawn and talks with the men about the best kind of seeds to plant in his garden.

"Ernie is not the type of man to do a lot of running around," she told me. "He loves to stay home. But now that he's a big success I suppose we'll have to change our ways a little".

Borgnine interrupted with "Nothing of the sort! There's no law that says we've got to do anything we don't want to do!"

"But Ernie," said Rhoda patiently, "this is for your business. You've got to do what's right for the business, don't you?"

The actor squirmed a little in his comfortable armchair. "I suppose so," he said. "But I'd rather keep everything just the way it is now."

"So would I," replied his wife. "But sometimes you've got to change, whether you like it or not!"

Already they are beginning to feel the pull of public opinion. Demands are being made on their time, their privacy is being invaded, but they are simple unassuming people they don't mind it—not yet.

How long will the Borgnines be permitted to stay as they are? Rhoda realizes, somewhat ruefully, that she is not the "doll" Hollywood girls are expected to be. Until now it hasn't mattered. But now it does, because she realizes that the public expects her to be something special.

As a result of this thinking, Rhoda Borgnine is preparing to glamorize herself. She is going to take off weight, get a new wardrobe, wear clothes that are chic instead of sensibly serviceable. She's getting a full-time maid, because she realizes that with the busy life ahead of them, she can't go on doing her own housework and cooking.

"When I appear in public with Ernie," she said, "I want to look stylish — because that's what people expect of a star's wife."

In discussing his rapid climb to success, Borgnine told me, "Show business never was a lark to us. We don't go for all the glamour. To us it's just a good way to earn a living."

He never refers to his success or his career in the first personal singular. His wife, he says, is as much a part of it, as he is himself.

Star Of 'Marty'

HOLLYWOOD, March 3 — I was ushered into the house by a big man with a bigger smile. His appearance was that of any neatly-dressed business man — except for the intensity of his dark brown eyes. His heavy features are homely in a friendly, good-natured way. This is Ernest Borgnine, contender for the Academy Award — the star of "Marty".

In a wood-paneled den, perhaps not unlike your own, Ernest, his wife Rhoda and I, talked about the motion picture business and most particularly, their part in it. Let me fill you in on their background.

Rhoda is a pleasant-faced, intelligent girl. A woman of ample, house wifely proportions — not glamorous and decidely not "Hollywood". She may live here for the rest of her life — her husband may become one of the most important pillars of the industry — but Rhoda will probably never change. Neither, I think, will Borgnine.

They are plain people, with a strong instinct for unpretentious living, simple pleasures, love of their home-life. They have one little girl named Nancy, and hope to have more. Ernest can afford all the trills and fancies of the usual Hollywood movie-star's home. Instead they bought a modest house in an inconspicuous section of San Fernando Valley. It is on an out-of-the-way street — not a fashionable address by any means. This, you'll agree, is as unlike a Hollywood personality as any you have ever heard about. But that's the way they want it.

Who are their close friends? Well, their neighbors. Two couples to be exact, whom they've known for a long time. One of the men is a wardrobe employee in a movie studio, the other is in the insurance business. Not swank. Not rich. Just plain, every day people.

The three couples baby-sit for each other. They celebrate their wedding and birthday anniversaries, go to the movies, visit back and forth. They watch television, eat pretzels and drink beer together. The girls have coffee and swap recipes in the afternoons, while the kids are out playing. When Ernie comes home at night, he mows the lawn and talks with the men about the best kind of seeds to plant in his garden.

They are very happy this way, but Rhoda, looking ahead, is just a little worried.

"Ernie is not the type of man to do a lot of running around," she told me. "He loves to stay home. But now that he's a big success I suppose we'll have to change our ways a little".

Borgnine interrupted with "Nothing of the sort! There's no law that says we've got to do anything we don't want to do!"

"But Ernie," said Rhoda patiently, "this is for your business. You've got to do what's right for the business, don't you?"

The actor squirmed a little in his comfortable armchair. "I suppose so," he said. "But I'd rather keep everything just the way it is now."

"So would I," replied his wife. "But sometimes you've got to change, whether you like it or not!"

Already they are beginning to feel the pull of public opinion. Demands are being made on their time, their privacy is being invaded, but they are simple unassuming people they don't mind it—not yet.

How long will the Borgnines be permitted to stay as they are? Rhoda realizes, somewhat ruefully, that she is not the "doll" Hollywood girls are expected to be. Until now it hasn't mattered. But now it does, because she realizes that the public expects her to be something special.

As a result of this thinking, Rhoda Borgnine is preparing to glamorize herself. She is going to take off weight, get a new wardrobe, wear clothes that are chic instead of sensibly serviceable. She's getting a full-time maid, because she realizes that with the busy life ahead of them, she can't go on doing her own housework and cooking.

"When I appear in public with Ernie," she said, "I want to look stylish — because that's what people expect of a star's wife."

"Maybe you're right, honey," he said. "But I don't want to lose the sweet, wholesome girl I married."

Rhoda grinned at him, nervously and quipped, "Maybe for Hollywood. I'm a little too wholesome!"

In discussing his rapid climb to success, Borgnine told me, "Show business never was a lark to us. We don't go for all the glamour. To us it's just a good way to earn a living."

He never refers to his success or his career in the first personal singular. His wife, he says, is as much a part of it, as he is himself.

The bidding:
South, 4 spades; West, Double; North, Pass; East, Pass; South, Pass.

Opening lead: King of clubs.

South's daring preemptive bid payed handsome dividends. Such a call, when vulnerable, should normally be based upon a hand that will produce eight tricks. South could count only seven, but chose to adopt an optimistic attitude toward the fourth diamond.

While West's double is essentially for penalty, if partner has some unusual offensive values, he need not be bound to play for a penalty but can elect to go on with the bidding. East properly chose to pass.

West opened the king of clubs and East signalled violently with the ten. Apparently assured of an entry to partner's hand, West tried for a ruff by shifting to the eight of diamonds which was taken in dummy with the king. Declarer, following his normal bent, would hasten to extract trumps, concede another club, and claim four spades doubled. But South, convinced that West's shift had been to a singleton, took measures to avoid the ruff.

If an attempt were made to drive out the ace of trumps at this point, West would win, put partner in with a club, and obtain the needed ruff. And efforts must, therefore be made to disrupt the communications between the two hands before attacking trumps. Disposal of declarer's remaining club was the only way to accomplish this purpose. Since it was a moral certainty that West held the ace of hearts, declarer led the king from dummy and upon it discarded his last club. West was now saddled with the lead. Hoping against hope, he led a low club, but declarer ruffed and then proceeded with the extracting of trumps, holding his losers to three tricks.

A diamond opening would have resulted in the defeat of the contract, but in the circumstances, I would not undertake to criticize West choice of leads.

CAMERA NEWS

FACING THE FUTURE—Picture was shot at 4 p.m. as young couple were walking over the top of levee on the east side of the Ouachita river. A 4 by 5 Graphic was used with a F-8 aperture setting and a 100 shutter speed. A K-2 filter was used to bring out cloud effect.

Available Light

Available light in photography is comparatively a new term for an old technique—as old as photography itself. In recent usage it implied shooting pictures under adverse conditions with fast lenses on miniature cameras by professional experimenters.

Then, with the introduction of fast films, souped-up developers and new technical advances in equipment, the paths of available light photography spread out and led into every phase of photo endeavor, each guided by its own specialists. They felt their way and mapped the route.

Now the paths have broadened into a highway beckoning all camera fans. A guide book has been newly published in which experts call the turns, point out the speed limits and road blocks, help overcome unusual developments and show the way to a real photo finish.

Jacquelyn Judge, Editor of Modern Photography, leads off with a broad survey of available light in today's photography. It's the result she believes, of four things: a reaction against the multiple flash and complicated lighting setups of the 30s; the demands of World War II for quicker and simpler photography; new technical advancements and the impact of the work of certain photographic personalities who pioneered in the field.

Fritz Henle, who has been around the world on photo assignments, tells of his global experiences shooting under every possible condition of light. "Light," he says, "is like an instrument. How well you play it depends on your training and your imagination." He tries to exploit light—or the lack of it—to get mood into his pictures.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Even though you may look more like you are going coasting than to bed, put on a pair of cotton gloves once a week after massaging cream into the hands.

Suggestions To Keep Your Hands Lovely

Do you realize that ladies of the 18th century assiduously avoided opening doors for themselves so that they would be thought of as ladies? Also, they never carried heavy packages or articles because they were imbued with the idea that this would deform their hands.

There were only a few independent souls who defied tradition by opening doors for themselves and carrying heavy articles who thereby became famous.

Today if all women waited for doors to be opened for them many would have to look through the keyhole to find out what was going on in the next room.

Used In Rough Ways

Women today use their hands in many fairly rough ways. Thousands of them do their own housework and laundry, and while modern conveniences have made this load much lighter, still many of these duties are hard on the hands.

Then, too, modern women garden and play golf and tennis and help paint the house and trim the hedges. Their hands require special consideration if they are to remain lovely. Here are a few suggestions.

1. Do not wash the hands any more than necessary, and when you do, be sure to use a hand lotion afterwards. Keep small bottles of hand lotion in strategic places so that you will not fail to use it. When you must have your hands in water, with strong soap or detergents, wear rubber gloves.

2. Even though you may look more like you are going coasting than to bed, put on a pair of cotton gloves once a week after massaging cream into the hands.

3. When gardening or doing any sort of rough work wear gloves for protection. As you know you can buy those planned especially for gardening or golf.

4. Many women write to say that they are bothered by hands which perspire and are continually damp. Often this comes from nervousness. Adopt a health routine and build up your general condition.

This is an old recipe. It will be helpful to your perspiring hands; two drams of tannic acid, one ounce of glycerine, two ounces of alcohol. Dilute with distilled water.

5. Do not cut the nail cuticle unless you have to. This is usually necessary when the cuticle is dry. Soak the cuticle each night with cuticle oil and then gently push the cuticle back from the nail. Use an orange stick tipped with cotton and dipped in oil.

6. Lots of women hate to wear gloves, but do wear them even when you go out for a short time in the brisk weather.

Star Of 'Marty'

HOLLYWOOD, March 3 — I was ushered into the house by a big man with a bigger smile. His appearance was that of any neatly-dressed business man — except for the intensity of his dark brown eyes. His heavy features are homely in a friendly, good-natured way. This is Ernest Borgnine, contender for the Academy Award — the star of "Marty".

She may live here for the rest of her life — her husband may become one of the most important pillars of the industry — but Rhoda will probably never change. Neither, I think, will Borgnine.

They are plain people, with a strong instinct for unpretentious living, simple pleasures, love of their home-life. They have one little girl named Nancy, and hope to have more. Ernest can afford all the frills and fancies of the usual Hollywood movie-star's home. Instead they bought a modest house in an inconspicuous section of San Fernando Valley. It is on an out-of-the-way street — not a fashionable address by any means. This, you'll agree, is as unlike a Hollywood personality as any you have ever heard about. But that's the way they want it.

Who are their close friends? Well, their neighbors. Two couples to be exact, whom they've known for a long time. One of the men is a wardrobe employee in a movie studio; the other is in the insurance business. Not swank. Not rich. Just plain, every day people.

The three couples baby-sit for each other. They celebrate their wedding and birthday anniversaries, go to the movies, visit back and forth. They watch television, eat pretzels and drink beer together. The girls have coffee and swap recipes in the afternoons, while the kids are out playing. When Ernie comes home at night, he mows the lawn and talks with the men about the best kind of seeds to plant in his garden.

They are very happy this way, but Rhoda, looking ahead, is just a little worried.

"Ernie is not the type of man to do a lot of running around," she told me. "He loves to stay home. But now that he's a big success — I suppose we'll have to change our ways a little".

Borgnine interrupted with: "Nothing of the sort! There's no law that says we've got to do anything we don't want to do!"

"But Ernie," said Rhoda patiently, "this is for your business. You've got to do what's right for the business, don't you?"

The actor squirmed a little in his comfortable armchair. "I suppose so," he said. "But I'd rather keep everything just the way it is now."

"So would I," replied his wife. 'But sometimes you've got to change, whether you like it or not!"

Already they are beginning to feel the pull of public opinion. Demands are being made on their time; their privacy is being invaded, but they are simple unassuming people they don't mind it—not yet.

How long will the Borgnines be permitted to stay as they are? Rhoda realizes, somewhat ruefully, that she is not the "doll" Hollywood girls are expected to be. Until now, it hasn't mattered. But now it does, because she realizes that the public expects her to be something special.

As a result of this thinking, Rhoda Borgnine is preparing to glamorize herself. She is going to take off weight, get a new wardrobe, wear clothes that are chic instead of sensibly serviceable. She's getting a full-time maid, because she realizes that with the busy life ahead of them, she can't go on doing her own housework and cooking.

"When I appear in public with Ernie," she said, "I want to look stylish — because that's what people expect of a star's wife."

"Maybe you're right, honey," he said. "But I don't want to lose the sweet, wholesome girl I married."

Rhoda grinned at him, nervously and quipped, "Maybe for Hollywood. I'm a little too wholesome!"

In discussing his rapid climb to success, Borgnine told me, "Show business never was a lark to us. We don't go for all the glamour. To us, it's just a good way to earn a living."

He never refers to his success or his career in the first personal singular. His wife, he says, is as much a part of it, as he is himself.

The bidding:
South, Pass.

A neat entry destroying play was resorted to by declarer to bring in today's double contract.

South's daring preemptive bid payed handsome dividends. Such a call, when vulnerable, should normally be based upon a hand that will produce eight tricks. South could count only seven, but chose to adopt an optimistic attitude toward the fourth diamond.

While West's double is essentially for penalty, if partner has some unusual offensive values, he need not be bound to play for a penalty but can elect to go on with the bidding. East properly chose to pass.

West opened the king of clubs and East signalled violently with the ten. Apparently assured of an entry to partner's hand, West tried for a ruff by shifting to the eight of diamonds which was taken in dummy with the king. Declarer, following his normal bent, would hasten to extract trumps, concede another club, and claim four spades doubled. But South, convinced that West's shift had been to a singleton, took measures to avoid the ruff.

If an attempt were made to drive out the ace of trumps at this point, West would win, put partner in with a club, and obtain the needed ruff. And efforts must, therefore be made to disrupt the communications between the two hands before attacking trumps. Disposal of declarer's remaining club was the only way to accomplish this purpose. Since it was a moral certainty that West held the ace of hearts, declarer led the king from dummy and upon it discarded his last club. West was now saddled with the lead. Hoping against hope, he led a low club, but declarer ruffed and then proceeded with the extracting of trumps, holding his losers to three tricks.

A diamond opening would have resulted in the defeat of the contract, but in the circumstances, I would not undertake to criticize West choice of leads.

CAMERA NEWS

FACING THE FUTURE—Picture was shot at 4 p.m. as young couple were walking over the top of levee on the east side of the Ouachita river. A 4 by 5 Graphic was used with a F-8 aperture setting and a 100 shutter speed. A K-2 filter was used to bring out cloud effect.

Available Light

Available light in photography is comparatively a new term for an old technique—as old as photography itself. In recent usage it implied shooting pictures under adverse conditions with fast lenses on miniature cameras by professional experimenters.

Then, with the introduction of fast films, souped-up developers and new technical advances in equipment, the paths of available light photography spread out and led into every phase of photo endeavor, each guided by its own specialists. They felt their way and mapped the route.

Now the paths have broadened into a highway beckoning all camera fans. A guide book has been newly published in which experts call the turns, point out the speed limits and road blocks, help overcome unusual developments and show the way to a real photo finish.

Jacquelyn Judge, Editor of Modern Photography, leads off with a broad survey of available light in today's photography. It's the result she believes, of four things: a reaction against the multiple flash and complicated lighting setups of the 30s; the demands of World War II for quicker and simpler photography; new technical advancements and the impact of the work of certain photographic personalities who pioneered in the field.

Fritz Henle, who has been around the world on photo assignments, tells of his global experiences shooting under every possible condition of light. "Light," he says, "is like an instrument. How well you play it depends on your training and your imagination." He tries to exploit light—or the lack of it—to get mood into his pictures.

Muriel Pavlow, as the pretty nurse, will be remembered for her work opposite Alec Guinness in "Malta Story." Donald Sinden, who starred in "The Cruel Sea," marks his fifth leading role in the current Technicolor film. Kenneth More and Kay Kendall, the delightful stars of "Genevieve," score another hit as Isobel and Grimsdyke. Donald Houston, young Welsh actor who scored a hit with Jean Simmons in "Blue Lagoon" and with Alec Guinness in "A Run for your Money," portrays "Taffy" while formidably bearded James Robertson Justice, who appeared in a stellar role in Walt Disney's "Sword and the Rose," and "Rob Roy" adds his brilliance to a bright and shinning cast of the Technicolor film.

Combining talents and roles, the cast line-up proves that science may be wonderful, but the process of turning irrepressible medical students into skilled doctors is in the nature of a miracle.

'East Of Eden,' 'Battle Cry' To Open At Delta

Warner Bros. prizewinning double feature "East of Eden" and "Battle Cry" is being shown to the nationwide movie audience who picked the young male stars of both as the top actors of the year. The award-winning duo is opening at the Delta theatre.

James Dean, whose acting debut in Elia Kazan's production of John Steinbeck's "East of Eden" was the movie sensation of the year, was picked as the "best actor of the year" in the first nation-wide poll of motion picture audiences. More than 15,000,000 votes were cast in the poll, and Dean, whose tragic death this year in an automobile accident ended a career that blazed like a skyrocket, was picked as the overwhelming favorite among male actors.

Tab Hunter, young blond athlete who scored his biggest triumph in Warner Bros.' "Battle Cry," was picked in the same poll as "the most promising male personality" of the year. Audiences were deeply moved by his portrayal of the young marine who falls in love during the war. Hunter stood out in "Battle Cry" among a cast of well-known actors and actresses, including Van Heflin, Aldo Ray, Mona Freeman, Nancy Olson, James Whitmore, Raymond Massey, Dorothy Malone and Anne Francis. Screenplay was by Leon Uris, based on his own novel, and it was directed by Raoul Walsh.

Dean, who also scored heavily later in "Rebel Without a Cause," was starred in "East of Eden" with Julie Harris and Raymond Massey. Screenplay was by Paul Osborn and Elia Kazan directed.

MUSIC

The forthcoming spring season of the New York City Opera Company will feature "The School for Wives," third opera of the Swiss composer, Rolf Liebermann, which was commissioned by the Louisville Symphony and was given its world premiere in Louisville last December.

It is a one-act opera and will be coupled in a double bill with Mozart's one-act opera which satirizes opera, "The Impresario." The Liebermann piece will be directed by Moritz Bomhard, director of the Kentucky Opera Association, who was both director and conductor for its first performances.

The new season will be the last for Joseph Rosenstock who has resigned as general manager and is to be succeeded by Erich Leinsdorf. The season will open March 28 and run through April 15. Oddly enough, the company has never performed Verdi's "Il Trovatore," during the 12 years it's been in existence. "Il Trovatore" is one of 12 operas scheduled for the new season.

Speaking of one - act operas, two of American origin were staged recently by the opera workshop of the New York College of Music as part of a festival of American music. One was "Tom Sawyer" by Jonathan Elkus of San Francisco; the other, "Captain Lovelace" by John Duke, professor of music at Smith College.

Eleanor Steber has taken a leave of absence from the Metropolitan Opera for the 1956-1957 season to make a four-month world tour beginning January, 1957. It will be under the auspices of the International Exchange Program and will begin in Istanbul and end in Tokyo or Korea.

Vocational Day Scheduled At Northwestern

NATCHITOCHES, March 3 (Special) — "Vocational Opportunities" day has been set at Northwestern State College for Friday, April 6, college officials announced here this week.

High school seniors from 29 parishes in north and central Louisiana — from the Mississippi to the Sabine rivers — will be invited to participate in the day - long event. Invitations will be mailed this week.

Chairman of the committee on high school relations, the group arranging for the influx of the hundreds of students expected here that day, is Dr. Leo T. Allbritten, dean of the Northwestern graduate school.

A tentative program for NSC's visitors on the big day has been scheduled. It will begin with registration in the foyer of the Fine Arts auditorium, to be followed by a general assembly. Next will come special meetings according to subject matter interest. Each student will be asked to attend one of these conclaves.

A campus tour, followed by lunch in the college dining hall, will be forthcoming, to be followed by vocational interest gatherings at various spots throughout the campus. A closing assembly is scheduled for the afternoon.

Twelve sub - committees have been appointed to handle details and arrangements for the special event, first of its kind to be held here in three years.

Suspence, Action Found In 'The Body Snatchers'

The story concerns the invasion of a California town by plant-life from another planet. This fall-out of alien spores takes over a person's body, with the person remaining the same in looks and behaviour except that he or she no longer has a soul or emotion. It is with stark horror, and nail-biting thrills that McCarthy and Miss Wynter learn slowly about this invisible invasion, and the story sets forth their valiant struggle to prevent themselves from also becoming "pods."

Actually, although it combines elements of horror, suspense, and science fiction, the film is best labeled a "science fact" story. It could happen or be happening today. This is how Producer Wanger approached his production. He shot it with reality, using actual sets and towns, and the thrills in the film are abetted by this almost documentary production design.

'East Of Eden,' 'Battle Cry' To Open At Delta

Warner Bros. prizewinning double feature "East of Eden" and "Battle Cry" is being shown to the nationwide movie audience who picked the young male stars of both as the top actors of the year. The award-winning duo is opening at the Delta theatre.

James Dean, whose acting debut in Elia Kazan's production of John Steinbeck's "East of Eden" was the movie sensation of the year, was picked as the "best actor of the year" in the first nation-wide poll of motion picture audiences. More than 15,000,000 votes were cast in the poll, and Dean, whose tragic death this year in an automobile accident ended a career that blazed like a skyrocket, was picked as the overwhelming favorite among male actors.

Tab Hunter, young blond athlete who scored his biggest triumph in Warner Bros.' "Battle Cry," was picked in the same poll as "the most promising male personality" of the year. Audiences were deeply moved by his portrayal of the young marine who falls in love during the war. Hunter stood out in "Battle Cry" among a cast of well-known actors and actresses, including Van Heflin, Aldo Ray, Mona Freeman, Nancy Olson, James Whitmore, Raymond Massey, Dorothy Malone and Anne Francis. Screenplay was by Leon Uris, based on his own novel, and it was directed by Raoul Walsh.

Dean, who also scored heavily later in 'Rebel Without a Cause," was starred in "East of Eden" with Julie Harris and Raymond Massey. Screenplay was by Paul Osborn and Elia Kazan directed.

MUSIC

The forthcoming spring season of the New York City Opera Company will feature "The School for Wives," third opera of the Swiss composer, Rolf Liebermann, which was commissioned by the Louisville Symphony and was given its world premiere in Louisville last December.

It is a one-act opera and will be coupled in a double bill with Mozart's one-act opera which satirizes opera, "The Impresario." The Liebermann piece will be directed by Moritz Bomhard, director of the Kentucky Opera Association, who was both director and conductor for its first performances.

The new season will be the last for Joseph Rosenstock who has resigned as general manager and is to be succeeded by Erich Leinsdorf. The season will open March 28 and run through April 15. Oddly enough, the company has never performed Verdi's "Il Trovatore," during the 12 years it's been in existence. "Il Trovatore" is one of 12 operas scheduled for the new season.

Speaking of one - act operas, two of American origin were staged recently by the opera workshop of the New York College of Music as part of a festival of American music. One was "Tom Sawyer" by Jonathan Elkus of San Francisco; the other, "Captain Lovelace" by John Duke, professor of music at Smith College.

Eleanor Steber has taken a leave of absence from the Metropolitan Opera for the 1956-1957 season to make a four-month world tour beginning January, 1957. It will be under the auspices of the International Exchange Program and will begin in Istanbul and end in Tokyo or Korea.

Vocational Day Scheduled At Northwestern

NATCHITOCHES, March 3 (Special) — "Vocational Opportunities" day has been set at Northwestern State College for Friday, April 6, college officials announced here this week.

High school seniors from 29 parishes in north and central Louisiana — from the Mississippi to the Sabine rivers — will be invited to participate in the day - long event. Invitations will be mailed this week.

Chairman of the committee on high school relations, the group arranging for the influx of the hundreds of students expected here that day, is Dr. Leo T. Allbritten, dean of the Northwestern graduate school.

A tentative program for NSC's visitors on the big day has been scheduled. It will begin with registration in the foyer of the Fine Arts auditorium, to be followed by a general assembly. Next will come special meetings according to subject matter interest. Each student will be asked to attend one of these conclaves.

A campus tour, followed by lunch in the college dining hall, will be forthcoming, to be followed by vocational interest gatherings at various spots throughout the campus. A closing assembly is scheduled for the afternoon.

Twelve sub - committees have been appointed to handle details and arrangements for the special event, first of its kind to be held here in three years.

Suspence, Action Found In 'The Body Snatchers'

The story concerns the invasion of a California town by plant-life from another planet. This fall-out of alien spores takes over a person's body, with the person remaining the same in looks and behaviour except that he or she no longer has a soul or emotion. It is with stark horror, and nail-biting thrills that McCarthy and Miss Wynter learn slowly about this invisible invasion, and the story sets forth their valiant struggle to prevent themselves from also becoming "pods."

Actually, although it combines elements of horror, suspense, and science fiction, the film is best labeled a "science fact" story. It could happen or be happening today. This is how Producer Wanger approached his production. He shot it with reality, using actual sets and towns, and the thrills in the film are abetted by this almost documentary production design.

The film is in Superscope and is one of the most unique ever produced, and in artisty and in performance it compares to the best.

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Yes. As related in "Science Monthly," a TV set rotating on top of a forest fire tower, equipped with a telephoto lens, scans the countryside for miles, just as a tower man does—but more accurately. In a recent test by the Communications Engineers of the Louisiana Forestry Commission, the TV spotted a fire instantly four miles away. Impossible for the human eye to see. When forest fire bugs learn they can be seen miles away, they may exercise a little more of their human discretion.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Don't they though? Flora Lewis says, in N. Y. Times, of the 369,000 babies born each month, 123,000 will dislike their names. The ten most popular names for boys now are, in order, Robert, John, Michael, Richard, William, James, Joseph, Thomas, Paul, and David. The order may change in time, but these names have been popular for centuries. Leading names for girls now are Linda, Mary, Barbara, Patricia, Susan, Kathleen, Carol, Nancy, Margaret, and Diane.

Are you emotionally upset? "Managing Feeling and Emotions" shows you how to control emotions for happiness. Booklet nonprofit. Send 25c, coin only, and stamped, fully addressed reply envelope to Dr. A. E. Wiggam, c-o this newspaper.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. True. Many people "die a thousand deaths" all through life because of the lurid stories of horrible deaths they heard as children. But it is a sign of a mature, confident personality to have no frightening thoughts about death. When the Titanic was sinking, Charles Frohman, a famous theatrical producer, said quietly, "Why be afraid? Death is only the entrance into a greater and happier life." What a grand way to look at it! People who fear death all their lives often die peacefully and unconsciously.

5 DANGEROUS FIRE FALLACIES that can put you OUT OF BUSINESS

FIRE INSURANCE IS ENOUGH PROTECTION

1. FALSE! Insurance companies must demand proof of loss to protect against unscrupulous claims. That's one reason why 43% of all businessmen who lose their records in fire GO BANKRUPT within 6 months!

METAL BLOCKS FIRE

2. FALSE! Ordinary steel files won't burn, but they transmit heat to their contents. Paper needs only a temperature of 350° F.—untouched by flame—to char to a crisp.

FIREPROOF BUILDINGS WON'T BURN

3. PARTLY TRUE! The building won't burn, but its contents will—the inside is usually gutted. Many a bankrupt has thought he was safe.

A FIRE-RESISTANT SAFE IS ENOUGH PROTECTION

4. FALSE—unless your records are in the safe. But 41% of industrial fires happen during the day, when records are exposed. Safe-Files and Safe-Ledger Trays protect records at all times while in use.

RECORD PROTECTION IS EXPENSIVE

5. FALSE! You can own new certified equipment for little more than the price of a used safe. Whatever records you keep, Remington Rand has point-of-use equipment at surprisingly low cost.

What's New in Colgate Dental Cream

It's GARDOL—To Give Up To 7 Times Longer Protection Against Tooth Decay ... With Just One Brushing!

Any toothpaste can destroy decay- and odor-causing bacteria. But new bacteria return in minutes, to form acids that cause decay. Colgate's, unlike any other leading toothpaste,* keeps on fighting decay 12 hours or more!

So, morning brushings with Colgate's help protect all day; evening brushings all night. Gardol in Colgate's forms an invisible, protective shield around teeth that lasts 12 hours with just one brushing. Ask your dentist how often to brush your teeth. Encourage your children to brush after meals. And at all times, get Gardol protection in Colgate Dental Cream!

WHAT DOES THE COAST SAY ABOUT THE FOOTAGE SO FAR?
